NUMBER 1.

NOT YET, HONEY.

Well, well! A-body can hardly realize that Peace has come back to the World. After such a long and bloody struggle it certainly does seem good to know that we are to have at least a breathing spell.

If we had any assurance that the Peace which has now come would be permanent, and that it meant the final end of all war, it certainly would be great stuff. But we have no such assurance. Some of the optimistic statesmen have got it all fixed out how they will prevent future wars with their League of Nations, and so on, but I am mighty much afraid they are mistaken.

Then maybe you think I don't want this to be the end of war. Yes-sir-ee-Bob, I would be the tickledest feller in seven states if I could know that this was the final end of all war. But there are strong reasons why I can't believe it just yet.

Of course this Peace is all right so far as it goes. It does me good plum to my gizzard to see old Bill Hohenzollern have to crawl off of his high roost and beg for mercy like any other whipped dog. I am glad Germany has learned that she couldn't run over the world. But the mere whipping of Germany is not going to prevent future wars. There has got to be something else done. The danger is that the winning nations will now be so proud and stuck up over their victory that they will want to keep up their great fighting strength and prowl around over the world looking for somebody else to whip. After spending all this money to get so well fixed for fighting they will never be willing to stop off and not use their big fighting outfits any more.

And so there's where the future trouble comes in. As long as the machinery of war is kept up there will be wars, and there is no use to figure on anything else. In some way or other the world has got to become willing to entirely get rid of its armies and navies. It has got to go to beating its swords into plowshares and its spears into pruning-hooks, and it has not got to that point yet.

But it will come to it before long. The movement toward universal peace has started, and there will not be much delay till the goal is reached.

One important thing to remember about the coming of Everlasting Peace is that the new Israel Kingdom will have a big hand in it. As matters now stand we see that the Allied Powers are going to help the Jews to re-establish their nation in Palestine. They think it will be just a little dependent nation and will always be under the thumb of the big Gentile powers. But that's where they have got another guess coming. In a very few years Israel will be the Big Power of the world, and the present big Gentile powers will have their wings crapped pretty tolerable short.

But the new Israel nation will not be composed of just the Jews as we know them now. It will be composed of Judah (the present Jews) and Israel (the Lost Ten Tribes) all brought back together and re-united into one big nation, as the Bible says they will be. For proof that the Bible does say this, read my other article in this issue called, "Judah and Israel."

And so the next war will be between Restored Israel and the rest of the world. When Israel begins to get big and strong the rest will get jealous o. her and declare war. If I am right in my calculations that war is certain to come, and it will come sooner than you think. And that will be the LAST WAR sure enough.

WATCH THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

The next thing on the program is the Big Peace Conference. And never before did a peace conference have such a job. The map of Europe, and part of Asia and Africa, will have to be re-made. New nations will be born and old nations will be re-born.

But from the Bible student's standpoint the most interesting thing that can possibly happen at the Conference will be the re-birth of the Jewish nation. Other things may or may not happen, but that one thing is certain. The Allied Nations have promised the Jews that they shall have their Holy Land and set up their own government again. England and France have driven the Turks out of Palestine, and now there is nothing to do only for the Jews to walk in and go to work.

The Old Testament prophets devote at least a third of their space to telling about this very restoration that we are now about to see, and they make it very plain that the restoration of the Jews means the end of this Age and the beginning of a New Age—an Age of universal and everlasting peace and happiness on earth.

You know the Jews have never accepted Jesus as their Messiah, but they are still looking for one to come. They are in a high state of expectancy right now. The prospect of immediate restoration to their home land and to national existence gives them reason to expect that the coming of their Messiah is near.

Well, the great King of the Jews is coming again very soon, and they are getting back home just in time to be ready for His coming. But they don't know it is going to be the same Jesus that they crucified. He will come this time in exactly the way and manner that they were expecting Him to come the other time, and this time they will accept Him.

The Lost Tribes of Israel will be found and joined with the Jews into a great nation over which Jesus, the Messiah, will reign as a personal earthly king. The whole world will come under His dominion, and the earth will be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord as the waters cover the sea. Then is when all our dreams of peace and happiness will come true.

But before that happens, the Jews will be led into accepting another—a false Messiah—very likely the present Pope of Rome, who will, of course, have a hand in the Peace Conference. This Anti-Christ, whoever he is, will emerge right out of this Peace Conference, and I have good grounds for believing it will be the Pope. He will pose as a great friend to the Jews and will make fair promises to them, but in three or four years he will break his promise and begin to persecute them. He will make war against them, and that is why I say there will be one more war. And in that final war, at the point where Restored Israel is just about to be crushed and there seems no hope—right there the true Messiah will make His appearance and save the day for His Chosen People. Right then they will accept Him, and right then His glorious reign over the earth will begin.

And I tell you, folks, these things are coming to a head right now, and they are going to be the biggest and most important events that this world has ever seen.

Read your Bible and your newspaper together. Watch the Peace Conference. Watch the Jews, and watch the Pope. And when you see all these things come to pass, remember that I told you so.

Look out for a ragged tramp named Bill Hohenzollern at your kitchen door, and don't give him nary cold tater ner nuthin.

Next! Who wants the job of whipping the world?

A Sermon On Judah and Israel

They accuse me of always trying to spring something new. And now if you will double up your hind leg and sit down on it and listen a few minutes I'll try to tell you something else that you perhaps never thought about.

You have read in the Bible about "Judah" and "Israel," and you thought both of these words meant the same thing. You thought they both had reference to the people that we call the Jews. Or if you didn't have it fixed just that way, then you thought "Israel" meant the church, or the saved people. A lot of folks have got that notion in their noggins. They try to spiritualize the word Israel and make it apply to the Christian people as a whole, without any regard to race or blood.

But they are barking up the wrong tree again. The word Israel don't mean Christians any more than it means Jews, and it certainly don't mean either one. This here business of trying to pull and haul words around and make them mean something that they don't mean, just in order to fit somebody's fool creed—that's the cause of so much confusion and misunderstanding about the Bible.

The word Judah has reference to the Jews, of course. But we must remember that the Jews as we know them today do not represent the whole family of Jacob—they are just a very small part of it.

You know Jacob had another name besides Jacob. After he had that wrestling-match with the angel and got the best of it, God decided that he deserved some special honor for the deed, and so He told Jacob that he should be called Israel after that. I reckon it was sorter like the surnames that people have now, and if it had happened in these days he would have been called Jake Israel—just like Bill Jones or John Brown.

Well, you know old man Jake Israel had twelve boys, and they all married and raised families, and it wasn't long until Grandpa Israel had the biggest family of descendants in that whole Congressional District. Each of the twelve families grew into a tribe, and they were known as the Twelve Tribes of Israel.

You remember the story about Joseph's boyhood—how his brothers sold him into Egypt and how he became the Herbert Hoover of Egypt and saved up
