"My Son Is A Fool."

A certain New York millionaire was showing his home to a friend not long ago. The house was equipped with every modern convenience and luxury. "I have all these things," said the millionaire, "and yet I can enjoy none of them—for my son is a fool!"

Tragedies of this kind happen in many homes. Usually they come, not because the boy is spoiled, but because he is poorly informed about life. He does not know toward what goal to direct his efforts.

To help boys and girls to choose their life work intelligently, a group of famous Americans are writing for The Youth's Companion this year a series of articles of the professions. Farming is discussed by L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House of Representatives, writes about politics. Equally eminent spokesmen have been found for the other professions.

Give an ambitious boy or girl a chance to read these articles, along with more than 300 gems of fiction every year. Now is the time to enter your subscription for the Hundred and First Year of the oldest, finest and cleanest young people's magazine in America. Subscribers will receive:

- 1. The Youth's Companion—52 weekly issues, and
- 2. The Hundredth Anniversary Souvenir Picture "A Yard of Youth" (sent on request.) All for $2.

3. Or include McCall's Magazine, the monthly authority on fashions. Both publications only $2.50.

$12,000,000 LEFT TO LOVED ORPHANS

Tithes Will Go To His Family Only A Small Share Of Large Estate.

Tulsa, Okla.—Charles Page, Tulsa multi-millionaire philanthropist, took care of his orphan "children" and then provided for his family, his wife and daughter.

The philanthropy of the Oklahoma "tithes" toward poverty stricken orphans and widows will live after his death for he left the bulk of his $12,000,000 estate for his dependents, providing in a less substantial way for his wife and daughter and the other members of his family.

Recently Probated.
The will of Page, recently probated, was not a surprise in Tulsa and Sand Springs, a suburb built by Page, where he maintained an orphanage for 100 or more adopted children and a widows' colony for dependent mothers, as well as a hospital for the poor.

To his widow, Mr. Page left an annuity of $24,000, payable $2,000 a month, for her lifetime and the beautiful home at Sand Springs. He provided for the upkeep of the home. The widow's share it to be reduced on the majority of his daughter, Mary Charlie Page, now fifteen. When Mary becomes twenty-one, the widow's monthly allowance is to be $1,500 a month. The daughter is to receive $500 a month until her mother's death, when her monthly allowance from the earnings of the estate is to be increased to $1,000 a month.

Gave Tithes.
To his brother, Edwin Page, he gave a home, and $5,000 was provided for each of Edwin's three children for their education, and $500 a month to be divided between them in their lives. He remembered other relatives in less substantial ways.

Years ago, after he had gone broke as a prospector, Page became a tither. He said God was his partner. At least 10 per cent of his earnings was to go to God's work, principally to orphans and widows. The children were legally adopted and reared in his great orphanage at Sand Springs. He built an amusement park for them and the other children of Tulsa, and the dependent widows lived in cottages built and maintained by him.

KILLS FOUR LIONS MISSED BY ARCHIE

Chicagoan Gets Hides In Arizona Where Roosevelt Party Got None.

Chicago.—Over the same trail that Archie Roosevelt, hunter of African, Amazonian and Asiatic game, had traveled just before him and returned empty-handed, went Stanley R. Graham, Chicago business man, and bagged four pumas in the highlands of the Rincon Mountains, east of Tucson.

The puma, commonly known as the mountain lion, which is more like a great, ungainly cat than a lion, runs more or less wild in the wilds of Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado, but particularly in Arizona. Any book on zoology will give to the prospective puma hunter the information that the animal is delightfully non-vegetarian, particularly in the winter.

Mr. Roosevelt knew those things, and that's why he thought the puma would provide the annual fall hunting thrill. But nary one did he see during his stay in the Rincon Mountain country.

They along come Mr. Graham, who has hunted lions bare handed, with lariat, bow and arrow, pistol and rifle.

YOUNG PEOPLE NOT ALL BAD

Bishop Penick Tells Charlotte Folk Younger Generation Less Hypocritical Today.

Charlotte, Jan. 25.—The younger generation can no more be expected to live like the older than one would expect to push a wheelbarrow or ride a horse and buggy to New York, the Right Rev. E. A. Penick, bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of North Carolina said in a talk here.

The younger generation, he asserted, is less hypocritical than the older, is kinder, more straight-forward and accomplishes more in church work because it is less sentimental, the bishop said.

"I have no patience with the older people who are always scolding the younger generation and who seem to think that because young people are living according to different standards that they are worse than their elders," said the bishop.

"We don't push a wheelbarrow or ride a horse and buggy to New York any more, so why should the younger generation live like the older."

Because a standard or custom is old is no reason that it is suited to the present generation, the bishop said. Young people have a contempt for "simulated piety," so common a generation ago, he continued, and a hatred of creeds and meaningless phrases that once were used in religion worship.

He said that there were more young people, in proportion, doing church work today than ever before. "I know the young people," he said. "I go on camping trips and picnics with them. I associate with them, know what they are saying and thinking."

He laughed at the idea that the younger generation is immoral and that "motion pictures and automobiles are taking them to the bow-wows as so many well-meaning older people seem to fear.

A bank which was closed by the courts in 1901 will make a further payment to depositors, which will raise the total they have received to 114 per cent, with more to come. Too much investment in wildcat oil wells and Florida orange groves was given as the reason for closing, but the wells and orange groves paid, and the depositors have been receiving payments over a period of twenty-five years.
