Uncle Zeke's Letter.

Uncle Zeke, in Home and Farm.

As we enter the new year there are many things to think of. It comes to us full of glorious opportunities. We are just entering upon a new era of prosperity, and it behooves us to make the most of it. We want to have our farms and business in the best shape possible. Something constantly proves a failare and has to be kicked out or the way, but that should only strengthen us to renewed efforts and greater energy. There will always be some failures, and often they teach us our most important lessons and are by no means vain and useless.

I don't know that we need put great stress on making new reso lations with the coming of the new year, It should be our purpose to do our best at all times. There should be no lapses into indefferent, careless or evil ways at any time. It should always be our daily delight to do the best we can in all things. It should be the habit of our lives. That is the true way to live. There is no necessity for any other.

So far as morals are concerned, a man doesn't have to wait till campmeeting time before he quits his meanness. The time to quit is ow. In fact, he ought never have begun. There is no good sense or excuse for immoral conduct. This world was so constructed by its builder that it always pays to do right, and brings loss to do wrong. Short-sighted people sometimes think otherwise, but they are mistaken.

The wrong deed brings its own penalty even before the day of fi nalreckoning. If the farmer adulterates his butter with lard or leaves too much water or salt it, the customer wi?l find him out and quit trading with him. I you mix in spoilt eggs with good ones, you will be the greatest loser. If you are tricky in trade and make a point of always driving a "sharp" bargain, people will find you out and your character will soon become so well known that honest folks will avoid you and you will have to fight it out with the "crooks" and "sharps" of your own kind, who will not hesitate to take every advantage of you that is possible. They will consider you legitimate prey, because you laid the first example. Nothing is truer than the old adage that howesty is the best policy.

Another thing we should do is to find our right place in the world and stick to it. It never pays to be constantly changing from one thing to another. In that way we are always earning learner's wages and make no progress toward efficiency and its rewards. It takes in a given line. The lawyer has to starve almost for five or ten not so bad as that with the farmer, operations on that ground. but the same principle holds. It you start in the dairy business it Vick's Family Remedies Co., would be very foolish to quit at had little more than, cleared expenses. You are then only ready to make a good profit the second year, if you have done your duty as a business dairyman. Of course, there may be some extraordinary

It is time to make a change, and there is no better time for this change than in this blessed year of 1910.

Are You Honest?

With your land when for the sake of saving a few dollars you use a fertilizer whose only recommendation is its analysis. It requires no special knowledge to mix materials to analyses. The value of a fertilizer lies in the materials used, so as not to over feed the plant at one time and starve at another. This is why Royster brands are so popular. Every ingredient has its particular. Twenty-five work to do. years experience in making goods for Southern crops has enabled us to know what is required.
