The Situation in Spain.

"I suppose that Go I knows what will come out of this Cubar rivo Intion," said Murat Halstend at the Arilogton hotel to Wm. E. Curtis the correspondent of the Chicago Record, "and that is the profoundest tribute one can pay to Omniscience. for the wisdom of man cannot see further than the rainy season, which begins in a month or six weeks. I have been in Cuba for a few weeks as a commissioner for a New York journal. I think that I enjoyed the confidence of both parties and got a pretty good idea of the situation. There is no disputing the fact that all Cuba is in rebellion early in April, just as much as the population of Virginia was during our civil war, and it is a shameful injustice to assert that the revolutionary sentiment is limited to desperadoes and negroes. I met in Cuba ladies and gentlemen as cultivated and refined as you can find anywhere in the world, who are just as bitter and rebellious toward Spain as the men who are under arms, but they lack the opportunity to make a demonstration. I became satisfied, too, that the population of Cuba is capable of self-government, but they now sit hopeless, with an equal fear of what may happen if either side wins in the present struggle.

"S) far as the military situation is concerned," continued Mr. Halstead, "I see no prospects for a Spanish victory, and the chances of the revolutionists are very slim. The rebels can carry on the work for the division composed of Davidof destruction indefinitely, but they cannot fight a battle, because they Julian, resigned. lack arms and are almost out of small bands which are almost impossible to capture. The topographical conditions of the country are admirably suited to this sort of gnerrilla warfare, and 1,000 men in the mountains can resist 100,000 in pursuit of trem."
