The Progress of the Old North State

a high school education and the State authorities are seeing to it that they get it, or at least they are seeing to it that every child in the state attends school at least six months in the year. It takes, at least, a high school education for a fellow to make out his income tax papers.

When a Hebrew discovered he was unable to fill out his income tax papers, owing to the intricate methods of figuring up his stock, profits and turn over on last year's business, he called upon one of the government's tax experts. The tax expert asked him how many children he had, as he was allowed certain exemptions for a family. The man said he had four. Beekie 8 years old, Jakey 6 years old, Ikey 2 years old, and Samy three months old, born on the 25th of January. But, said the expert, "You can't include the baby, he was born this year." "Well, that don't matter—this is for last year's transactions."

We Tar Heels are great believers in good roads while on this earth. When we die, we are dead so far as this life is concerned. More progress has been made in North Carolina in the past twenty-five years than had been made in the preceding four centuries since Columbus discovered America. Roads have been no exception to the rule. No accurate statistics as to the work of the counties upon 50,000 miles of road under their care are available. The one hundred million dollars expended by the State Highway Commission in the construction of 6,000 miles of roads has proven our best advertising asset, our greatest commercial and agricultural achievement. North Carolina's road building campaign, extending over a period of five years, has paid huge dividends. Two thousand busses carry children to school over these roads. This is one of the achievements the improved roads have made possible. While the number of farms in the country, as a whole, have been on the decrease, the number of North Carolina farms has been increased by 13,000 during the last five years. Not only the rural life has been improved, but the smooth highways have enabled farmers to get their farm products to market with greater facility. Truck farming in the state has been on the upswing and now North Carolina ships four times as many cucumbers, peaches and strawberries as it did before advent of the good roads. Motor registration in the state has increased 200 per cent since 1920, leading the increase in the rest of the country by 60 per cent. And indirectly this increased motor registration has paid for the highway in fees and a four-cent a gallon gas tax. These are a few of the things that moved a great teacher in our university to say in a recent address, that "Our valley of humiliation had been changed into the valley of decision that the Prophet Joel saw in his dream."

Therefore, ladies and gentlemen, not in pride, but with the grace of gratitude, I give you the toast:

Here's to the land of the long-leaf pine,
A summer land where the sun doth shine;
Where the weak grow strong, and the strong grow great—
Here's to Down Home—The Old North State."

Faulty Elimination

Should Be Corrected—Good Elimination Is Essential to Good Health.

If you would be well, see to your elimination. Faulty kidney action permits toxic material to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. Then, one is apt to have a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, a tonic headache or headache, and often some irregularity of secretions, such as scanty or burning passages. More and more people are recognizing the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, in this condition. For more than forty years Doan's have been winning favor the country over. Ask your neighbor!

The Economy Of Electric Cookery

Aside from the many obvious advantages of the electric range this cooking appliance appeals to the family of ordinary means because of its economy in operation. Of course it means much to Mother to have a comfortable kitchen in hot weather. It means much to her to be relieved of the necessity for constantly attending the fire and constantly watching the food in the oven or on the top of the stove. The extra hours of recreation, rest, or other more pleasant duties not only mean a great deal to mother but they mean much also to the balance of the family. The superior results in cooking, due to the absolute uniformity, ease of control and other features of the electric range, are of course appreciated by the entire family.

BUT, the feature that appeals to DAD, upon whom rests the burden of meeting the bills at the first of the month, is the economy of the electric range. The Southern Public Utilities Company several years ago established a special cooking rate and that rate has since been reduced so that today it is considerably less than one-half the rate for lights and ordinary electric service in the home. At this special rate it is cheaper to cook with electricity than it is with coal or wood. Many of our customers say that it is cheaper to cook with electricity than it is with oil.

With more than 4,000 electric ranges in use on our system, many of them in homes where they are used by servants who may be notoriously careless in the operation of the range, the average bill for service is approximately $5.00 per month. In many communities the average is considerably less than that figure.

In the city of Chester, S. C., two out of three of the white residential customers of the company use electric ranges. In other words two-thirds of the white population of this town are enjoying the comfort, the economy, the healthfulness and the other advantages that attend the use of the electric range.

In Mount Airy the average of the bills of the 71 electric range users on our lines for the past four months has been $3.78.

No housewife in Mount Airy can afford not to carefully investigate the advantages of the electric range, and to consider what an electric range in her kitchen will mean to her. The special features of our campaign offer not only enable the housewife to secure an electric range at a low price but on such terms as will enable her to pay for it without inconvenience while she is enjoying its use and benefits.
