"Built Me Up"
 "I USED Cardui for years and it did me more good than any medicine I ever used," writes Mrs. M. C. Reynolds, of Fort Towson, Okla. "I used to suffer with womanly trouble that weakened me until I was a mere shadow, nervous, and could not sleep. I did not feel like I could live."
 "It seemed that nothing helped me till I heard of Cardui and began to use it. It strengthened me and, as I was recommended to do, it regulated and built me up till I was like another woman."
 If you are weak, run-down and feel that you need a tonic, take Cardui, the woman's tonic, the tonic about which you have always heard, the tonic that helps weak women regain their strength.
 Cardui acts on the womanly system and helps relieve pain and discomfort due to female ailments.
 Try Cardui, today, for your trouble.

JACK DEMPSEY RETAINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Firpo Falls Seven Times Before The Final Lick That Puts Him Asleep

New York, Sept. 14.—Jack Dempsey tonight retained his world's heavyweight title, knocking out Luis Angel Firpo, the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" in the second round of one of the fiercest, fastest and one of the most spectacular battles in the history of pugilism.

The champion floored his Argentine challenger five times in the first round and twice in the second round before a short right uppercut to the jaw sent Firpo down for the last time. But in the three minutes and 57 seconds of the whirlwind, terrific mauling, Dempsey himself was knocked clear through the ropes on top of the press benches, and croggy under a bombardment of mighty rights once sent to his knees.

Before Firpo went hurling down to defeat, carrying with him the shattered hopes of a continent he gave a vast, frenzied throng of 35,000, one of the most thrilling and courageous ring exhibitions of all time. Battered, bloody and groggy, he showed his marvellous stamina by coming back with a whirlwind, crushing drive toward the close of the first round that had the titleholder tottering, closer to losing his crown than at any time in his career.

Firpo fought the best fight of his career. The challenger's right was never mightier. Against the relentless power and versatility of the champion's furious attack, he went down but in defeat he gained more glory than in any battle of his career. He was beaten but his menace to the heavyweight throne was not removed. From the tap of the first gong, these two scowling giants tore at each other with attacks of unrestrained savagery. Firpo was the first to land as they came to close quarters, but in a flash the champion plunged, shot in a right to the body and a left to the jaw, sending the challenger crashing to the floor on his side.

Momentarily dazed but with eyes ablaze, Firpo rose to his feet after a short count and rushed back. Again he was met by a withering drive and went down for the second and third times. Blood flowed from his mouth, he was stunned and Dempsey let lose the most terrific power of his swings as he sensed victory. Firpo went down twice more and both times it seemed the end had come. But after taking the count of nine in his fifth knockdown, the challenger suddenly sprang at his adversary like a wounded tiger, an infuriated jungle beast.

Swinging with flail like rapidity and sledge-hammer power the famous right thrust that had brushed aside all opposition before and swept him to fame, the Argentine rushed at his adversary. Caught unaware by this stunning comeback on the part of the man he had believed beaten into submission, Dempsey reeled under the assault. A right to the side of the head sent Dempsey to his knees and as he arose another swing knocked him from his feet and through the ropes on top of the newspaper men huddled at the edge of the ring.

Dempsey's knees wavered as he climbed back in. He clinched to save himself. Firpo couldn't follow up his advantage and the bell ended a round that will go down as one of the most sensational of fighting history. It came to an end with both gladiators on their feet. Unleashed for the second round they leaped at each other once more. Dempsey again was the quicker on the attack and Firpo went down under the crushing blows of the champion. He arose only to go down once more. Now there was no doubt of the outcome. The challenger, bleeding and tottering, forced himself to his feet, carrying on largely by instinct. Dempsey pressed in, whipped his left to the body and then a short right to the chin that sent Firpo sprawling on his back, staring vacantly at the glare of lights overhead.

The Argentine tried feebly to turn over, to gather strength to rise. His fighting heart called him back to the fray but the body that had withstood one of the most terrific assaults the ring has ever known, could not respond. He lay flat at the count of 10, after 57 seconds of the round had elapsed and was helped to his corner by the victorious champion.

The outcome proved that sheer strength and hitting power alone plus a courageous heart could not survive against experienced skill, swiftness of foot and equally as formidable punching prowess.

Dempsey had to call on his all to survive that withering come-back of Firpo's in the first round after the Argentine had been floored five times. But the fact that he had reserve, the stamina and the courage to weather the sudden and terrific storm and emerge triumphant demonstrated conclusively that he is the present-day "champion of champions" and, in the belief of those who saw him tonight, one of the greatest of all time. Dempsey gained a fortune with his victory tonight for he will receive close to $500,000 for his share of the gate receipts, estimated at $1,270,000 by promoter Tex Rickard, a figure second only to the record gate of $1,600,000 established two years by the Dempsey-Carpentier battle at Jersey City.

The champion's share, 37 1-2 per cent of the gate receipts approximates $480,000 while Firpo 12 1-2 per cent will receive about $160,000, twice as much as he got for any previous battle.

"THAT TROUBLE isn't in your oil"

Trust this live experience!

Say "Polarine"—not just "a quart of oil"

OVERHEATING! The Fleet Boss knew the oil wasn't to blame, for it was giving entire satisfaction in all the other cars. Matter of fact, the water pump was nearly worn out and the radiator partly clogged up. Drivers marvel at the unflinching accuracy of the Fleet Boss' advice. "It's just long experience and common sense," he tells them.

Polarine is the finest oil you can get today, because the men who make it have been through the school of common sense and long experience. You can trust the unflinching quality of the oil they give you. If you use Polarine regularly you're sure of one thing about your car—the oil is RIGHT. Experience has, in quantity production and efficient distribution, kept it moderate in price, too.
