

NEW FLY KILLER

North Carolina Man Comes Forward With New Discovery

The Washington Star has the following story of a North Carolina fly killer: "A new discovery for the extermination of flies which may be effective in paving the way to complete eradication of the pests was tried out in the Star's fly campaign headquarters in the municipal building. Several hundred insects were liberated in the room and all were destroyed within less than five minutes. The new method which consists of charging the atmosphere with an alcoholic distillation of the long leaf pine was discovered by Dr. Joseph C. Shepard of Wilmington, N. C. The demonstration was given by Dr. L. J. Morel, who is Dr. Shepard's representative. Dr. Morel is in Washington with a view to interesting the Federal and district government officials in the discovery.

"After a trap containing several hundred flies had been opened in the room, Dr. Morel dusted a small blower for charging the atmosphere with the mixture and within a few minutes the insects began to fall to the floor lifeless and it was not long until all were dead. Several water insects which had been turned loose on the floor expired in the same way. It was explained that flies breathe through the pores in their bodies and that the pine leaf product closes the pores, and thus stops respiration. The mixture, it is stated, is not injurious to human beings, who, of course, breathe in an entirely different way. "The health department may conduct experiments with a view to determining the effectiveness of the preparation in destroying the breeding places of flies."

Few, if any, medicines, have met with the uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The remarkable cures of colic and diarrhoea which it has effected in almost every neighborhood have given it a wide reputation. For sale by All Dealers

Why the Passengers Kicked.
A motor-bus while traveling in Bow road recently was struck in the rear by a tram car, and the impact forced it on to another bus, which was stationary. The latter mounted the pavement and smashed some railings. Passengers in each bus complained of cuts from broken glass.—London Daily News.

Penrose, List To The "Devils" Muse.

The printer's devil in the office of the Perry County Times of Pa., has written some verse and has sent a copy to Senator Penrose, to whom he has dictated it. Here is the introductory stanza.

OH, PROMISE ME.

To be sung by the Hon. Boies Penrose under the window of John D. Ar hbo'd, on a bright moonlight night and with accordion accompaniment. Oh, promise me, the next time you and I shall make a little divvy on the sly.

You'll see that there is no one round about,
So Willie Randolph Hearst can't find it out,
And when you want to slip a wad to me
We'll go way off and hide behind a tree,
So yellow journals can't shout "bribery!"

Oh, promise me! Oh, promise me!
What is your reputation? A pretty smooth article aint you?

A Baltimore millionaire is praying the courts to relieve him of payment of alimony to a one-time better half who is now married again. Reason, we are told by Coke, is the life of the law; and it certainly doesn't look reasonable to compel one man to contribute to the support of the wife of another.

$40 Per Word

Conscientious statisticians have computed that the Sixty-second Congress, just adjourned, uttered 26,000,000 words during 267 days, at a cost to the country of something more than $1,000,000,000. Thus it appears that our Federal lawmakers spent an average of three and three-quarter millions per diem, and that the great sea of their eloquence was poured out at the rate of $40 per word.

Somehow, the only reflection which seems apposite, at first, is the self-accusation of the parrot after his single round with the bull-pup. The parrot admitted, ruefully, as he took his sober second thought: "The trouble with me is, I talk too d---d much!"—Evening Sun, N. Y.

Running up and down stairs, sweeping and bending over making beds will not make a woman healthy or beautiful. She must get out of doors, walk a mile or two every day and take Chamberlain's Tablets to improve her digestion and regulate her bowels. For sale by All Dealers.

The Hell of It.

Fairbrothers' in his Everything attempts and answers. The following is a paragraph from his treatise of the subject.

"Go to the man who wooed and won a maiden fair—a woman like whom, to him, no other was ever in the world; see him walk proudly down the narrow aisle of the little church and him in answer to the preacher's part place the ring upon her hand and implant upon her cheek the kiss of love—the seal of undying and unyielding devotion. See him later when he finds that she has not been true to him—when the serpent of the family that beguiled Eve had drawn its slimy trail to his hearthstone and left darkness and desolation there—pulled down the pillars of the fair temple which his life had builded—leaving her an outcast and him a broken and desperate man—ask him, my brother, if there is a hell—and he will tell you that there is.

What We Never Forget

according to science, are the things associated with our early home life, such as Bucklen's Arnica Salve, that mother or grandmother used to cure our burns, boils, scalds, sores, skin eruptions, cuts, sprains or bruises. Forty years of cures prove its merit. Unrivaled for piles, corns or old sores. Only 25 cents at Mebane Drug Co.

BALANCING ACCOUNTS

If we sit down at set of sun
And count the things that we have done,
And, counting find
One self-denying act, one word
That eased the heart of him who heard,
One glance most kind
That fell like sunshine where it went,
Then we may count the day well spent.

But if through all the livelong day,
We've eased no heart by yea or nay;
If through it all
We've done no thing that we can trace,
That brought the sunshine to a face
No act most small
That helped some soul and nothing cost,
Then count that day as worse than lost."

We would suggest of young parents that it is a dangerous thing to name the baby after William J. Bryan. It may be safe when he is dead, but as long as he lives he is liable to say and do fool things.—David Sonian.

The conditions in the mill villages of North Carolina are usually different. There is always something like a home in many of the villages there are really comfortable homes. There are the gardens and the fresh homegrown vegetables in their season. There is the family poultry yard. There are growing, blooming flowers. The Side Table man has personally visited a number of mill villages in the two Carolinas and he was impressed with the efforts made in many cases to give the employees of the concerns pleasant surroundings.
