M., January 5, by Rev. Lewis McFarland, of High Point, Rev. B. H. Milliam, of this city, and Mrs. Robinson, of White Plains. Mrs. Brown was the mother of Loui Patterson, of this city.

Don't Miss This Treat!

The Crowning Achievement of the Season.

Picture lovers who are tired of the same old thing and clamor for something different will find it in "Into Her Kingdom," Monday, January 17 at the National Theatre, in which the beautiful Corinna Griffith really enters her own kingdom in the impersonation of the late Grand Duchess Titiana of Imperial Russia. This is without a doubt the most popular as well as the most dramatic and colorful of Miss Griffith's roles. A great First National production, and will be shown in this city as a benefit for the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church, Monday, Jan. 17. Tickets will be on sale by the women all day Monday.

Mrs. Williamson Hostess.

The Tuesday Afternoon Bridge club met with Mrs. Halston Williamson last Thursday afternoon, when five tables accommodated the players. Dainty handkerchiefs rewarded the holders of high score at each table and pottery vases consoling the five ladies who held low table scores. After the game the hostess served a tempting salad course. Among the visitors present was Mrs. Morgan Simmons, of Martinsville, Va.

Woman's Club State Headquarters in Raleigh.

Raleigh has been chosen as the logical place in which to locate headquarters for the North Carolina Federation of Woman's Clubs and quarters have been secured in the Sir Walter Raleigh hotel and all club women in the state were invited to visit the state headquarters on their opening date Wednesday of this week from 3 to 5 P. M.

Mrs. Whitlock Hostess.

The last of a series of parties given by the Kilcare Bridge club was held in the home of Mrs. C. M. Whitlock, Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. R. J. Lovill winning the prize for high score during the series. A delicious salad course followed the game.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

Business and Musical Program Followed By Address on Interior Decorating by Miss Smith.

The large number at the meeting of the Mount Airy Woman's Club Friday verified the President's statement that the members were over their vacation and ready to be doing something; and the President and her committee know how to find that something for them to do.

The club is fortunate in having a very capable secretary who reviewed the reports of the departments for the previous meeting.

A gift of five dollars was made by the club through the local American Legion auxiliary, which with the contribution from that organization carried Christmas cheer to two sick nurses and the Legion auxiliary's disabled soldier at Owen. This soldier wrote that he was the happiest soldier at Owen.

Special attention should be called to the report on institutional relations. Apples, candy, bananas and victrola records were carried to the County Home. Mr. Whitman kindly donated a victrola and our chairman requested the manager of the institution to let the inmates enjoy those records and that victrola if they wore them out in three days. Who knows but what that jazz music made them feel young again and in homes of plenty, and forget that they are dependent upon the county. Any way these unfortunate inmates were so happy that our chairman was fairly carried off her feet by hugs and exclamations of joy from these dwellers at the County Home. Too the inmates of the jail were not forgotten.

The chairman of the music department had a most excellent program consisting of a beautiful vocal duet by Mrs. E. G. Davis and Miss Elsie Sparger, a very sweet violin solo by Miss Frances Leonard and two excellently rendered solos by Mr. Jesse Simmons.

The chairman of fine arts was fortunate in securing Miss Gertrude Smith for the outstanding feature on the program. The chairman made a very interesting and appropriate talk when she introduced Miss Smith (one of our talented Mount Airy girls) who is located at Greensboro as interior decorator. Miss Smith gave a very spicy and interesting talk on interior decorations. If I have any male readers, I want to warn them not to be surprised if the interior of their house undergoes a complete reformation, and if it does just "blame" it on Miss Smith.

New Sewing Room at Jackson's.

Carpenters have completed the work of making a new sewing room in Jackson's over Hawks-Boyles, an extension having been built over the stairway. The sewing room has a built-in cutting table and opens into a roomy dressing room with storage room. Mrs. T. C. Jackson will occupy the new quarters.
