

Live Like Lovers.

Durham Sun.
 Married people should treat each other like lovers all their lives—then they would be happy. Bickering and quarrelling would soon break off love affairs; consequently lovers indulge in such only to a very limited extent. But some people—men and women both—when they are once married, think that they can do just as they please, and it will make no difference. They make a great mistake. It will make all the difference in the world. Women should grow more devoted and men fonder after marriage, if they have the slightest idea of being happy as wives and husbands. It is losing sight of this fundamental truth which leads to hundreds of divorces. Yet many a man will scold his wife who would never think of breathing a harsh word to his sweetheart; and many a wife will look glum and morose on her husband's return who had only smiles and words of cheer for him when he was her suitor. How can such people expect to be happy.

The Figure IIII on Clocks.

Have you ever noticed that on the dial of all clocks and watches where Roman numerals are used, the figure four is written IIII instead of IV? The explanation of this carries us back to the year 1370, when the first on record which approached in accuracy of movement the clock of the present day, was constructed by Henry Vice, for Charles V of France. This monarch was surnamed The Wise, and although he had a good degree of practical knowledge, he was not versed in the sciences. Like many other people he hated to acknowledge his ignorance, and often assumed to know what he did not. So when the watch was brought to him he thought it would be a sign of wisdom to find some fault with it, and declared that the IV should be four I's. "You are wrong, your majesty," said Vice. "Take it away and correct the figure and put IIII." And it was done.

For my Sake.

Baltimorean.
 These three little words are the touchstone of love. The application of this touchstone begins with infancy and ends only with the end of life. If that baby in its mother's arms could speak intellectually it would say: "It is for my sake that a mother's eye watches unsleeping through midnight hours, and her arms hold me until they are ready to drop off for weariness."—"For my sake" many a successful man acknowledges gratefully that his parents toiled and economized in order to buy books and pay college bills. "For my sake" provides the sheltering roof and the arm-chair for dear old grandma and the fireside. Take these words out of our language and you would rob home of its sweetness and human life of its noble aspirations.

A Safe Investment.

Is one which is guaranteed to bring you satisfactory results, or in case of failure a return of purchase price.
