The Surveys for the S. & W. A. L. R. R.
From the Shelby New Era.
We are glad that work upon the surveys for the Southern and Western Air Line has been begun under the supervision of so experienced and accomplished an engineer as Major Wilson. His ability and strong interest in the success of the road, over and above his official connection with it, will insure every effort being made for the adoption of the best line. It is, to a citizen of Cleveland county, still more gratifying to know that an honest effort will be made to comply with the terms of the subscription, that the road should be built from Shelby in the direction of Cranberry as nearly as practicable through the centre of the county. What this means need not now be discussed. Every man in the county understands it and knows the circumstances under which it was framed. Major Wilson's assurances that he will endeavor, in good faith, to secure the most practicable route running nearest through the centre of the county and that he will try to satisfy all the reasonable people of the county with his determination should be satisfactory.

Wipe Out the Internal Revenue.
The Cincinnati Gazette, republican, very properly says:
"The Internal Revenue system should be wiped out absolutely. It was justifiable only as a war necessity. The war being over, and the revenues being in excess of the wants of the Government, it should be abolished. There is a sentiment in favor of maintaining the tax because it is imposed upon liquors and tobacco, but sentiment is not business. The Internal Revenue system has served to cause more perjury and dishonesty than any scheme that ever was or ever could be devised for the collection of revenue. It has demoralized hundreds of thousands of people. It has converted an army of honest men into thieves and perjurers. It has, in addition, caused a blanket of suspicion to rest upon every man, almost, engaged in the liquor or tobacco business. At the same time it has maintained an army of office-holders. The sooner these are remanded to industrial pursuits the better; and the sooner the detectives, whose business it is to convict somebody of rascality, the better for the morals of the country. As to the mere sentiment, there is nothing in that. The tax on liquor and tobacco does not diminish the consumption a particle. There should be no half-way work about the business. The true policy is to wipe out the Internal Revenue system root and branch. That would dispose of the surplus revenue very largely, and at the same time wipe out largely the demoralized influences that are cursing the country."

The Johnson County Burglars in Limbo.
From the Raleigh News and Observer.
Sheriff D. W. Fuller of Johnston county, yesterday brought to the penitentiary five of the gang of burglars, who, during the first part of this year, kept the good citizens of some portions of Johnston county in continual terror by making various bold depredations, breaking into houses and shooting at people in the vicinity of Smithfield and Selma. In the gang there was a colored preacher, who, when they were captured and put upon trial, turned State's evidence, and escaped his dues of the rope or a long term in the penitentiary. Two of those brought in were sentenced to seven years each and three to one year each.
The great success of many agents employed by B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, is a pretty good evidence of the excellence and popularity of the books they offer to sell through their agents. This is a reliable house, and any contract made with them you can depend on will be faithfully carried out.

The Sumter Defalcation.
SUMTER, S. C., Aug. 25.—Col. Samuel McD. Tate, of Morganton, North Carolina, a Government bank examiner, arrived here late yesterday evening and was closeted with President Wallace until a very late hour in the night. He took charge of the bank this morning and has been busy all day examining its affairs. He cannot yet say anything definite about its condition, as the investigation has not progressed far enough. He says, so I am told on the streets, that the examiner who was here in March last, and who pronounced the books in excellent condition, could not have made a very thorough examination, or he could not have made such a report, as the books were then, as well as now, in a very bad condition.
It seems that very few persons, if anybody at all, had any idea that Bartlett was speculating in futures, although it was known that he possessed great betting propensities and has for several years been investing heavily in the Louisiana State Lottery. On Monday morning, a short time after his flight became known, an express package was delivered at the bank for Bartlett, which, upon being opened, was found to contain a check of a New Orleans bank or a New York bank for $150, and $124 worth of lottery tickets. During the Presidential campaign of 1884 Bartlett is known to have won several hundred dollars on the result. At that time one of his bondsmen wrote him that he desired to come off the bond, but for some reason he remained on it. No suspicion was entertained then, however, that anything was wrong with him. One of the counsel for the bondsmen told me this afternoon that they intended fighting the matter to the last. Major Green, Bartlett's father-in-law, telegraphed his family that it will be impossible for him to come out here at present.

An Affecting Incident.
At Greenville, S. C., one day last week, a venerable colored man named Peter Herbert was arraigned in court on the charge of retailing liquors without license. When the witness for the government had been examined, the venerable ex-Governor Conham went on the stand to testify to the good character of the defendant. Tall and erect with eyes still glowing with the fire of eloquence, he stood and asserted the honor of Herbert, who, for forty years had been his trusted slave and friend, and although over 70 years old enfeebled with recent illness, he had made a journey of over 100 miles for the sole purpose of defending faithful old Peter in his hour of need. The incident was rendered more touching when Adjutant-General Bonham, Peter's "young master," appeared as his attorney, performing the service as a pure gratuity to the old man. The case ended in acquittal, and tears of gratitude streamed down the face of Peter, as he expressed his thanks to "old master" and to "young Mass Millego."

The Longest Beard.
Globe Democrat.
There lives at Corinth, Miss., a characteristic man, personally and historically. Phillip Henson is a person of imposing presence and appearance. He is a farmer of small means, but more progressive and wide awake than is usual with his class. He is about 60 years of age, six feet two inches tall, straight as an Indian, and, standing erect, his beard reaches the ground. It is the growth of eleven years, and is still growing. It is unquestionably the longest beard ever seen in any age of the world.
No preparation could have made such a reputation as Salvation Oil has in so short a time, without intrinsic merit of the highest order. It kills pain. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Give the Boys Employment.
Correspondence of the Charlotte Chronicle.
I have some reasons to write on this subject. I am aware that there are many young men who are in search of some sort of honest employment, and whose hearts sink in despair and turn into the downward road. Why? Because there are, it is remarkable, so many well meaning business men in the country who rudely turned away boys and young men who approached them in search of employment. They don't seem, I suppose, to think how much of discouragement to a young man with high hopes and honest purposes in search of employment there is in the rude, indifferent answer, "No, I have no work for you." We dare say—in fact, we know—that many a boy with honest ambition and lofty purpose, heard this answer from the business man until his fond heart sank in despair. It is false to assume that because of his being out of employment, and engaged in hunting something to do, he is not worthy of a business man's attention. There can be no better recommendation of a young man than his earnest pursuit of some sort of honorable and profitable employment. The business man who gives no encouragement to such a young man lacks the best elements of manhood and good fellow-citizenship. He may be evidently guilty of gross wrong; no matter if the boy in search of work be clad in rags, the biggest and busiest man in the section falls short of his duty, if he fails to give polite attention and a word of encouragement to his honest ambition. Will you deny the houses of correction? The jails or penitentiaries are filled annually with persons whose lives might have been honorable and fortunate had they just a word of encouragement at the proper time from the business man, upon whom they looked with admiration and respect.
A boy is a strange and restless animal, indeed, and he is bound to do something; but if he can't get some work to do he will do some devilment. He becomes heart-sick and discouraged, because, in pursuit of employment, he has been answered "No," with the emphasis of a frown by men whom he hopefully appealed to for aid. So many a boy has already felt the hot tears of disappointment burn his cheeks as he bade adieu to his fond ambitions and set his face toward the "Bad." It is cruel to blow up a boy's fondest hopes, and no human man will do it. Speak kindly to the boys. Give them encouragement. Give them a pleasant smile, instead of a frown; and when they are found in search of work encourage them to persevere. It will cost you nothing for doing this; and if you fail to do this, it may cost the boy his honor, his life and break the heart of his dear mother. We dare say again, give the boys encouragement.

Post Stories.
Salsbury Watchman.
The Western Carolinian, of Hickory, exposes the absurdities of a new trick by one Hoover, to extract money from persons who do not watch closely for themselves. It is known as a Post Store, made up by contributions by those who become members of the organization. The ostensible object of the organization is to procure goods cheaper than can be bought of regular merchants. The real or true object is to put money in Mr. Hoover's pocket. We say to the readers go slow if any one comes around asking you to join in making up funds to establish a "Post Store." There is something in it, no doubt, but it is not for the poor man who trusts his money to the management of Hoover's scheme.

Move the World.
Magnolia (Miss.) Gazette.
"Stand where you are," says Goethe, "and move the world." This is well said by the great German. It is a nice sentiment. Indeed, it meets our approval; or, as a politician would say, "It shall have my vote." But he who stands where he is and tries to move the world will probably find it a very hard old thing to move. This moving the world is a very serious sort of business.
Archimedes only asked for a place to fix his fulcrum, and he would move the world; but the world went right on without any help from the mathematician of Syracuse. In our youth, with the bright visions of hope in all their golden colors before us, we imagined we were quite up to the work of moving the world. One proposes to do it in the law. He will master his profession—he will go the sources of jurisprudence—he will astound the world by his learning, or he will move the world by his eloquence. Well, he begins and chews the bitter cud of experience awhile. It results in finding that the world is hard to move and that many who were as intent as he, and who had long before made the same resolution, had given up in despair. The high ideal had to be subordinate to tread mill work.
Now and then comes a man whose nature is so royal, and whose aims are so high, and whose power of endurance is so grand, that he is able to move the world of living hearts which come under his influence, and men bless him for his work. But these are rare exceptions. The true thing for us to do, is learn what we can do best, and bend our energies to that end and nothing more. Thus, if we do not move the world, we shall do some good in it and leave it with a consciousness that it is no worse for our having lived. There may be many others sources of satisfaction, but few greater than this—of having lived if not a brilliant life, a useful one. The final test of all things is use. Even that beauty which has no use, can hardly be called beautiful.
The Grand Army Republic organization at the North is getting to be a great nuisance to the country in the way of demanding pensions from the Government and venting spite on all people who do not agree with their exorbitant demands. A telegram from Wheeling, West Virginia, says [that the members of the Grand Army who participated in the demonstration in that city last week refused to pass under the portrait of President Cleveland, suspended from the Register office. The entire column made a detour and dropped their colors in passing the picture. The action caused considerable excitement in the city. There were over five thousand veterans in line from West Virginia, western Pennsylvania and Ohio.
That was the way the procession fellows wanted to spite Mr. Cleveland for vetoing some swindling Pension Bills passed by the last Congress.—Charlotte Home Democrat.
A Woman's Discovery.
"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at John Tull's Drug Store.

Consumption, Wasting Disease, And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites—the one supplying strength and flesh; the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by its use. This is not an assumption, but facts that are substantiated by the experience of the past 15 years, and the endorsements of thousands of the best Physicians throughout the Country.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR
BILIOUSNESS
Is an affection of the Liver, and can be thoroughly cured by that Grand Regulator of the Liver and Biliary Organs, SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. MANUFACTURED BY J. H. SIMMONS & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.
I was afflicted for several years with disordered liver, which resulted in a severe attack of jaundice. I had as good medical attendance as our section affords, who failed utterly to restore me to the enjoyment of my former good health. I then tried the favorite prescription of one of the most renowned physicians of Louisville, Ky., but to no purpose; whereupon I was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator. I found immediate benefit from its use, and it ultimately restored me to the full enjoyment of health.
