Postmaster Mullen, who first got into trouble by tarrying too long at the wine and later was in danger on account of a reported shortage in his accounts, will continue to hold his job as postmaster at Charlotte. The administration has decided to continue him on probation and if the record is good he will be re-commissioned. And so it goes.

Buy It Now.
Do not wait until you or some of your family are sick with cholera, and then send for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, but buy it now and be prepared for an emergency. It is the one remedy that can always be depended upon in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by C. E. Galloway and J. W. McPherson & Co., druggists.

A Mother's Recommendation.
I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have ever used in my family. I have not words to express my confidence in this remedy.—Mrs. J. A. Moore, North Star, Mich. For sale by C. E. Galloway and J. W. McPherson & Co., druggists.

Mrs. Celeste Covell writes from 219 N. avenue, Aurora, Ill.: "Only those who have entered with la grippe and been cured can appreciate how grateful I feel that such a splendid medicine as Peruna has been placed at the door of every suffering person."—Mrs. C. Covell.

Noted Sculptress Cured of Grip.
Mrs. M. C. Cooper, of the Royal Academy of Arts, of London, England, now residing in Washington, D. C., is one of the greatest living sculptors and painters of the world. She says:

"I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh and la grippe. I have suffered for months, and after the use of one bottle of Peruna I am entirely well."—Mrs. M. C. Cooper.

D. L. Wallace, a charter member of the International Harber's Union, writes from 15 Western avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.: "Following a severe attack of la grippe I seemed to be affected badly all over. One of my customers who was greatly helped by Peruna advised me to try it, and I procured a bottle the same day. Now my head is clear, my nerves steady, I enjoy food and rest well. Peruna has been worth a dollar a dose to me."—D. L. Wallace.

Lieutenant Clarice Hunt, of the Salt Lake City Barracks of the Salvation Army, writes from Ogden, Utah: "Two months ago I was suffering with severe cold that I could hardly speak. Our captain advised me to try Peruna and procured a bottle for me, and truly it worked wonders. Within two weeks I was entirely well."—Clarice Hunt.

Congressman White's Letter.
Tarboro, N. C.
Gentlemen:—I am more than satisfied with Peruna and find it to be an excellent remedy for the grip and catarrh. I have used it in my family and they all join me in recommending it as an excellent remedy.—George H. White, Member of Congress.

Mrs. T. W. Collins, Treasurer Independent Order of Good Templars, of Everett, Wash., writes: "After having a severe attack of la grippe I continued in a feeble condition even after the doctors called me cured. My blood seemed poisoned. Peruna cured me."—Mrs. T. W. Collins.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Hints to Merchants.
Every bargain does much to make the reputation of the store. Good people want good things. Tell them how good your goods are.

The full value of activity is appreciated by the man who has been and continues to be active. One bargain will not make a successful store and one advertisement will not convince all the people.

Every store has its specialty and every merchant must have something that makes his place distinctive. A confused expression gives people the impression that goods are so bad as to make it necessary to cover their defects.

A small misunderstanding of a statement will harm a business establishment. It is well to be plain as well as honest. When you have a thing to say talk as loud as desirable, but don't substitute the loud voice for the convincing argument.

It takes constant pounding to get the ear of the people and to get great numbers of them to see the advantages of the goods offered. The man who says one thing persistently will convince people that he is authority on that subject. To have a reputation for giving values and low prices is the reputation the merchant wants to establish.

With all the advantages of buying, business ought to be as good to-day as it ever was before. With all the advantages of truth-telling advertising every merchant ought to be able to see the possibility of betterment.

The good things of life are desired by all who have wants to be filled. Every merchant has some good things which would be especially appreciated by some of the people of the community. Will not the advertisement find the people?—Advertising World.

A Golden Rule of Agriculture:
Be good to your land and your crop will be good. Plenty of Potash.

Burned to Death.
At the home of Mr. Junius Belvin a few miles from town, last Monday afternoon, his mother, Mrs. Nat Belvin, was accidentally burned to death. It was a very sad affair and the family have the sympathy of the community in the unfortunate occurrence. Mrs. Belvin lost her mind two or three years ago. She had been tenderly and lovingly cared for and everything possible was done for her comfort and safety. Monday afternoon Mr. Belvin came to Henderson on business. Mrs. Junius Belvin went out to prepare supper leaving Mrs. Nat Belvin in the room alone. She returned shortly afterward and found her mother-in-law sitting where she left her, some distance from the fire. There was but little fire in the room at the time and she went to the kitchen little thinking there was any danger of the sad occurrence which soon followed. When she went to carry in supper Mrs. Belvin found the unfortunate woman lying on the floor dead. Her clothing was burned off her, the chair in which she sat was charred and the floor where she lay was blackened from the effects of the fire. No outcry had been made and just how the accident occurred is a mystery. Mrs. Belvin was about seventy-four years of age and was a kind hearted, good woman who had the respect and esteem of all who knew her.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

Venezuelan Question.
A Washington dispatch says: Two important subjects, in addition to several routine departmental matters, were considered at the cabinet meeting to-day. The questions of most serious importance before the cabinet to-day related to Venezuela and the Philippines. In connection with the Venezuelan question, the action taken in Congress for the strengthening of the coast defence fortifications and the improvement of the naval and military establishments generally were referred to and cordially approved. It is made clear that the United States is not expecting and is not looking for trouble, but the administration is determined not to be unprepared for any situation that may arise. Some consideration was given to the Philippines legislation before Congress. While it is recognized that the legislative situation at the capital is complicated by the attitude assumed by the Senate in the Statehood contest, the hope is expressed by officials of the administration that the important legislation demanded at this time may be enacted.

Strengthening the Army.
Secretary Moody announced after the meeting that no conclusion had yet been reached concerning the bids for the first class cruisers, Washington and Tennessee, which have been under consideration for several weeks. He indicated that a decision might be reached soon.

Southern Waterpowers.
The present scarcity and high price of steam coal has again aroused interest in the great water-power possibilities of the Southern States. In magnitude and convenience of location for manufacturing purposes more desirable undeveloped water-power are to be found in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia than in any equal area elsewhere in the United States. Several of these, whose development is thoroughly practicable, are capable of furnishing power in greater quantity than is to be obtained elsewhere, except at Niagara and at Sainte Ste. Marie, and at a very low cost per unit of power developed.

Many of the smaller water-powers of these States have already been developed and used in the operation of cotton mills, but recently the larger powers, of magnitude sufficient to supply the needs of a manufacturing city, have been receiving much attention, and a number of important projects looking to their utilization are now under way.

Larger developments are now in progress on the Yadkin River, near Salisbury, N. C., where the plans, it is said, contemplate a final maximum development of 60,000 horsepower; and on the Catawba River near Rock Hill, S. C., where the Catawba Electric Power Company has almost completed a large plant which will supply power to Rock Hill, Charlotte, and other towns within reach of its transmission lines; while on the Chattahoochee River in Georgia preparations are being made for the construction of a great plant from which power will be transmitted to Atlanta.

In addition to these localities at which construction work is already in progress, other developments of considerable magnitude are projected on the Savannah and Coosa rivers, and one of the largest cotton mills in the Southern States will soon be in operation on Smiley's Falls, on the Cape Fear River. Other smaller enterprises are being considered on the Dan River and its tributaries.

On the streams to the west of the Blue Ridge developments are now being made on the French Broad River below Asheville, N. C., and are projected at several points on the Little Tennessee and the Hiwassee rivers in North Carolina, and on the Watauga River in Tennessee, and on the Holston River in Virginia.

Considerable impetus has been given to the development of southern water-powers by the investigations carried on for several years by the hydrographers of the United States Geological Survey, who have collected much data regarding runoff and discharge, which is widely used by engineers and others interested in these matters. The Government work in investigations in North and South Carolina has been under the charge of Hydrographer E. W. Myers, and that in Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee is under Hydrographer H. Hall.

The counties in progressive sections of the State are determined to have better public roads.

An impressive looking Londoner strolled into the Aldine Hotel, at Nineteenth and Chestnut streets, two weeks ago, carrying two large grips. He told the clerk that one of the grips contained a million dollars and requested that it be locked up in the safe. The Londoner went to his room with the other grip. The next morning he drove away and has not come back. Proprietor William Mitchell, after two days had gone by, opened the grip in the safe. He found a wad of stock certificates and bonds, the lot being worth over $1,000,000 at market prices.

A comparison of the stock certificates showed they were made out in the same name as that on the hotel register, and Mr. Mitchell wrote to one of the companies stating the facts of the owner's appearance, and requesting that a search be made for him.

As a result he yesterday received a check from the owner of the securities, who is now in New York, and a request that the million-dollar valise be forwarded to him.

Although the reckless owner registered from London, he said he had arrived from San Francisco and had enjoyed such good company on the way here that his trip had been apparently greatly shortened. He has by this time received his valises.

Mr. Mitchell declined to divulge the name of his guest. "He was a nobleman of the third class," he said.

On what a nobleman of the third class is, Mr. Mitchell was vague.—Philadelphia Dispatch.

The Reunion in New Orleans.
General Gordon, commanding the United Confederate Veterans, announces that according to the custom heretofore in force, which leaves to the commanding general and the department commanders the fixing of the date of the reunion, "the thirtieth annual reunion will be held in the city of New Orleans, May 19, 20, 21 and 22, 1903, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, respectively, those days having been named by our host as satisfactory.

With pride the commanding general also announces that 1,400 camps have already joined the association and he hopes that many more will file applications before the reunion. He urges veterans everywhere to get together and form themselves into camps and send at once to these headquarters for organization paper, so that their aid may be secured in carrying out the benevolent ideas of the organization.

The United States Senate has passed the House bill appropriating five thousand dollars for the First Baptist church of Cartersville, Ga., destroyed during the civil war by United States troops.
