Pains in the Back

Are symptoms of a weak, torpid or stagnant condition of the kidneys or liver, and are a warning it is extremely hazardous to neglect, so important is a healthy action of these organs. They are commonly attended by loss of energy, lack of courage, and sometimes by gloomy foreboding and deepondency.

"I had pains in my back, could not sleep and when I got up in the morning feit worme than the night before. I began tak-ing Hood's Sarsaparilla and now I can alwep and get up feeling rested and able to do my work. I attribute my fure entirely to Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mas. J. N. PEBRY, care H. S. In and Out. The ups and downs of the Atlantic & North Carolina Railroad, one day in the hands of a receiver, next day out, then back again in the maw of a receiver and once more back in the hand of the State, is like Finnigin, the Irish section master, whose car was forever getting off the track. He was told by the superintendent to be more careful and to keep him informed by wire when each and every accident occurred. Very soon Finnigin's old hand car ran off again, but he quickly got it back on the track and as quickly wired the su-perintendent—"Off agin, on agin, gone agin, Finnigin." The road has twice been in a receiver's hands, but is back again in the hands of the State, at least until October, when Chief Justice Fuller, of the Supreme Court of the United States, will settle it for good and all .- Greensboro Record.

Parker's Silence.

A man who can afford to keep silent and is allowed to keep silent is an extraordinary man. Most men would have to hide in a bombproot, but Judge Parker can sit on the stile at Esopus and doesn't have to talk, for he has nothing vulnerable in his character, and no unquestion able acts, private or political, that require him to do any talking to explain something in his past.

The irreproachable Parker is the man for whom the country has been looking. This is the first instance that ever came under our observation that there is nothing assailable in a candidate's life.

Judge Parker can keep silence with impunity .- Wilmington Star.

says he took her to Winston to live, but she was unable to get along with his mother and she came back here. He phoned her he would be down yesterday and she met him at the train. Officer Pugh says he saw the couple talking and quarrelling for an hour or more around the depot and then they walked off towards the coal chute. She said she wanted him to take care of her and he refused and she was following him, as he intended to take the train at Pomons and leave her behind. Witnesses say that when he saw the officer coming he told his wife to say that they were playing and she fell over the railroad iron. While the woman told her story the man said nothing, except to re mark that when he came here he found her drunk. The officers who saw them and Mr. Neelley who arrested them, say this is not true. At his request an effort was made to find a triend to go on his bond, but he could not be ocsted. Both parties seem to be respectable. The man Miller was well dressed and is a fine looking man. His wife appears to be an educated woman and seemed overwhelmed with the affair. She was discharged and promised to appear as a witness against Miller this atternoon, but she will no doubt reconsider and not told me he had read every book he be on hand. However, there are witnesses enough to convict him any While both appear to be of a bet-
