

NO REMEDY EQUALS PEPUNA, SO THE WOMEN ALL SAY

Miss Susan Wynar, teacher in the Richmond school, Chicago, Ill., writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman regarding Pepuna. She says: "Only those who have suffered as I have, can know what a blessing it is to be able to find relief in Pepuna. This has been my experience. A friend in need is a friend indeed, and every bottle of Pepuna I ever bought proved a good friend to me."

Where Are You Standing?

White men, where are you standing? The lines are tightly drawn, 'Tis down to a question of color, Which side of the line are you on? Are you going to vote with your color? And swear by your honor bright, That this is the white man's country And its rulers shall always be white?

White men, where are you standing? A momentous question's at stake, You must side with one of the races, Which one are you going to take? There's no neutral ground to stand on, You have got the issue to face, Is it either the white man or negro, Will you desert, or go with your race?

White men, where are you standing? Remember your children and wife Your course will commend or condemn you 'Till the very last day of your life, Pray, do not disgrace and degrade them, They are powerless your acts to control, Your vote may bring humiliation, That will sink down deep in their soul.

White men, where are you standing? Won't he cut a mighty poor figure, Who forgets his Anglo Saxon blood In his attachment for the negro? 'Tis your privilege to vote as you want to And on your race and color go back, But don't try to pose as a white man While voting with the brother in black. J. M. H. Goldsboro, N. C., June 20th.

A Boy's Composition.

This little biography is not written as a joke. It was written as a serious "composition" by a real live schoolboy. The article is clipped from a publication entitled "Boys," and runs as follows: "King Henry VIII. was the greatest widower that ever lived. He was born at Anna Domino in the year 1500. He had five hundred and ten wives, besides children. The first was beheaded, and afterwards executed. The second was beheaded. She never smiled again, but said the word 'Calais' would be found written on her heart after her death. The greatest man in this region was Lord Sir Garnet Wolsey. He was named the 'Boy Bachelor,' being born at the age of fifteen, unmarried. He often said, he had served his wife as diligently as he had served his king. The Bible was translated into Latin by Titus Oates, who was ordered by the king to be chained up in the church for greater security. It was in this reign that the Duke of Wellington discovered America, and invented the Curfew bell to prevent fires—most of the houses being built of timber. Henry VIII. was succeeded on the throne by his great-grandmother, the beautiful and accomplished Mary Queen of Scots, sometimes known as the 'Lady of the Lake,' or the 'Lady of the Last Minstrel.' He died in his bed during the last year of his age."

Robert Council and J. W. Sanbury, two white men, engaged in a friendly sparring match at Roanoke Rapids Monday night and the result is Sanbury lies dead, while Council is overcome with grief. The men were said to be close friends. Sanbury lived thirty minutes after he had been knocked down by Council, and before he died he stated publicly that he blame whatever should be attached to Council.—Raleigh News and Observer.

It Saved His Leg. P. A. Danforth, of LaGrange, Ga., suffered for six months with a frightful running sore on his leg, but writes that Backen's Arnica Salve wholly cured it in five days. For Ulcers, Wounds, Piles, it's the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25 cents. Sold by Dr. W. S. Taylor, Druggist.

Although the sheriff has offered $50 reward for the arrest of the negro murderer Wesley White, yet nothing definite has been heard from him and the conclusion is that he is still roaming the woods and living on berries.—Goldsboro Argus.

Judged by Republicans.

It is well enough to leave the characterization of the Philadelphia platform to the Republicans themselves. Here are some simple expressions from members of the "grand old party" who can see through the grand old policy of buncombe and boodle. Attorney-General Monnett of Ohio (Republican) said at Columbus, Ohio, Thursday night: "We are long on platform, but I fear the people in Ohio will recognize we are short on performance. Seven hundred trusts have come into existence practically within the last four years."

"With an attorney-general from New Jersey, the mother of trusts, one of the leading members of the cabinet and the minister to the court of St. James under the present administration the hired advocate of the Standard Oil trust, with a reputed salary and fee from this economic tapeworm that would rival the combined salaries of the governors of the forty-five states; with the charge that we have seventy-six United States district attorneys, all maintained at the expense of the tax payers in these four years, not a single new case has been begun against trusts that has come under my observation, save and except the noble fight of Col. Bundy of the Cincinnati district who undertook to indict a few coal barons and make an example of them."

"He received telegraphic orders at once from the attorney-general of the United States, as I was informed, to desert, and his honor, the attorney-general of the United States, was informed that the evidence had gone to the grand jury and beyond the district attorney's control."

"We should have put a plank in our platform to be consistent with our acts, both in Ohio and the United States, in view of our record in winking at combines and conspiracies against trade and condoning the unlawfulness of their greed and theft. But, then, platforms do not rise higher than our record has been on these economic questions."

Death Stood Beside the Altar.

Mrs. Rosa Baumgarten Drucker, wife of Mr. Aaron Drucker, died this morning at 2:30 at St. Peter's hospital.

Never has a sadder death been recorded in this city. Twelve days ago a wedding! To-day a grave. June 12th was Miss Baumgarten's wedding day. The evening before, she was taken alarmingly ill and it was thought would die before the dawn of her wedding day. As sadly recorded in the marriage book, she was too ill to leave her bed and the ceremony was performed at the bedside. Who of the sad company present will ever forget the scene? The pale face on the pillow; the white hand that rested in the lover's to receive the wedding ring; the sad-faced groom and parents!

Everything was in readiness for an elaborate wedding and entertainment. The bride insisted that the guests should enjoy the supper and evening the same as if she were well and with them. They tried to do so, but the gaiety was forced. Borne in upon every soul present, was the feeling that the shadow of a tragedy had crossed the threshold. Unseen by mortal eye was the "unwelcome guest"—death—who stood by the bedside, separating the lovers who had loved each other for 15 years. "Until Death Do Us Part," an unconscious shudder passed through the company of witnesses to the bridal scene.

After the ceremony, and the bride was receiving congratulations and hearty good wishes for her recovery, she said to several: "As soon as I get well, I am going to put on my wedding dress, and every one of you must come down and spend the evening with me. It is so pretty, and I made the lace for it all myself." The elegant gown was then lying on the bed in the adjoining room. Alas! It lies there still never to be worn, and never to be touched!

Mrs. Drucker's illness continued serious, and the doctors after several consultations, said that an operation was the only chance of saving her life. She was very much opposed to it, saying that she knew she was going to die anyway. She made every arrangement in regard to her death, telling her husband and parents what disposition to make of her bridal presents and other effects. Her wedding ring, she said, was not to be buried with her; it was to be taken off her finger by her husband, who was always to wear it.

She was taken to the hospital on Thursday night, and operated on about 1:30 that night. Her husband and relatives have been at her bedside constantly. All hope of saving her life was given up Sunday evening when blood poisoning set in. The physicians prepared the grief-stricken husband, parents and sister for the worst. Yesterday the stupor preceding death set in, and at 2:30 this morning the spirit of this noble young woman—a bride of twelve days—passed into the great beyond.—Charlotte News.

Graphophone Campaign Speeches.

A late Washington special says a questionable Hanna scheme by which the law is evaded and the postmasters of this country are assessed five dollars up each for Republican campaign purposes, was mentioned in the dispatches yesterday. Here is another scheme for the campaign, in which a large part of this money assessed from federal office-holders will be used. It has been decided that thousands of graphophones with a "professor" for each shall be used at the small country villages and cross roads school-houses and churches throughout the country during the months of July, August, September and part of October. These "lecturings" will be widely advertised as "free" and will consist of music and speeches. The "professor" will introduce first a selection from Sousa, and then a 10 minute talk by Channey M. Dewey, followed by some "ragtime" music and a speech by Senator Wolcott, more music and a short speech by Hanna, and so on. It is one of the most gigantic schemes for reaching the country populace ever attempted. They will be put in every state, and the speeches will deal with different questions, all extolling McKinley and his administration with special regard to catching the rural vote. Speeches by Dewey, Cannon, Mercer, of Nebraska; Hull, of Iowa; Allison, Wolcott and Fairbanks have been made within the past two days in a graphophone carried to their offices by appointment and their oratory is now being incribed on the wax cylinders for the hundreds of machines that will be managed by Hanna's committee.

A tender word dropped into the well of the human heart is almost certain to splash the water to the eyes.

A Bold Trick.

All sorts of odd incidents occur in England's banking circles, where strictest measures are taken to protect treasure from the robbers and burglars. Some of the institutions pay cash for information of, and in somecases from, the criminals themselves. The Bank of England's yearly budget always contains an expense item due to such outlays. The first experiment of the kind dates back to 1850, when the directors of the bank listened to a startling proposition made by a "ditch digger."

The laborer told the directors that he had discovered a new and unsuspected method of getting into the cellar vaults, where the gold and silver bars were kept, and that he would sell his secret to them for money. The directors hesitated, believing that they had taken every precaution against loss from the vaults in putting up heavy masonry, with plenty of iron bars, and by manning the building with armed watchmen, but finally they granted the man, who seemed to talk fairly, a chance to try his plan, and a night was named for the undertaking.

At the appointed time a committee of the directors descended to the cellar and heard a peculiar scratching sound under their feet. Two hours later the floor opened, and the ditch digger bobbed up serenely, like the evil spirit in the spectacular drama. All around them lay bars of precious metal, totaling in value $3,000,000. The man explained satisfactorily how it was done, and as a reward the directors assured him an income for life on an investment of $10,000. The crook was content, and it is believed that he remained honest ever afterward.

But other croakings were tempt-ed by his luck to try the same game, and the directors were inundated with suggestions and tips on the new methods of burglary and how to prevent them. The directors tested them all and paid for many that proved to be of value to them. Among other things they paid $20,000 for a process, invented by a young chemist, for copying the ink, paper, water marks and designs of the bank notes so perfectly as to defy detection. The directors found they could use his system more satisfactorily and more profitably than their own. Despite the fact that these expenditures have run up to big figures in the last half century, the directors of to-day put the claim that all the money was well invested.

THE TAIPIING REBELLION.

Began in the Year 1850 and Lasted Until 1864.

The new "Boxer" outbreak ominously recalls the Taiping rebellion, which began in 1850 and lasted over a period of fourteen years, being the result of a popular outcry against the existing dynasty and a general dissatisfaction owing to the reforms which had been promised being unfulfilled. The province of Kwang-seu was the first to rise in open revolt, and chose for a leader Hung-sen-tseu, whose energy of character and political and religious enthusiasm speedily gained for him the support of the discontented. Seizing on the longing for a return of an absolute Chinese dynasty, he proclaimed himself Emperor, under the title of Teen Wang, or the Heavenly King. Having embraced Christianity, he professed to abhor the vices of the rulers both in their laws and in private acts. Crowds gathered to his standard. Without much difficulty he succeeded in subduing the neighboring provinces.

Every uneducated voter who registers under the provisions of the amendment between July 1st, 1902 and January 1st, 1908 is entitled to vote as long as he lives without further registration. The legislature has already appropriated a very large additional sum ($100,000) for the increase of public schools. The taxes for the maintenance paid by the rich and well to do people. The children of the "poor white man" get the benefit of this before 1908 passes away there will be few, if any at all, of the young white men then coming of age who cannot read and write. We have no reason to deceive our people. Let them think for themselves and if they do that and pay no heed to selfish demagogues they will see the great importance the future welfare and prosperity of North Carolina for adopting this amendment. Future generations will rise up and call us blessed.—Washington Gazette.

Does It Pay to Buy Cheap? A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in every throat and lung trouble, "Boscher's German Syrup." It not only loosens and stimulates the disease to destroy the germ disease, but always inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by I. W. West, Druggist, Mount Airy, N. C.

Mr. Overstreet of the republican congressional campaign committee thinks his party will find it very hard to secure a majority in the next house of representatives.

More Louisiana Testimony.

The testimony from Louisiana is all alike, except such as has been manufactured here in North Carolina by Fusionists. We present below the following letter written by a former citizen of Chatham county who is now residing in Louisiana. LaFayette, La., June 3, 1900.

"Mr. L. B. Bynum, My Dear Sir:—You ask my opinion on the working and effect of the suffrage clause in our Constitution. "I am in no sense a politician, and have never been before the people for an office and have no aspirations in that way, but I take a deeper interest in the affairs political and otherwise of my adopted State. Louisiana is with its new Constitution, the negro eliminated from politics, with all that bountiful Providence has done for it, destined to take a prominent place in the race for industrial, material and intellectual advancement, with the other States of the South. While I think of your country, the 'dear Old North State' and its lovely civilization of forty years ago as I remember it, and as can never be again on this earth, and of it to-day representing and containing more in proportion to population, of the pure Anglo Saxon, or better American race, than any other of the Union—it is a study to me and has been for years, how its good people could and should have so long and so quietly rested under the humiliating domination of the allies of the negro. I can but believe and surely hope, that at the coming election the destinies of the Common wealth will be committed to the hands of the qualified representative white citizens."

"In this State the wise limitation of the suffrage under the present Constitution to be exercised by intelligence and property has eliminated from the contest the ballot, a great body of venal and ignorant voters, who heretofore were a constant menace to and a demoralizing element in good government. Our Constitution has been in effect now for two years and I do not believe that even a decent minority of even the disgruntled or disfranchised would go back to the system of fraud and force used in elections heretofore."

"We have just held an election for State officers under the new Constitution, and there never was a more quiet or fairer one held in the State. The elective franchise now being confined to the intelligence of the State, and with all that means I think a feeling of confidence and security will increase, and a greater disposition to develop the industrial and agricultural interests of this lovely country will prevail."

"The negro now, I believe, is beginning to know that he must rely upon himself as a negro, not as a colored man, in the struggle against the white man for whatever is to come to him, or for his betterment. At any rate, that, I think, is the lesson he is to learn, and when learned then, too, I think a new duty devolves upon us as the ruling race. Yours as ever, "WILL CLERGIE."

Mutilating the Teeth.

It is curious to what an extent the mutilation of the teeth goes on among savage nations, and even among certain civilized people, such as the Japanese. With them a girl is never married without first staining her teeth black with a repulsive kind of varnish, and the custom is especially adhered to among the members of the richer classes. On the west coast of Africa a large proportion of the teeth are deliberately broken when children reach a certain age. Both in the New World and in the Old the custom exists of extracting the two front teeth of domestic servants. In Peru the custom has existed from time immemorial, and used to be a sign of slavery in the days of the Incas.

Practical Education at the A. & M. College.

We have received a little handbook of the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts of Raleigh, N. C., and we are glad to see that this institution is devoting itself zealously to technical education and manual training. Our State needs well educated men in all lines of engineering, especially mechanical and electrical engineering, and also in cotton manufacturing. For the development of our natural resources, we need also thousands of skilled workmen, expert carpenters, wood-turners, blacksmiths, machinists, mechanics, mill-workers, boiler-tenders, electricians, and dynamo-tenders. The A. & M. College trains for such work, and if they possess talent, educates them for all technical professions.

The College last year enrolled 302 students, of whom many paid their own expenses by labor at odd times. Students who do not labor may attend the College at a total expense, including clothing and books, in fact every thing, for about $140. This can be reduced one-half by securing a free scholarship and obtaining work at the College.

Entrance examinations will be held in the county court-house Saturday, July 28th, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the office of the County Superintendent of Public Instruction. Any boy may obtain a copy of the little hand-book, with full information about the College and the examinations, by applying to President Geo. T. Winston, Raleigh, N. C.

The Turn of the Tide.

Honest and sensible Republicans are getting restless over the Cuban scandals. The real nature of imperialism is revealing itself and patriots draw back with horror from the prospect of ruin and disgrace, the sure accompaniment of national greed. Senator Hale declares his belief that we should have abandoned Cuba. "We would have been better off," says Mr. Hale, "if we had not taught the Cubans the lesson that has been taught in the last few months." Moreover, the Senator touches the nerve of the whole matter thusly: "I have discovered very powerful influences, commercial, mercantile, money and political, that are opposed to our ever withdrawing from Cuba."

The reason is sure to come. This Cuban disgrace may mark the turn of the tide. Imperialism, adopted as a national policy by the McKinley administration, at the bidding of the powerful influences referred to by Senator Hale, cannot survive a popular tempest, excited by such revelations. The public welfare will yet take precedence of private interest.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Skin Diseases

When the excretory organs fail to carry off the waste material from the system, there is an abnormal accumulation of effete matter which poisons the blood, and it becomes sour and acid. This poison is carried through the general circulation to all parts of the body, and upon reaching the skin surface there is a redness and eruption, and by certain peculiarities we recognize Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Poriasis, Erysipelas and many other skin troubles, more or less severe. While the skin is the seat of irritation, the real disease is in the blood. Medicating lotions and powders may allay the itching and burning, but never cure, so matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated and skin permanently injured by their use.

The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

The many preparations of arsenic, mercury, potash, etc., not only do not cure skin diseases, but soon ruin the digestion and break down the constitution. S. S. S., nature's own remedy, made of roots, herbs and barks, of great purifying and tonic properties, quickly and effectively cures blood and skin troubles, because it goes direct to the root of the disease and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions. S. S. S. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to re-form in the blood and cause a fresh attack.

Healthy blood is necessary to preserve that clear, smooth skin and beautiful complexion so much desired by all. S. S. S. can be relied upon with certainty to keep the blood in perfect order. It has been curing blood and skin diseases for half a century; no other medicine can show such a record.

S. S. S. contains no poisonous minerals. It is purely vegetable and harmless. Our medical department is in charge of physicians of large experience in treating blood and skin diseases, who will take pleasure in advising by their advice and direction all who desire it. Write fully and freely about your case; your letters are held in strictest confidence. We make no charge whatever for this service. Our book on Blood and Skin Diseases will be sent free upon application.
