This is the land that was owned by the late James Henry Long, colored, it is conveniently located to the thriving town of Mebane and makes a nice little farm, the three tract adjoin.

The above described three tracts of land will be sold separately then as a whole, the sale bringing the most money to be reported for confirmation; to be sold upon the following terms, to-wit: One third of the purchase price in money down, and the other two thirds secured by bonds payable in six and twelve months, and carrying interest from day of sale until paid; title to be reserved until payment of purchase money is complete.

H. R. Ireland, Adm's c. t. a. of James Henry Long.

Mr. W. S. Gunsalus, a farmer living near Fleming, Pa., says he has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for fourteen years, and that he has found it to be an excellent remedy, and takes pleasure in recommending it. For sale by all Dealers.

A Burden, Not A Benefit.
The democratic candidate for the Presidency certainly shows courage when he sets out to persuade the farmers of the United States that a protective tariff is not good for them.—Hartford Courant.

The fact is that the time is at hand when the farmers of the United States no longer need to be persuaded that a protective tariff is not a good thing for them. They themselves are fast coming to realize, and in ever increasing numbers, that a tariff policy which forces them to buy in the dearest market, while selling in the cheapest, constitutes not protection, but a handicap; is not a benefit, but a burden. That this is the exact state of the case as matters now stand, and have long stood, must be apparent to anybody possessed of average intelligence and taking the trouble to use it. Of all the great staples the American farmers produce not only enough for home consumption, but a surplus for export. To contend that, under such circumstances, tariff duties do or could affect, one way or the other, the prices of such commodities in the domestic market is to argue a manifest absurdity. The prices of American wheat, corn and other cereals, at home as well as abroad, are fixed at Liverpool, the great hopper into which is poured all the surplus gain of the world.

On the other hand, there is scarcely a thing that the farmer has to buy for the planting, cultivation or harvesting of his crops, or for the comfort and convenience of himself and family, the price of which is not largely enhanced to him as a result of the tariff. This is true of agricultural implements and machinery of all sorts and shapes, of everything that goes into the building and furnishing of his home, of everything that he and his family wear and of a great many things they eat. While the tariff-created and tariff-nurtured Harvester Trust is robbing him in one direction, the Lumber Trust, the Woolen Trust and many of their numerous congeners are all filching from him in others. That the American farmers are prosperous, nevertheless and notwithstanding, only goes to prove that their prosperity is not because of the Tariff, but in spite of it; and to show how much greater that prosperity would be, if the impost schedules were reduced to a revenue level.—Va. Pilot.

Why it Supports Simmons

Among the reasons given by the Lexington Dispatch for its support of Senator Simmons, we quote the following:

Because Senator Simmcns' course has been true to his party and his people. All the efforts to create an impression to the contrary appear, when examined in the light of reason and the record, to be nothing less than the "campaign thunder" of ambitious politicians who dare not run on their records and therefore, to distract attention from their own poor performances, are raising a howl. Senator Simmons stood up for North Carolina in appropriations, in the reciprocity votes and on the tariff schedules, and so far from being criticised, the whole state would be singing his praises but for the misrepresentations and prejudices and false impressions these ambitious politicians have set up.
