

MEDICAL EXAMINER

Of the U. S. Treasury Recommendations Peruna.

Dr. Llewellyn Jordan.

Dr. Llewellyn Jordan, Medical Examiner of U. S. Treasury Department, graduate of Columbia College, and who served three years at West Point, has the following to say of Peruna:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from your wonderful remedy. One short month has brought forth a vast change and I now consider myself a well man after months of suffering. Fellow sufferers, Peruna will cure you."

Catarh is a systemic disease curable only by systemic treatment. A remedy that cures catarh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centers. This is what Peruna does. Peruna immediately invigorates the nerve-centers which give vitality to the mucous membrane. Then catarh disappears. Then catarh is permanently cured.

Peruna cures catarh wherever located. Peruna is not a guess nor an experiment—it is an absolute scientific certainty. Peruna has no substitutes—no rivals. Insist upon having Peruna.

A free book written by Dr. Hartman, on the subject of catarh in its different phases and stages, will be sent free to any address by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

THE REWARD OF SELFISHNESS.
Not long since, while in a large city, I was talking to a married woman who "goes in" for golf, horse shows, dog shows, and what not. She had been married 10 or 12 years and her husband had made money. With it came the desire to shine in society, and the wife had been a shining social light for quite a number of years. There was something strangely pathetic in her voice as she said to me in a languid way: "Did nobody ever tell you that in some prehistoric time I was in love with my husband? Well, I was. I used to go to afternoon services in Lent and pray for that love to last, because the sensation was so much to my taste. I need to have ecstatic feelings when his foot was on the stair and I sat sewing little baby clothes. We lived in a plain way then; three dollars spent in two theatre tickets was a tremendous outlay. We walked out to dinner— I tucking up the train of my best gown under a long cloak, and laughing if the wind snatched it away from me at the corners and whipped it around my feet. Then he grew richer, and then—how and when, dear knows, if I can remember, we grew farther away from each other. Now when he is at home, I am aware of it, but that is all. When our lips meet it is like two dry pieces of pith coming together. I know nothing of his affairs, nor he of mine. I have money in abundance. Money, money; you care for money when a man's heart and soul and brain have gone into it!"

How like that is of so many women—so many men! They give themselves to gratify a sordid desire for gain and rob their hearts of all appreciation of Nature's melodies; its birds and flowers and the beautiful pictures it paints upon the crest of a sunset cloud or moon-kissed valley. What a blessing it would be if a hundred thousand American girls, now striving to get place in shops and stores and doing unwholesome work in offices, could thoroughly prepare themselves for domestic life, and marry young men of about their own age, be content to live a little house and live with economy, with no need of wealth. They would enjoy more of heaven in this world than they are ever likely to get in any other way.

Or, better still, to marry some robust, honest and upright, clean-minded clean-blooded country man, who knows how to thank his God for an honest return for an honest day's work and lies down at night to dream only of Nature's God. But the changes in the conditions of life bring changes in our tastes, and we are continually striving for the unobtainable, and leaving the blessings of simpler pleasures untasted. I often wonder how many country boys who go to the cities to get rich, after striving year in and year out, battling against all obstacles—unwholesome, adulterated food, water that has a million bacilli to the ounce, poorly ventilated houses, permeated with noxious gases—finally long to go back to the old home.

Where the pine trees wave and sigh To the silent summer sky; Where the hopes of youth were strong As the summer days were long, And the nights brought sweetest rest, By a mother's kisses blest.

$340,000 Stolen!

The Robbers Dig a Tunnel to a Point Under the Walls of the Smelting Works.

Telegraphic dispatches last Tuesday from Vallejo, Cal., tell of a daring robbery. The report says: Gold bricks valued at $340,000 were stolen during last night from the Selby smelting works. The robbers had evidently been working on the job for two or three months. They had dug a tunnel from outside the house, beginning with a shaft about three feet deep. Thence they worked underneath the vault and, striking upwards, bored a hole in the strong room floor. The hole was shaped like the handle of a boiler. Parts of the holes were bored two months ago, it is thought, and the last one was completed during the night. Through that hole they took the gold bricks and carried them to a bank near the mouth of a tunnel along the robbers' left side. The entrance to the tunnel was covered with a frame over which the employees of the smelter passed rapidly every day, but no one seemed to notice anything out of the way. Sheriff Hale, of Contra Costa county, his deputies, and Chief of Police Sanford, of Vallejo, have been notified and are now at the works. The police of San Francisco and all the Bay cities are all at work on the case, but so far there is not the slightest clue to the robbers. The work was that of skilled men and their plans were carried out without a hitch. They got all the bullion in the vault, leaving behind only the two bricks which were dropped on the shore. Only one day's accumulation of refined gold was kept at the works. Yesterday's run was unusually heavy and the gold was to have been shipped back to San Francisco to-day.

You Are Saved or Lost.

There is no middle ground. You are certainly either the one or the other. To be lost means to be a condemned sinner, one who has broken God's law and must suffer the penalty. You know you have broken His law. Your heart tells you that you have broken it all your life. You have never loved the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your mind and with all your strength, and your neighbor as yourself. But that is just what the law says you ought to do and if you have not done it, you have broken the law. You are "condemned already." That means that you have done the evil deed, you are under sentence and only waiting for the judgment to be executed. But the execution of that judgment will be your eternal ruin. If it is executed, you will be lost forever. And you are either in that condition or you are saved.

What does that mean? It means that Another has been executed in your place, that the judgment your sins deserve has been borne by One Who was able to bear it, so the moment you own your lost condition and turn to Him as your only hope, your Saviour, in that moment your sins are forgiven and you are saved. Now, where are you? Do not say, "I do not know." You do know. You know whether you have received pardon for your years of sin. You know whether you have been set free, whether you have believed on the Lord Jesus Christ or not. If you have not, how sad a state you are in! A sinner, salvation freely offered to you, and yet you are not accepting it! How can you go on thus when any moment may end this day of salvation and cast you into the prison house from which there can be no escape. Loet, and salvation offered freely to you. Loet, and any day may be your last on earth, and yet you delay!

There is no middle ground, no place between being saved and lost. You must be either the one or the other. If you are not saved, you are lost. Which is it?—J. W. Newton.

Does It Pay to Buy Cheap?
A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What do you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible, if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Bohler's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but also inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by L. W. Week, Druggist, Mount Airy, N. C.

North Carolina's New Industrial Life

The awakening of North Carolina along industrial lines gives food for very serious thought. The controlling force to-day is a strenuous industrial life. This is in a sense a material age. The mad chase for wealth in itself is far from the highest aspiration of man, but the desire for wealth is a laudable one. No longer can there be great wealth in a community devoted to agriculture alone, and wealth is necessary. It is useless to decry its power. Without wealth there can be no decided step forward, material or mental. The industrial life and man's higher intellectual life are inseparably linked together.

To-day forces are at work underneath our State which if allowed full play will again place her where she once stood, near the head in wealth, in population and in power. The United States has entered upon a new era in its existence. Stepping almost suddenly from an isolated power into the position of a world power, presents to us many new problems. We are now in the race for the world markets and our industrial life is quickened. But it is of North Carolina we are speaking. On every side we can see the new life springing into existence. But this young life is tender and weak. Properly nurtured and skillfully cared for, it will spring into a mighty power whose fruit shall be wealth, prosperity and position. If, however, it is uncared for, certain conditions unfilled, it will sicken and die. It is a trite saying "a chain is no stronger than its weakest link." Equally so our life is no richer, no deeper, no stronger than its least developed phase. The development of every phase of our life must proceed step by step with the advance of industry.

Our people must be educated in more ways than one. It must be said no longer that the State forgets its citizens. Our wealth does not lie in our soil and in our cotton. Far richer is that wealth that lies in the intelligent industry of an educated people. The State cannot afford to lose this by illiteracy. We need skilled labor, the inventive faculty, the directive genius in the men who handle machinery. In the words of that celebrated Southerner, Dr. J. L. M. Curry: "it will not do to say we are too poor to educate our people; we are too poor not to educate them. Ignorance and wealth, ignorance and prosperity never dwell together."

A people educated in the rudiments of knowledge will see the needs for higher and technical education. Then the demands of these institutions will be recognized and the people will give them succor. When the public school houses stand at every man's door, and the public libraries invite our people to association with the minds of every age and country, when university training has been extended to all who desire it, there will come that largeness of view that will forever banish from our borders all narrowness of thought. And it is necessary that this much desired result be brought about for no great advancement, material, mental or spiritual, can come among a narrow people. The world has advanced and no longer are men expected to think and believe alike. This we must learn. That a man belongs to a certain ecclesiastical body well and good, that he belongs to any is to his credit, but that he belongs to none should not be held against him. He has his rights and there should be none to deny him.

With the negro eliminated from politics, civil freedom must grow if we are to realize the highest ideal of statehood. When men divide on principle and not on color, we can turn our attention to the discussion and study of great social and economic questions, and "in this clash of intellects we can raise great minds."

Then our ideas as to the relation of labor and capital will be materially changed. The trained and capable laborer will know his rights and knowing dare maintain them. But no narrow view of corporations and combinations of wealth will cause us to pass laws which will cripple our new-born industrial life. No material sympathy for the laboring classes will legislate destructive to the interests of laborer and capitalist alike. But there shall be fair and equitable treatment for all concerned. When this has happened then and not till then will we be prepared to take part in, to appreciate, to extend and develop to the utmost the new industrial life that is springing into existence. Our hope, our future, our opportunity lies in the increased attention to industrial pursuits. If there is no retarding force the center of industrialism will be here in the South. Will we prepare the way for it? Will we seize the opportunity and make the most of it? It rests with the young men of the State to settle this question. They are the rulers of our destiny and in their hands is the future of our State. They can fulfill all these conditions and thus establish the future greatness of our State.—D. T. in Statesville Landmark.

The first frost for this year is put down for early in October. Already there is talk of what kind of a winter we are going to have, but the corn is not yet far enough advanced to tell. In fact in some places it looks like there would be no frost.

Need Good Mothers.

Good Mothers Warned by the Great Evangelist in Plain, Unvarnished Words.

Rev. Sam Jones.
Marriage is becoming a meretricious club, clubs are substituted for homes, wives are becoming society ladies, children are unavoidable nuisances and destruction of life a habit. The few children who enter the homes are turned over to milk bottles and nurses in babyhood, to public schools in childhood, fashionable colleges in youth, are given over to society, dress and amusement in young womanhood. Instead of reading the Bible and saying their prayers at eight the girls plait their hair in shanks for bangs and the boys plait their toes for toothpick shoes and both go to sleep with a dime novel under their pillow and a fifteen cent head on top of it.

The old daddy is up to his chin in business and the mother, in name, up to her eyes in society and the children are wallowing in idleness and the whole thing is hurried toward the grave where humanity runs out. They have not sense enough to be good. The brains have all run down in their feet and hands and all they can do is to play progressive euchre and dance.

A few first-class mothers would head off this whole gang and turn all our "dudes" and "dudees" into men and women. I have no objection to woman suffrage, but the woman who raises four boys for God and the right multiples her vote by four. I am in favor of a woman being anything she wants except the father of a family of children, but my judgment is that the biggest thing a woman can be is a first-class wife and mother.

Thousands Perish by Flood in China.

A late cablegram from Victoria, B. C., says: Great floods caused by the overflow of the Yang Tze river have caused the death of many thousands in China. The river has risen 40 feet, and for hundreds of miles the country is a great lake with only the tops of the trees and an occasional roof showing. At Ankang the town is flooded to the roofs of some of the houses. At Kin King, the native town is flooded and two feet of water stands in the foreign settlement. Lower down the river towards Swa Hin, the destruction was greater and boatmen estimate that 20,000 were drowned in the district. Chong Teh was wiped away by floods and 10,000 drowned there and many other points have been inundated involving awful loss of life and great destruction to property. It is feared an embankment built by Chong Chieh Tung near Wu Chang will break and cause the drowning of hundreds of thousands of helpless people.

To Save Her Child

From frightful disfigurement Mrs. Nannie Gallager, of La Grange, Ga., applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve to great sores on her head and face, and writes its quick cure exceeded all her hopes. At Duna Tuesday morning a serious accident occurred. Mr. D. B. Shaw, an employe of Hood & Grant, druggists, of that place, with the assistance of a colored boy, was charging a soda fountain, when the entire top of the tank blew off, knocking a hole in the building and mutilating the colored boy's leg.—Concord Standard.

CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the little red sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestige of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deepest, obdurate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shirer shows: "A small simple case on my leg about an inch long on the left side of my foot. It grew no pain or inconvenience, but I was told it was Cancer. I got to be afraid of it, but I forgot about it until it had begun to fester and itch. It would bleed and then when it healed, it would be sore for some days, and then it would begin to fester again. I got to be afraid of it, but I forgot about it until it had begun to fester and itch. It would bleed and then when it healed, it would be sore for some days, and then it would begin to fester again."

S. is the greatest of all medicines, and is guaranteed to cure every case of Cancer, containing valuable and interesting information about this disease, and will cure your cancer without your cost. Modern Attacks on the Bible.

The clergy members of Chicago are now faced by a discussion which will compel them to go on record as to how they regard the Sacred Page.

In the regularly accepted lesson books now furnished the Sunday schools of that city the Bible account of the creation is treated as being opposed to history and science, and the story of the fall of man is regarded as allegorical and not literal. These views appear in the last edition of the "Pilgrim Series" of quarterlies in general use in the Sunday schools of the Congregational church.

One sentence declares that "nothing is more certain than that the chronology given in the Bible margin is absolutely worthless."

Treating of the flood it says "the monuments of ancient peoples also prove that the date assigned to the deluge by the Bible margins in many hundreds, if not thousands, of years too late."

Having thus knocked out the flood to its own satisfaction, the book goes on to another triumph in this way: "There is every indication in the facts known to science that men never have lived to so great an age as the literal interpretation of this record asserts."

Through such an agency as this the Christian book is attacked from within as well as from without. Its open enemies can be met and out-fronted, but those claiming to be its friends and at the same time antagonists the role of a theological Job, cannot be so easily detected. By attempting to destroy the faith of the people in the volume which has been the sheet anchor of humanity, which has developed the highest type and inspired the highest hope of the ages, they will be led into a spirit of self conceit and presumption from which the fall into despair and degradation will be lamentable indeed.—Atlanta Constitution.

Quit "Bucking" Against Dispensary.

The city of Charleston, S. C., has about made up its mind to stop bucking against the South Carolina dispensary law and to make a reasonable submission to the law and honestly endeavor to administer it to its own and the State's benefit. Liquor laws generally are very hard to enforce in the large cities, and in many places it is found that illicit dealers in liquor flourish and cause more trouble under the various forms of prohibition than the regular saloons do under the license system. There is, however, too great a tendency to endeavor to make such laws as inoperative as possible in practice, and then to condemn the law because it is no more successful than it is permitted to be. It is stated that there is a growing sentiment in Charleston that the bucking process ought to cease.—Asheville Citizen.

The Republican papers and politicians are making much ado over that half billion of gold in the Treasury. We would just like to know what good it is doing the people to have this enormous sum taken from their pockets and locked into inactivity while the country is crying out for more money to develop its wonderful natural resources.
