Kiwanis Convention Meets in Memphis

Two delegates from each of the 1,645 Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada, together with two thousand visitors will meet in Memphis, Tenn., for the 11th annual convention of Kiwanis International, June 6-9. Registration of delegates and the visitors and the assignment of hotel accommodations are already under way at the convention office. The Memphis auditorium, which has been the meeting place of the south's largest conventions, will be used for the Kiwanis sessions. The broadcasting of "All Kiwanis Night" on Monday evening, June 6, from Memphis will be an international event. All clubs on the North American continent will meet in their respective cities at the same time as the opening session of the convention in Memphis. This simultaneous occasion will be for the expression of the united good will and friendship existing between the United States and Canada for over a hundred years. The convention program is also being arranged to include features of the Old South. "Memphis Night" will depict for the Kiwanian visitors the scenes of the southland of many years ago.

Feel tired? Call for a bottle of PEPSI-COLA—you'll enjoy the refreshing effect.

DR. RANKIN TO SPEAK. Kiwanians To Hear Noted Doctor Friday Evening.

One of the most interesting programs in the history of the Kiwanis Club of this city will be given at the meeting Friday evening, with Dr. W. S. Rankin, of Charlotte, the leading speaker. Dr. Rankin will have charge of the program and will introduce the speaker, who is director of the hospital fund of the Duke Foundation and recognized as one of the ablest men of our state. He was formerly secretary of the state board of health and is a fluent and forceful speaker. A special musical program has also been arranged and the entire membership is expected to attend the meeting.

Dr. Rankin will discuss the work of the Duke Foundation from the medical and hospital side, and his message will appeal to the business man as well as to those of his profession.

Working For the Under-Privileged Child.

Under-privileged child activity, as Kiwanis International has been carrying it on for the past eleven years, is still on the increase in all the cities where the 1,645 clubs are located. It might be possible to believe that after eleven years of strenuous clinical aid child welfare work would be reduced to a minimum.

However experience has taught Kiwanis International a great deal about the under-privileged child. In the early years of the work Kiwanians realized the need of more than physical treatment for children. Soon there developed from a generalized aid the divisions in which children would get more specialized attention. No longer was it the crippled child alone, but the work was carried on to give aid to the mentally, morally and economically under-privileged as well.

With this increased activity, Kiwanians also developed a personal service, each member taking an interest in one child, and caring for all the special necessities which might hasten progress. This service soon developed into more than mere aid, for each Kiwanian sought to give parental interest and supervision to his child.

Out of this eleven years of under-privileged child work, Kiwanis has realized the necessity of going still more deeply into the problem of helping unfortunate children. Clinical aid, moral, mental and economical help all tended to correct the child but did little to alleviate the conditions which brought about the child's misfortune.

So as the work of Kiwanis International goes on, all efforts will be made to continue to give the child every kind of aid, but also there will be sought to prevent the influence which destroys the good tendencies in a child's life.

Taking All.

Shall I take all, and day by day Give nothing back along the way? Shall naught of service come from me That life on earth may happier be? Or shall I not rejoice to find Some little need for being kind, And seize the chance this gift to make To one from whom so much I take? That heart is cold and dull as stone Where gratitude is never known, And thoughtless he, who while he lives Takes all from life, but nothing gives.

Secretaries' Sayings.

"The greatest satisfaction in life is to have real friends, the kind who can be counted on when a friend is needed. Kiwanis creates that kind of friends. This has made it a wonderful agency for good in every community in which its banner has been planted."

"Strive to be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear and too happy to permit the presence of trouble. We can strive if we will. It is simply a matter of developing the best that is in us."

"It is not what we profess to be, but what we are, that makes us a part of this great organization. Would you have Kiwanis a power for good? Then go forth teaching and preaching its lessons by precept and example, and if the tongue be silent, let the voice of life proclaim—I have learned its lessons well."

Martin Memorial Hospital By a Patient

Man may never write an Epic Based on Operating Rooms For there's nothing less inspiring Than the smell of ether fumes.

But I know one Institution, And I take my pen in hand, Just to prove beyond all question, It's the best one in the land.

Nestling near the Blue Ridge Mountains,

In the Carolina Hills, Where all Nature lends her magic As a balm for human ills. You will find there Dr. Martin Of all surgeons he is chief, And his skill with knife and needle Is almost beyond belief.

Also Dr. Edward Ashby, "Too high-hat" I hear you say? Well, he seems a bit indifferent, But it's just his natural way.

He is really very friendly, And (now this is inside dope) That same man's a perfect wizard With a blooming Cystoscope!

There's Miss West, the Superintendent, Poised and calm and most sedate; But you'd never find a better, If you searched throughout the state.

And Miss Marshall—try to fool her! It's just something you can't do; For she has a way of looking Every patient through and through!

You will like Miss Bertha Adams— Though sometimes she makes you jump,

For believe me, that young lady Wields a wicked stomach pump!

Let me mention, too, Miss Homet, She looks after all the biz; Makes your bill—but smiles so sweetly You forget how large it is!

And that's just the way you'll find it, System, order, night and day, Each one has a certain duty, And it's done without delay.

Yet, it's not mere skill and science, (You can find those anywhere) They have something more than Technique— It's the spirit that is there.

Kindly words—who knows their power? Who can say how deep they go? And the touch of gentle fingers, Often means more than we know.

So they've learned to mix the doses— Loving kindness with the pills, In this Blessed House of Healing Up among the Surry Hills.

World's Greatest Need. A little more kindness and a little less greed;

A little more giving and a little less greed; A little more smile and a little less frown;

A little less kicking a man when he's down; A little more "we," and a little less "I;"

A little more laughs and a little less cry; A little more flowers on the pathway of life;

And fewer on graves at the end of the strife.

Laughter is one of the best appetizers. A hearty laugh before a meal means a system more ready for food.

Kiwanis Thoughts.

As Kiwanians we may be thankful that the ideals for which we strive are growing each day. Kiwanis is the spirit of hope for the better age, based on the firm belief in the triumph of fellowship. It holds firmly to the theory that ideal life will come, not by strategy, but by the overthrow of greed and love of power to the end that all the world may enjoy the rich benedictions of brotherhood.

Kiwanis is a bold undertaking. It brings together men who have made a place in business, in professions, in industry and in the community; men who think, act and believe differently and yet on so many vital questions of business ethics and human relations, are in agreement and are honestly striving for higher standards, materially and spiritually.

Are we giving to our community those ideals in us which brought about the birth of Kiwanis International? Will our personality stand inspection or do we make a good impression only to fall short upon acquaintance? If we are going to progress as a club we must individually be progressive and aggressive. The general impression we make upon the people with whom we come in contact is merely an outward expression of our inner self.
