Search for Missing Boy is Still Kept Up.

Somewhere there is a little 6 year old boy who would be worth $500 to the person who carried him back to his parents. The country generally is familiar with the case of the loss of James Douglas Glass, of Jersey City, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Glass, but it is of interest that the parents have never allowed the search to cease, but continuously efforts are directed toward the recovery of the child, efforts which are nation-wide in their scope.

The missing child was born January 31, 1911, and therefore he is now arriving at the school age. Having this in mind, Frank Hauge, director of public safety of Jersey City, has sent throughout the country circular description of the boy, and of the people with whom he was last seen and superintendents of the public schools everywhere are being asked to call to the attention of their teachers the probability of the introduction in the first grade somewhere of the little boy so badly wanted at home.

The reward of $500 is with "No questions asked" and will be paid for information which will lead to the boy's recovery. The parents feeling that some one was attracted by the child and took it away and may be afraid to show themselves in possession, declare their hope that the boy will be returned as mysteriously as he went away, if the plan is considered best.

DEPOSED CZAR IS THE WORLD'S RICHEST MAN.

From Private Wealth of $2,000,000,000, Nicholas Romanoff's Income Reaches $85 A Minute.

New York, March 29.—Nicholas 11., deposed czar of Russia, is the richest man in the world. His private wealth is not less than $2,000,000,000. In many quarters here it is believed a large part of this will be seized by the Russian people to finance the war.

Nicholas Romanoff's wealth is largely invested in foreign bonds and stocks. His American holdings are said to be extensive. It is understood that he owns $50,000,000 worth of the Pennsylvania railroad's stocks. His name does not appear in the list of that corporation's stockholders for obvious reasons. Instead, some nominal owners appear.

The deposed czar also owns about 680,000,000 acres of land in Russia. Most of Russia's mineral resources are his private property. Into the czar's private treasury, according to the Russian law, one-third of Russia's gold and silver output is annually contributed.

Since the treaty of Portsmouth the Russian empire has occupied 8,647,657 square miles, or one-seventh of the land surface of the globe. It has a population of about 200,000,000, or fewer than 25 to the square mile. Nominally the autocrat "owns" both land and people, but he and his family out of the immense total of 948,063,763 acres actually own and receive the revenue from 680,938,927 acres, about 70 per cent of the whole land area of Russia—one-tenth that of the world. The balance, or 267,124,836 acres is distributed as follows, according to the 1910 report of the department of agriculture, the latest:

	Acres.
Nobility,	181,606,519
Merchants,	36,312,303
Peasants,	35,141,836
Landed proprietors,	5,381,839
Other classes,	5,673,289
Total	267,124,836

The nobility number about 1,400,000, the agricultural classes (peasants and landed proprietors) 110,000,000. Thus the tiller of the soil and the taxpayer possess on the average about one-third of an acre; the Russian nobleman, who does not pay taxes, possesses on an average some 128.

To put the case in another form. From every 384 loaves of bread produced by the Russian agriculturist the noble land owner alone takes away some 383 loaves for himself, leaving one loaf for the producer, from which the latter has yet to devote a part to satisfy the state or autocratic tax collector.

Nobody knows exactly the amount of the czar's enormous income. The expenditure of some of it is traceable to certain public works whose budgets are matters of public record, and a large part is known to be absorbed by his family and their dependents, who number about 3,000 and are, entirely apart from the noble class, which has no Romanoff affiliations. The czar had an annual salary of $12,500,000. Besides this enormous revenue he derives yet another annual income from his private estates and mines, the latter being worked by common and political convicts.

According to the Almanach Hachette the czar enjoys an annual income of $42,500,000, or $85 per minute.

All this is in addition to the income from the Romanoff property of 680,938,927 acres, 32,000,000 acres of which are at present productive. This yields an annual revenue of $10,000,000. This sum goes for the support of the grand dukes and duchesses, who number 46, many of whom draw yet other incomes from private sources, or from various posts occupied in the army and navy, or in the general administration of the bureaucracy.

HON. JEANETTE RANKIN IS GIVEN GREAT OVATION

First Woman Congressman Takes Her Seat Amid Uproarious Cheering.

Washington, April 2.—Representative Jeanette Rankin, of Montana, first woman member of Congress took her seat in the house today after an elaborate prelude of ceremonies in which woman suffragettes predominated.

The principal ceremony was a breakfast for the "Honorable Jeanette Rankin, of Montana," under the auspices of suffragettes of all factions.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage association, sat at Miss Rankin's right and at her left was Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the National Women's party.

"The day of our deliverance it at hand," was the keynote of Mrs. Catt's speech.

Miss Rankin, in reply made the longest speech she has delivered since she arrived in the capital.

"The day after election," said Miss Rankin, "it looked very much as if I had not been elected, but it seemed to me that the campaign had been nevertheless worth while, because the women had stood together, the women had learned solidarity. It seemed to me that that one thing had been alone worth striving for. I think that this breakfast this morning shows that the women are standing together."

Miss Rankin's entrance into the house was signalized by uproarious cheering and every member and everybody in the crowded galleries rose, as accompanied by Representative Evans of Montana, she walked to a seat in the rear center of the hall. She carried one of the scores of bouquets which came to her office today. She did not wear a hat and was attired simply in a dark dress.

DECLARES KAISER DOOMED

Hindenberg, Says Attache, Will be First President of Germany.

"If there is a revolution in Germany it will be held by Hindenberg." This is the astounding statement made the other day by a neutral military attache with the German army who has just come from German headquarters on urgent private business to London.

"What I say is a fact," he continued. "If the Hohenzollern dynasty is to be overthrown, Hindenberg is the man who will overthrow it and before the war is over you may see Von Hindenberg the first president of the United German republics."

"Germany is ripe for a revolution. It is not merely that the mass of the people are suffering greatly, and are growing daily more discontented. However great their suffering and their discontent, the masses in Germany would probably never dare to break out into open revolt."

"But it is not the masses alone who are discontented in Germany. The wealthy middle class are in an even greater state of anger and restlessness than the masses. I happen to know that a couple of weeks ago there was a private meeting of some of the most influential commercial and business men in Berlin. The gathering was held at the house of Herr Ballin, the great shipping magnate. Herr Ballin is one of the emperor's most intimate friends, but Herr Ballin is also a business man, and his vast private interests are of much more concern to him than the friendship with the emperor. 'Our loyalty to the emperor has cost us half of our fortune already,' he said. 'We shall not allow it to cost us the other half.' A resolution was passed at the meeting to send the following message to the kaiser: 'Win the war or end the war.' 'I believe that there would be a revolution in Germany tomorrow but for one fact—that no revolution in any country, last of all in Germany, is possible that is not supported by the army, and the only man whom the army would follow in a revolt would be Hindenberg.'

"Von Hindenberg is at the pinnacle of his popularity. He is the idol of the German people. All the successes that have attended the German army have been scored by the German idol. And if Hindenberg is an idol to the civil population in Germany he is something even more to the rank and file of the German army."—London Answer.

Lexington Automobile Speeder Heavily Fined.

Lexington, March 31.—Lexington folks had the sensation Thursday night of seeing their main street made a sure enough speedway, when a high-powered car owned by Bob Cecil, was driven at top speed through the principal thoroughfare of the town three or four times. The speeding automobile made its first appearance just as the folks were going home from the revival meetings at the First M. E. and First Reformed churches. One or more persons are reported to have narrowly escaped being run over. An officer was not on the scene and no official action was taken to try and stop the car, driven by a negro chauffeur under order of Cecil, who was the principal passenger, although one citizen threw a tub in front of the car. The tub was smashed and then someone suggested that a battery of nail kegs be placed across the street but cooler counsel prevailed. The roar of the high-powered motor and the swirl of dust made some folks uncertain as to whether it was an auto or aeroplane. When the recorder had gotten through with the case yesterday morning Cecil was a little over $88 poorer for his hour's fun.

WONDERFUL STUFF!

LIFT OUT YOUR CORNS

Apply a few drops then lift corns or calluses off with fingers—no pain.

No humming! Any corn, whether hard, soft or between the toes, will loosen right up and lift out, without a particle of pain or soreness.

This drug is called freezeone and is a compound of ether discovered by a Cincinnati man.

Ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezeone, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus.

Put a few drops directly upon any tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly the corn or callus will loosen and can be lifted off with the fingers.

This drug freezeone doesn't eat out the corns or calluses but shrivels them without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Just think! No pain at all; no soreness or smarting when applying it or afterwards. If your druggist don't have freezeone have him order it for you.

German Sea Raider off South American Coast.

Rio Janeiro, March 31.—At least 15 ships have been halted by a new German commerce raider, now operating off the South American coast and 11 of them sent to the bottom of the ocean, their crews having arrived here on board the French mail Cambronne which encountered the raider on March 7th.

The German ship is the Seeadler a three masted square rigged vessel of about 2,500 tons. She carries two 105 millimeter guns and 16 machine guns, besides a powerful wireless plant. The vessel on approaching her quarry is said to fly a Norwegian merchant flag.

Eleven ships were sunk by the raider before the Cambronne was sent to Rio Janeiro with the crews.

For the most part the Germans compensated the prisoners for their services. A remarkable case was that of a Hollander. This man was assigned to work in the gallery. At the end of his stay on the raider his German captors banded him 150 marks in German paper for his work. He refused the payment with a gesture of disdain. He was at once arrested and is now a prisoner on the Seeadler, the only member of the captured crews who was not given his liberty, it is said.

Life passed pleasantly on board the raider, the released men report. Special consideration, according to the sailors, seemed to be given the Americans among the captives on the raider.
