KITCHEN ON THE AMENDMENT.

Those who attack section five are generally opposed to the entire amendment. They do not want many negroes disqualified, but if negroes are disqualified to any large extent, then they want many whites also disqualified. They therefore strive hard to make section five appear unconstitutional while declaring that the other sections will stand. The unlettered white man can have no worse enemy than he who labors on the one hand to prevent disqualification of ignorant and incompetent blacks, and on the other hand after the adoption of the amendment endeavors to prevent unlettered white men from voting by insisting that section five is unconstitutional and shall not stand, and that the balance of the amendment shall stand, thus demanding at every step that the unlettered whites, notwithstanding their greatly superior natural and acquired qualifications, shall be forever chained to equality with unlettered negroes.—W. W. Kitchen, Dem.

The above was clipped from an article written by Congressman Kitchen, of the Fifth North Carolina district, and like all other articles on the subject from a Democratic pen, bristles with misrepresentations of Republicans, and is a weak defense of an outrageous attempt to deprive the people of their rights. Its falsity and inconsistencies I shall show before I conclude this article.

Mr. Kitchen makes a sweeping declaration when he says, "if negroes are disqualified to any large extent, then they want many whites also disqualified." Now, Mr. Kitchen is too intelligent a man, and one who holds the certificate to a seat in Congress ought to be ashamed to allow his name to appear beneath such a statement.

Take every article written and printed by Republicans, and show me where and when we or any of us have advocated disfranchising a white man under any circumstances or conditions. Be fair, truthful and consistent in all things, but don't try to carry your schemes through by misrepresentations. The Republican position is so plain that our Democratic friends find themselves in a dilemma, and can only get around it by misrepresentation. Now, if your wise solons at Raleigh last winter were so hungry for pie, and were determined to violate its promises and pledges made during the campaign of 1888, that you neglected to draft a constitutional provision, and if the courts (in the event of its being counted carried) should declare it unconstitutional in whole or in part, are not you, my Democratic friends, responsible for whatever mischief is wrought by the final result? Of course you are, and no amount of such rot can deceive the people, whom your crowd has deceived and are attempting to further wrong. The Republicans had no hand in drafting your Goebel-Simmons election law; they had no say so in this constitutional amendment business. We are opposed to the whole shooting match, and you had as well resort to other means for carrying these outrageous measures, for the people of North Carolina are too intelligent to be again deceived by any more of Simmons' schemes; and you well know that you have not a shadow of a chance for carrying it without your Goebel-Simmons methods.

Please name the Republican or the Republican paper, that has advocated, or expressed a desire, that if section five is unconstitutional, that he desires or wants the remainder to stand. You can't do it, and when you make such wild assertions, you discredit your entire article and attempt to deceive the people.

Mr. Kitchen himself says it's constitutional; that ought to settle it, but it does not, for he again says that it will stand or fall as a whole. We sincerely hope it will fall as a whole should it be counted in. We are fighting your infamous election law as a whole; we are fighting the amendment as a whole, and we are trying to show the people that mischief lurks beneath its every provision. We are striving to show the unlettered whites that the Democratic party is as anxious to get rid of the ignorant white as he is to get rid of the negro, and I believe I can prove the assertion from Mr. Kitchen's own assertion. Read this and see how it sounds: "Thus demanding at every step that the unlettered whites, notwithstanding their greatly superior natural and acquired qualifications, shall be forever chained to equality with unlettered negroes." The above language of Mr. Kitchen applies to those against the amendment. Now, my Democratic friends, let's see your consistency in that assertion. Who has made such a condition even possible in North Carolina? Your last Democratic Legislature. Eh?

The unlettered whites are to be forever chained to equality with unlettered negroes after 1908, by the provisions of this amendment if adopted, which was passed by an overwhelmingly Democratic Legislature. Now, Mr. Democrat, please answer this question: If the unlettered white man, with his greatly superior natural and acquired qualifications, is a competent voter now, and next year, why is he not qualified after 1908? Won't he be as good a man after 1908 as he is now? Won't he be as intelligent in 1908 as he is now? Then why do you cut him off after 1908, and forever chain him to an equality with unlettered negroes?

The people of North Carolina want this question answered; they want no evasions, no beating the bushes. Come out squarely, honestly, and tell us why the white man should be chained forever to an equality with unlettered negroes after 1908. No dodging; honor bright. It needs an explanation; out with it.

We pause for reply.

The verdict of the Kentucky election, held last Thursday, is still claimed by both parties. There appears to an unbiased reader of the returns to be little doubt that Taylor was elected, but there is just as little doubt that Goebel will be inaugurated. That is what the Goebel election law was passed for.—Charlotte Observer.

"An honest confession is good for the soul." Yes, and that is what the Goebel-Simmons election law was passed for by the wise solons in this State last winter. Is it not a disgrace to the State of Kentucky, and will it not be a disgrace to our own beloved State if the people endorse, or allow the machine to run roughshod over the people? All Anarchists are not dead, we are sorry to say; even North Carolina is cursed with them. Away with them!
