THIS WOMAN'S BATTLE

Wins Against Ill Health

"At times I was hardly able to do my housework," writes Mrs. Margaret Wallace of 1547 Bedford Ave., Columbus, Ohio. How many women have found themselves in this same condition!

How many women have fought bravely on day after day, cooking, washing, ironing, doing the dishes, and keeping the house clean, when they were in a weakened condition and had not sufficient strength to perform these duties easily and properly!
 When Mrs. Wallace was experiencing great difficulty in carrying on the daily tasks, a friend advised her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she gave it a fair trial. "It just can't give enough thanks to it," she writes. "Now I can eat anything at all and I am feeling better than I have for years. I shall never be without your medicine again."

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling bugles to cheer her on, no waving banners.
 Many other women tell us, as Mrs. Wallace did, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was their faithful ally in the struggle for better health.

Two Rich Bootleggers Sued For Income Tax.

Chicago, Ill., Sept.—Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, reputed to have become wealthy through bootlegging and operating breweries, were made defendants in claims filed in federal court today by Mrs. Mahal G. Reincke, collector of internal revenue, who is seeking to collect more than $500,000 income tax for 1922, 1923 and 1924.

The activities of Druggan and Lake in and out of the Cook county jail, to which they had been sentenced for contempt of federal court, precipitated a scandal which resulted in jail sentences for Peter M. Hoffman, sheriff and Wesley H. Westbrook former jail warden.

Revenue agents have been touring the country checking on real estate holdings of Druggan and Lake. One agent spent several weeks in Florida where Druggan is said to own valuable properties.

Spending $1,000 to Guard Liquor Cargo.

Raleigh, Sept. 2.—Marshal R. W. Ward estimated here today that it is going to cost the United States government around $1,000 to guard the cargo of the rum ship "Elma," pending disposition by the federal court this fall.

Two guards are now on duty, Marshal Ward said, and are costing about $20 a day. They are expected to be retained until October 4, the return date of the seizure warrant.

Only one guard was stationed over the rum ship before Marshal Ward took charge last week, but then he decided to keep a watch over it both night and day and put on two men.

The cargo and vessel are said to be valued at about $500,000. The seizure was made off the North Carolina coast last May.

PLAYS EDUCATIONAL STATUS OF STATE

Debate On Eight Month School Term Is Object of Decision, Declares Prof. N. W. Walker.

Chapel Hill, Aug. 20.—That North Carolina from an educational standpoint, is one of the most backward states in the Union was the sentiment voiced by Prof. N. W. Walker, director of the University Summer School, and Prof. W. S. Bernard, professor of Greek in the university, speaking at the summer school commencement exercises held under Davis Popular Friday night. Professors Walker and Bernard painted a black picture of the educational status of North Carolina compared with that of other states and pointed out to the graduates what the State expects of them and wherein their duty lies in helping to bring about a complete and modern system of education. Their messages were addressed to the 57 graduates, but reached and impressed a large number of summer school students who were in attendance at the exercises.

Professor Walker pointed out that the matter of having to debate the question of an eight months school term was making North Carolina the laughing stock of progressive states. "The biggest problem North Carolina has before it," said Professor Walker, urging the graduates to remain intellectually curious, "is the education of its people. We are about to get into a campaign for a longer school term. The progressive states of the union are laughing at us for having to debate about the matter of an eight months school term, regarding it as preposterous for a progressive state to have to debate about such a matter which should have been settled long ago. North Carolina has the means to provide an eight months term if it wants to do it. There are at least a dozen sources of revenue we have not touched."

"We aren't going to be able to hold our own in the next two or three decades," continued Professor Walker, "unless we pay more attention to our human resources. The issue that you and I are going to be concerned with is going to be property rights on one hand and human rights on the other. North Carolina ought to change its attitude and put human rights above all other rights that the State undertakes to protect."

"North Carolinians are not given enough to intellectual pursuits," concluded Mr. Walker. "The alumni could make over our State if they were intellectually alert. The State needs the graduates of its colleges to continue to be intellectually curious and not to stop growing intellectually as soon as they get diplomas. The education and training provided thru our schools and colleges are doing more to determine what the State is and will be than any other influence."

"We are the most backward state in the Union with about two exceptions and have nothing to boast of," said Professor Bernard, presenting to the graduates the problems they will have to face. Professor Bernard compared the view of life in North Carolina today with the view expressed in recent newspaper accounts of a disaster which resulted in the loss of millions of dollars of property and many lives—the millions of dollars were played up in headlines with the major portion of the article being devoted to them, while a short paragraph at the end of the article told of the lives lost. The state is looking to you to change that point of view," said Dr. Bernard. "Give your heart, mind and thought to building up education. We have practically none. That is the message you have to carry back as alumni."

The Fergusons Accept Defeat Very Calmly.

Austin, Texas, Aug. 29.—The Fergusons today accepted philosophically the verdict of Texas Democrats in a history-making political battle climaxed with the selection of Dan Moody, fiery red-haired attorney general, to succeed the Lone Star state's first woman governor.

The result of the battle was decisive. Mr. Moody, 33 years old, who rose from an obscure county attorney to the Democratic gubernatorial nominee in the span of six years, led Miriam A. Ferguson, incumbent, almost 2 to 1.

Latest returns compiled by the Texas election bureau from 258 counties out of 253 in the state, 95 complete, gave:
 Moody 549,526; Mrs. Ferguson 241,455.

Democratic nomination in Texas is equivalent to election, and Mr. Moody's victory assures his election next November.

In defeat, Jim Ferguson, the battling farmer-politician, still twitted his enemies and joked about his own position when newspaper men found him shortly after breakfast today in the office of the Ferguson Forum, published by the former governor.

"My wife is a good sport; she's not worried and you needn't be worried about her either," said Mr. Ferguson. Moody's battle cry in the campaign was "Down with Fergusonism." He never recognized Mr. Ferguson's contention that the Ku Klux Klan was the issue.

MINOR ILLS
 Dizziness, Biliousness, Colds and Others, Relieved by Black-Draught.

"I used to be bothered with dizzy spells," says Mr. Andy Parker, Route 4, Fort Payne, Ala., "and would get so feeling tired and my feet were heavy."
 "I had a bad taste in my mouth. My eyes would burn. Then, pretty soon, I would have a mean headache."
 "Someone told me about Black-Draught. I began taking it, and it helped me."
 "Black-Draught has been our main medicine in the house now, for about twenty-five years. We take it for biliousness, colds and almost all minor ills. It's the first thing, my folks and I think of taking, when we feel bad."
 "We recommend it very highly."
 Try it for the ills Mr. Parker mentions. For sale everywhere. Insist on the genuine.
