BREAKING A CUSTOM.

How the Salt Shaker Was Introduced to the Spaniard. Until a few years ago no Spaniard had on his dining table any other receptacle for salt than the old style open cellar. An enterprising Briton saw this, noted that the sait was atways dirty and gummy and determined to introduce a certain famous salt shaker from which clean salt would run freely in the dampest weather. Bravely he started to tour Spain for the company.

"No, senor; no est costumbre usar mas quo esto" ("No, sir; it's not customary to use more than that"-the old cellar), was the answer of every dealer to whom he presented the novelty. Again and again he was rebuffed. He began to despair when, standing one day gazing into a jeweler's window, a brilliant idea struck him. He entered. INSULTED THE KING.

The Joke a Printer Turned on Louis Philippe and M. Thiere.

One morning during the reign of Louis Philippe there appeared in the Constitutionnel the following startling paragraph:

"His majesty the king received M. Thiers yesterday at the Tuileries and charged him with the formation of a new cabinet. The distinguished statesman hastened to reply to the king: "'I have only one regret, which is that I cannot wring your neck like a turkey's.' A few lines lower down there was ened soul: "'God and man are my witnesse that I have never had any other ambition than to serve your august person and my country loyally to the best his bosom was putting a few stitches which it stands-fronting two blocks of my ability." The printer had just cleverly managed | Aunt Mary. to interchange the two addresses. The cream of the joke was that it was universally known how very little love there was lost between the king and the minister.—Strauss' Reminiscences

Last of the Old Orators. The late Senator John Warwick Daniel of Virginia may be said to have been the last of the old fashloned orators in the house of the conscript fathers. His fame will rest not on his lawbooks, which were excellent; not on his speeches in house and senate, which were strong, but on two masterly orations on Lee and Stone wall Jackson delivered before his entrance into congress. It may well be doubted whether anything superior to them, considered simply as orations. world. They would have delighted Cicero himself.-Champ Clark in Century.

Flogged For Bathing. On an island in the Cam, at Grantchester, is a mill pond known as "Byron's pool" because it was here that the poet as an undergraduate enjoyed his favorite recreation. Even in his day Edward Conybeare tells us in "Highways" and Byways In Cambridge" bathing was a practice somewhat frowned on by the academic authorities. A century or so earlier any student found guilty of it was publicly flogged in the hall of his college and was again flogged on the morrow in the university schools by the proctors. A second offense meant expulsion from the university.

Novelty For New Yorkers. "That sunrise effect is all wrong?" said the stage manager of a New York musical show.

"What's the difference?" replied the scene painter. "Nobody who goes to a musical comedy in New York knows what a sunrise looks like."-Washington Star.

Under the microscope we can get at the secret of the spinning very nicely. We see that there are either four or six teats on the spider near the lower part of the abdomen, almost exactly similar to the teats of a cow. From these issue four or six strands, as the case may be. But these strands themselves are not simple, but are composed of at least a thousand fibers each, for it has been proved that in each teat there is a sieve of at least a thousand holes, through which the silky matter is strained. Thus we see that, fine as is a spider's web, it is yet composed of from 4,000 to 6,000 fibers. Leuwenhoeck states that it would take at least 4,000,000 of the completed threads to make a thread as strong as a silk thread of the size of a hair

As to the color of the thread, our ordinary spiders spin one of a uniform gray color. But in the riotous tropics there are found spiders that spin varicolored webs. One particularly prowhich it binds together with a pleas-
