The men who manage the temperance movement ought every one of them to be temperance men. No opposition need be apprehended from the politicians as long as the people are in favor of temperance reform; the danger is that the shrewd and wiley demagogues will be allowed to divert the whole busi ness from its original purpose and make it an agency for advancing party interests. If this should ever be done, the whole movement is toredoomed to failure.-Statesville Landmark.

All our instincts drop from us one by one. The child cries for mother's milk. The idea of such an ailment is repugeant to the adult. The desires for sweets, for play, for love and lovemaking, for long walks and adventures are all impulses that have their day and pass, and the wish to live is an instinct which fails also with satiety. Only at present none of us lives long enough to be satiate with days.-Professor Metchnikoff's ble in Evansville.
