BRIEFS OF GENERAL NATURE.

The Lewis Investment Company of Des Moines has failed. Liabilities $400,000. Assets $425,000.

The Hawaiian government has under consideration the granting of a full pardon to ex-Queen Liliuokalani for her attempt to recover her throne.

The coke workers of the Connellsville, Pa., region Christmas day got an advance of from 10 to 15 per cent. Nearly 18,000 workers will be benefited.

The Lawrence reduction works at Lawrence, Cripple Creek, Colo., were burned Tuesday. The plant cost $100,000. The loss of supplies is $8,000. Insurance $50,000.

In sentencing a "green goods" man at New York Recorder Goff said the Legislature should pass a law providing for the punishment as felons of farmers who come to town to buy green goods.

J. R. Bright, president of the First National Bank of Corsicana, Tex., committed suicide Tuesday in his private office by shooting himself through the head. No cause is known for the suicide.

The Bank of Farmington, Ill., a private institution, located at Farmington, ten miles north of Canton, failed Monday afternoon. Jackson Mason was the owner. Assets and liabilities about $20,000.

A St. Louis, Mo., special says: Monday's subsidence of the floods throughout the State was only temporary. Rain and snow fell over a large area that night and this morning again flooded the streams.

A special from Little Rock says the Arkansas river has continued to rise during the past forty-eight hours. The river is full of trees, brush and debris. The river is only one foot below the danger line.

A Dublin special says: A life boat belonging at Kingstown capsized in Dublin Bay Tuesday while endeavoring to reach and rescue the crew of an English bark which was flying signals of distress and the entire crew of seventeen men were drowned.

The worst storm for years prevailed over north and central Texas from midnight until 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. The wind blew a hurricane and rain fell in torrents. Much damage has been done to railroads and all trains are late.

A special from Vienna says the most recent advices received there from Asia Minor say that the Armenians at Zeitoun are still besieged. The official report of the attack on Mehel is probably intended to discount a fresh or impending slaughter of Armenians.

Claims the Whole Road. A strange story comes from Flat River, Durham county. It is the matter of Miss E. B. Teasley and the L. & D. railroad.

The public will remember that some years ago the Lynchburg & Durham railroad procured the privilege of running their track through her land, or rather her meadow. The commissioners awarded her the sum of $500. This was considered a very liberal allowance. The company paid the amount into the office of the clerk of the Superior Court of Durham county. Miss Teasley has persistently declined to receive it.

Several years ago she advertised the road for sale to the highest bidder. The sale was held, but there were no bidders, and she now lays claim to the whole road.

Under the law, unclaimed property, remaining for a certain number of years, shall be turned over to the State University. The time has nearly, or about, expired, and the sum of $450 will be turned over to the University. Miss Teasley has been informed of this fact, but still she declines to receive it.

The President will on January 4, 1896, issue his proclamation admitting the Territory of Utah as a State of the Union, and the terms of the State officers will begin on the following Monday.

Instead of two great Christian countries, like England and the United States, fighting each other, how much better it would be for them to unite in protecting the Armenian Christians from the cruelties of the unspcakable Turk!

CONGRESS AND CURRENCY.

The Subject One of Vital Importance to Every Man.

The problem presented to Congress by the President's call for Treasury relief is simple enough. We have $346,000,000 in greenbacks and about $155,000,000 in Treasury notes of 1890 outstanding, to say nothing of the silver certificates.

We have undertaken and by law pledged ourselves to redeem all this paper in gold or silver coin, nominally at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, but practically at the discretion of the persons presenting the notes for redemption. As our gold dollars are worth about twice as much as our silver dollars, everybody who owns silver notes for redemption demands gold.

But we have another law which requires the Treasury, as soon as any of these notes are redeemed, to pay them out again and keep them in circulation. That is to say, the Treasury must continue to pay its debts without decreasing their amount by a single dollar.

Meantime everybody who owes taxes to the Government is permitted to pay them in currency, and this currency also must under the law be paid out again and kept in circulation.

In brief, the Treasury, which stands pledged to the continually repeated gold redemption of $500,000,000 of re-issuable notes, gets no gold at all in its revenues and has no source of gold supply except the sale of bonds.

There are just two ways out. One of them is to stop reissuing paper money once redeemed in gold or received in taxes. The other is to provide in some way for a gold supply at less cost than is now possible.

The present Congress is indisposed to adopt either of these courses. The House is divided in opinion. It is mainly committed against any reduction of the currency volume or any substitution of bank notes for legal tenders. The Senate as newly constituted is in the hands of the free-silver men, who do not want to provide for or continue gold redemption, but desire instead to force the country to a South American free-silver basis at 16 to 1 as speedily as possible.

With Congress in such a temper it was hardly worth while for it to surrender its holiday recess upon pretense of desiring to provide for Treasury necessities—New York World.

A Jar Was Needed.

We were inclined to think on a second reading of President Cleveland's message to Congress on the Venezuelan boundary question that he had been perhaps unnecessarily pointed in his declaration that the United States might use force to prevent Great Britain from taking from Venezuela more territory than the proposed commission should allot. It occurred to us that the President might just as well have recommended the appointment of the commission and left to Congress the making of the threat of war.

But in connection with this branch of the subject it is well to recall that we have for years, in correspondence with her Majesty's ministers, urged on the government of Great Britain that the question was one that ultimately belonged to arbitration to determine and settle; that we felt great concern that this should be done, and that we looked with disfavor on any attempt to settle the dispute in any other way. England has been graciously pleased to receive all our recommendations, and to give to them about the same consideration she would a protest from the king of Ashantee. We have had a deal for her ear now and then about the Monroe doctrine, but it is in evidence that the great mass of the English people who take an interest in such matters had only the slightest appreciation of the fact that it was, as Goldwin Smith, the eminent Canadian says, "not a manifesto of American aggrandizement, but a charter of independence for this continent." The undoubted fact that that doctrine could mean anything to England did not once occur to the minds of the English people.

It was necessary that such dense ignorance of the feeling of the American people in connection with the extension of the boundaries of foreign colonies on this continent should be abolished. We have the record of all these years to prove that that ignorance could not be removed by the involved compliments of diplomacy. The day for fine words was past. England needed a jar, an assault to bring her to a contemplation of the exact situation. Nothing further is needed to prove this than Lord Salisbury's assertion that the Monroe Doctrine is not in international law. He now knows that we do not care whether it is or not; and he knows, and the whole English people know, that heretofore the Monroe Doctrine and its provisions must be taken into serious account. That President Cleveland has accomplished this much is to say that he has accomplished more in that line than all the presidents and their secretaries for the last 25 years.—Asheville Citizen.

Circular to the A, B and C Bondholders—It Strongly Opposes Disengagement of the System.

The Reorganization Committee have issued the following circular: The result of the meeting of the bondholders on December 23d developed the fact that the proposition of the New York committee, even if it could be carried out, which is doubtful, does not give so much to the holders of A bonds as does the plan proposed by the Baltimore committee and involves practically a sacrifice of the B and C bonds, which is not warranted by the situation.

Nothing was decided at the meeting except that the New York Committee, which had purchased a small majority of the A bonds, would not concur in the plan of the Baltimore Committee, but this action on their part had long been foreseen and provided against.

The plan of the Baltimore Committee has been accepted by more than a majority of the total outstanding bonds of the Company, and many bondholders (including some A bondholders) who were in doubt as to their position before the meeting have already signed the new agreement.

Bondholders who have not signed the new agreement are urged to call at the office of the Secretary, Mr. Frank T. Redwood, 208 East German street, (or any other member of the Committee,) and sign at once. The Committee have no doubt as to the final result, and in this opinion they are sustained by their counsel, Messrs. Cowen, Cross & Bond.

It is bondholders who will come forward at once and sign the agreement, the Committee feel sure that they can preserve the property and restore its value. This Committee has been acting in the interest of all the bondholders for the purpose of speculating in the bonds. B and C bondholders are advised not to sell their bonds at the prices which have been offered by the New York Committee, as they will be made much more valuable under the Baltimore plan. There can be no reasonable doubt but that this road can easily earn fixed charges under the plan proposed by the Baltimore Committee, and, after some necessary improvements in its condition, pay dividends on its Preferred Stock as the net earnings of the road in the past six months demonstrated. The statements which were made at the meeting should convince every bondholder of the value of this property if reorganized and the control vested in the owners of the bonds as provided for.

How Many Wives Are There?

The good wife is always good. Nothing puts her out. She may have neuralgia, a tippy cook and twins who always cry at the same time, but she never looks cross or speaks hastily, and she always sees that dinner is ready at the proper moment. The children may have mumps, chicken pox and measles, and the plumbers may have stopped the Croton water because they are fixing the main pipe; the baker, butcher and milk man may present their little bills with exasperating frequency and with reproachful remarks appended, and the iceman may have "struck," but when husband comes she always smiles beautifully and has something nice and cool all ready in the refrigerator.

She never mentions disagreeable bills to the partner of her soul and never asks for money, but she is always nicely dressed in cool, fluted muslin, or good rich cashmere, or something like that. No dowdy calico wrapper on her. She makes everything herself—out of nothing—elegantly.

She is charming. All the men envy him, but she never flirts. She is always so glad to have his milk with them, and to take her advice in everything. But, most of all, when he comes home at 4 o'clock in the morning, walking very feebly and with exceedingly weak knees, she never casts a doubtful look at his statement that "they've been taking stock down at our place," whatever may be the season of the year, and she always pities him for having to work so hard.—Philadelphia Times.

WHAT CHRISTMAS MEANS.

"Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men," is the Best it Brings to Mankind.

What profound emotions of gratitude should swell up in every human heart at the mention of this now well-nigh universal holiday! But it is to be feared that the vast majority of those who observe it have no true conception of its true meaning. Even many of those whose idea of it is that it is a time to bestow and receive gifts do not fully comprehend what is meant by this hallowed and common custom.

Christmas not only commemorates the birth of Christ, who gave His life as a ransom for a sinful world, but typifies the ineffable gift of God, who "so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

Paul tells us that salvation "is the gift of God," from whom, as James says, is "every good and perfect gift." Paul also declares in writing to the Ephesians that when Christ ascended upon high He "led captivity captive and gave gifts unto men." What are some of these gifts which are thus typified and intended to be commemorated by the custom of gift-giving in Christmas tide? "Peace on earth, good will to men," is the boon it brings to mankind as a whole.

Christmas, as a commemoration of the birth of Christ, without reference to His sacrificial atonement, would be meaningless. True, He taught grand lessons of love and duty, and of self-sacrifice for the good of others, but to the sublime climax of all these teachings was His sufferings and death on the cross on account of the sins of mankind. This has been aptly called the tragedy of the world—a tragedy in which every human soul has an interest, because it provides for human wants—a balm in Gilead, a fountain for uncleanness, redemption from sin, and a joy forever. These personal and spiritual gifts have been conferred upon mankind by the coming of Him whose birth is celebrated at Christmas. The world as a whole has had an uplift in direct ratio as the lessons of His life and death have been revealed to it. Genuine and helpful civilization wait upon Christianity.

The sign of the tripple cross is not, as Ingersoll in his book makes it, the emblem of superstition, hate and cruelty, which he transposes to telegraph poles labeled "for the use of man," but the cross, typifying Christianity, ever precedes enlightenment, invention and all that tends to human progress and human happiness. The latter cartoon, representing the Christian church as a woman carrying the cross and the bright light of Christian truth, and thus penetrating the dark resources of ignorance, tyranny and superstition, which are dispelled before her, while the emblem of civilization, the railroad train, the telegraph, the church, the school-house and the busy city follow her, this cartoon tells a truthful story of human progress. The most progressive, most enlightened, intelligent and strongest nations of to-day, with the most of happiness among their people, are the Christian nations. How important, then, is it that in commemorating Christmas we should have a true conception of what it means!

No event which has ever happened in Fayetteville is more generally regretted than the assignment of F. W. Thornton. For years Mr. Thornton has been the leading dry goods merchant in the State. He has always carried a heavy stock, and has employed regularly about thirty five lady and gentlemen clerks.

While Mr. Thornton has always looked very closely after his business he has also had time to look after the interests of the town. He is strictly a public spirited man, and the same push and energy which has characterized him as a merchant he has ever displayed as the worthy and generous citizen.

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla wins friends wherever it is fairly and honestly tried. To have perfect health, you must have pure blood, and the best way to have pure blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier and strength builder. It expels all taint of scrofula, salt rheum and all other humors, and at the same time builds up the whole system.

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient. 25c.

The Rev. R. A. White, of Chicago, in a recent sermon declared that destitution in that city was steadily increasing, and reported that 10,000 more families have applied for aid from public sources than for the corresponding period of last year.

The secret of a speedy cure in sickness lies in selecting the proper remedy and this is difficult to do unless one is sure what the ailment is. But one thing is sure, and the liver being actively at work sickness could not have come. It is then always safe to take Simmons Liver Regulator which keeps the liver well regulated and all poison expelled from the system.

The Beautiful City.

"And the street of the city was pure gold."

Paris is said to be finer than any other city in the world—but the streets of Paris are not paved with gold. Montreal is situated on the bank of the beautiful St. Lawrence river, and they have an abundance of water there—but it is not "the water of life." The inhabitants of Montreal die as do the people elsewhere. Brooklyn has been called "the city of churches"—but in Brooklyn may still be found "the fearful and the unbelieving and the abominable and murderers and whoremongers and drunkards and liars." California is a wonderful fruit country—but in California they have no trees "which bear twelve manner of fruit," and the leaves of which trees "are for the healing of the nations."

This city of which we speak, this golden city of light and life and love, is our Father's home on high, where Jesus has gone to prepare a place for his faithful followers. This is that city "which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God." This is that city which shall never be consumed by fire, nor swept away by storm and flood, nor wrecked by earthquake, for it is that "building of God, eternal in the heavens."

It is a city of light. "And there shall be no night there; and they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for the Lord God giveth them light." "God is light," and the saved shall walk and sing and worship, develop and unfold and expand in the light of the Lord for ever and ever. No gloomy days nor stormy nights in that city. The darkness that comes from ignorance and sin will not be found there. They have the fullness of "the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

It is a city of life. "And there shall be no more death." Jesus, the Prince of life, reigns in that city. I tell you, it is a city of life. They have a river of water of life, and trees of life, and cloudless skies and "fullness of joy and pleasure forever more." No sickness in that land of life. No feeble, tottering, unsteady steps; no exhausted, shattered, painful nerves; no sorrow, turrowed faces; no dim and languid eyes;—but the bloom and glow and joyous thrill of an eternal, inexhaustible youth. In that city of life no poet will ever have occasion to mournfully exclaim:

"O world! so few the years we live / World that the life which thou dost give / Were life indeed!"

It is a city of love. By this I mean that the happy inhabitants all love each other. No bitter, sour, selfish souls there—no, not one. What delightful society! Every one whom you meet will be a friend, a brother, a sister. A city in which all the happy inhabitants love each other—oh! who ever heard of such a city in this world?

"And the street of the city was pure gold." This text means something—it means more than some think: When you go to a strange city and find the streets full of dirt and filth, mud and water, and old worn out shoes and broken bricks, you at once say to yourself that the inhabitants of this city must be a filthy set, else they would put things in better condition. It is perfectly natural for a hog to enjoy the mud-hole. You see the point of it, people and the place are alike.

"And the street of the city was pure gold," proves this much: That as heaven is a pure, clean place, the people who go there must be pure and clean, and so the Book teaches that nothing unclean shall ever come to that glorious city of light and life and love, whose streets are pure gold. None but the "pure in heart" shall ever walk the streets of "pure gold."

REV. GEO. D. HERMAN.

Dr. Shields, an eminent physician of Tennessee, says: "I regard Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best blood medicine on earth, and I know of many wonderful cures effected by its use." Physicians all over the land have made similar statements.

Those persons, who have heretofore so severely denounced Cleveland for "belonging to England," must now think that he is not a very humble or obedient slave to that country.

Senator Hoar made at Plymouth a patriotic protest against unnecessary and therefore worse than barbarous war. This was very well, but why did Mr. Hoar not make his protest in the Senate?

And still the story as to Judge Robinson's cranky doings in the Western part of the State grows.

Some of the rude and ugly things this judicial clown did and said would stagger human credulity were they not substantiated by the very best authority. It indeed strange that any man in a public position, to say nothing of one wearing the judicial ermine, should so far forget himself and his position as to be guilty of them. The following from the Franklin Press adds another chapter to the story:

"We were aware of the unprecedented conduct of Judge Robinson while on the bench in this end of the circuit, but refrained from the publication of any strictures, preferring to let the matter pass in pity and through respect to the office. The report published by the Rutherfordton Democrat does not contain one-half of the strange doings of the Judge, as can be verified by the lawyers, sheriffs and citizens of Jackson, Macon, Clay, Cherokee, Graham and Swain counties. We are told that his conduct at Graham court was a circumstance to what it was at Swain court, where we learn that he flatly disputed the word of lawyers and called them liars and swore profane oaths while sitting on the bench in open court. His abuse of Sheriff Roane at Macon court was disgusting and a shame, and we also learn that the same was the case in adjoining counties. Not only this but witnesses were scolded and benamed in a very rude and uncivil manner. Also the harmless citizen who happened to enter the court room with creaking shoes was scolded and abused as though he was guilty of some mean, low, degrading offense. The Judge left this part of the circuit without any friends among the lawyers, and his conduct disgusted people so much that they want no more fusion judges around this circuit unless they behave better than this one."—News and Observer.

The new thirty-thousand-spindle cotton mill about to open in Georgia is a result of increasing demand for American cottons at home and abroad. The Southern mills are generally making only the lower grades of cotton clothes as yet, and it is not likely that they will make large quantities of the finest goods for years to come. Their trade and their profits are, however, growing in a way that emphasizes the evidence offered by the condition of the New England mills in support of the theory that with unobstructed trade the nimble penny party better than the protected pound under a policy of obstruction.
