THE CHARLOTTE DALY OBSRE AUTOGRAPH TELLS A TALE Character of the Kaiser Revealed to Expert by Close Analysis of

His Signature.

There is always a certain amount of interest attached to the deductions drawn by graphologists from the signatures of eminent men. Here, for example, is an illuminating description of the kaiser's autograph, supplied by an eminent Berlin graphologist: "To begin with, there is a crochet, a sign of pertinacity, followed by a vertical dash, showing audacity, energy, regardless of any obstacle. the power of his instincts. "The other letters forming the signature show similar characteristics," the graphologist proceeds. "The final 'm' is indicative of great diplomacy, which to the analyist suggests subtlety. The letter also suggests the impossibility of the suppression of the 'ego.' The flourish which terminates the imperial autograph shows a suppleness of spirit, a desire to be loved, also self-es-

SUREST TEST OF OLD AGE AMERICAN SOLDIER THE BEST Don't Look at Your Face for the Signs of Time's March-Watch the Heart. The dear little old lady was just as cross as she could be! All because the old-fashioned comductor had said: "Be careful. Watch out, grandma. Don't get off the car

It was probably the first time that from the lips of a stranger came the verdict that the world had begun to look upon her as an old lady.

She must have known that her shoulders were a bit stooped-but old? No, not just in the prime of life, and the very idea of that man calling out: 'Watch out, grandma!"

But after all, what matters what the conductor said? There is a rumor of inner consciousness that should tell one if one is growing old.

"Don't look at your face to see if age is creeping on. Watch the heart. Beware of allowing care to make

Oliver Wendell Holmes summed up the philosophy of life when he said: "I am seventy years young today." Every birthday should see one's heart younger. The only way to keep from growing old is to keep growing young. The only time to begin growing young is before one begins to grow old.

There are mental attitudes and limping worse than those of a faltering foot. There are aches and pains caused by selfishness and narrowness much worse than those of rheumatism. Begin this moment to grow young.

Six Years Building a Clock. Twenty thousand minute pieces of wood entered into the construction of an elaborately ornamented Notre Dame cathedral clock made by James Calway of Skowhegan, Me. This clock, which is finely carved, stands seven feet and ten inches in height and took

Mr. Calway six long years to complete. In the upper story six folding doors open every ten minutes and the apostles appear marching in time to an air played by a large music box that is governed by the clock, each one bowing before the Savior as they pass, except the fourth one (which represents Peter), who turns his back upon the Savior, and the devil comes out of the top of the clock and blows a trumpet in honor of Peter. The second story is in the form of a mansion with double doors in front which also open every ten minutes. Lazavus appears at the rich man's door and on bended knees asks for charity, the dogs licking his sores, and the rich man stands in the door swinging his arm as if he were throwing crumbs from his table. All these movable figures are run by machinery connected with a time movement, so as to work on the minute. The bottom story is a very elaborately designed foundation of fine inlaid work .- Scien-

World's Records for Marksmanship All His, and He is Trained to Act on His Own Initiative.

If there is one big, distinguishing trait of the United States regular, it is individuality. In every one of the great foreign military nations, particuarly Germany and Japan, batallion and company officers and enlisted men are carefully trained not to think for themselves. They are used as mere these pieces under the guidance of a master mind. In this country, where our melting pot has yielded us an exraordinary self-reliant, cool thinking, intensive initiative product, it is only natural that our soldiers should be rained as are our civilians.

The United States army spends and aually on rifle target practice five imes the sum spent by any other ermy of an equal number of men. This applies, too, to our field and coast artillery. As a result, no better marks men can be found than the American soldier and his cousin, the national guardsman, who is trained along the same lines. Every world's fire concrol and accuracy record with rifle and big gun is today held by the American soldier.

The United States army is small in accordance with the will of the people not to support a large standing military establishment. But what we have is almost 100 per cent. efficient, the splendid nucleus of the big army of regulars, militia and volunteers which we should place in the field if occasion required. It is only in equipment — quartermaster, commissary, medicine and particularly ordnance stores—that pur army is lacking.—
