FOR THE GOOSE-

IF A mun can remember it's gettin' late, you ain't makin' such grand headway with him.

Fightin' down the pangs of envy is rorth a lot. Not havin' 'em to fight is worth a lot more.

FOR THE GANDER-

Some people are so gloomy when they took up at the sky it only seems to'them like a rip in the cloud

You learn some'm from the access of others. But not as much as from your own failures.

Superstitions Leating

The black cut superstition is a direct descendant of the days when the cut was worshiped in Egypt. Some years ago the swantica swept the country as a lucky emblem. As a basic form of design, it was known in the Orient thousands of years ago, and recent excavations have disclosed that it was similarly used as a religious ornament by the Mayas and Incas of Central and South America hundreds of years before Columbus discovered America. As a lucky emblem it was based on oriental legends, where it has played a part in religious worship for centuries.
