SENATOR SIMMONS.

The Raleigh News-Observer has the following nice and truthful article about our next senator:

The senatorial primary resulted in the election of Hon. Furlough M. Simmons to the United States senate. The majority is so large that there can be no doubt in any man's mind that he is the choice of the Democratic party of the State. It shows that the people carried out the resolution that was general after the victory of 1898 to give the State chairman the high honor of the senatorial toga as a reward for the ability and generalship he displayed in leading the party hosts in the strenuous campaign that redeemed the State from Radical rule.

Mr. Simmons will go into the senate well equipped by former legislative experience, having served with ability two terms in the house of representatives. He is an able lawyer, a successful party leader, a prodigious worker, an astute politician, an eloquent debator and a man of versatile talent. Since hereached manhood, Mr. Simmons has been a consistent and active Democrat. He has always stood true to the Democratic principles and policies, and in sunshine and in shadow has never failed to work for the success of his party.

In the higher field to which he has been called, Mr. Simmons will represent the best sentiment of the State and stand by Democratic policies, of which Bryan is the best exponent.

REPUBLICAN LANDSLIDE.

The Republicans won a sweeping victory Tuesday, not only electing the president by a tremendous majority but gaining more seats in congress and continuing to have full control of every branch of the national government.

The population of the fifteen southern states has increased nearly four million in the past ten years. There were but three million people in the colonies at the time we gained independence from England.

"The only way to keep the price of cotton at ten cents," says the Rome, Ga., Tribune, "is to sow plenty of wheat, so that you will be independent and can hold your cotton."

William Jennings Bryan, twice defeated, but still America's greatest statesman. A most admirable man.

Pins.

Queen Catherine obtained pins from France, and, in 1543, an act was passed: "That no person shall put to sale any pinnes but only such as shall be double headed and have the heads soldered fast to the shank of the pinnes, well smoothed, the shank well shapen, the points well round filed, cauted and sharpened."

At this time most pins were made of brass, but many were also made of iron, with a brass surface. France sent a large number of pins to England until about the year 1626.

In this year one John Tilshy started pinmaking in Gloucestershire. So successful was his venture that he soon had 1,500 persons working. These pins made at Stroud were held in high repute.

In 1636 pinmakers combined and founded a corporation. The industry was carried on at Bristol and Birmingham, the latter becoming the chief center. In 1775 prizes were offered for the first native made pins and needles in Carolina, and during the war in 1812 pins fetched enormous prices.

Pins vary from 3/8 inches in length to the small gilt entomologists' pin; 4,500 weighing about an ounce.—Good Words.

An Adjunct to Tears.

"Perhaps you can direct me," she said, with pompous condescension, to the floorwalker. "I've a crying need for!"

"Yes'm," interrupted the floorwalker in his quick, nervous way. "Handkerchief department. If counter, next aisle."—Philadelphia Press.

The Wicked Little Germ.

"Microbes attack their victims when they are worn out."

"That's so; we read about them until we are dead tired, and then they take a mean advantage of us."—Indianapolis Journal.

To remove a troublesome corn or bunion: First soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it, then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily; rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn for a few days, to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism. Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by J. E. Hood.

Wouldn't Sell the House.

The house in which Joan of Arc was born is still faithfully preserved in pious veneration at Domremy, where it is looked upon almost in the light of a shrine. Passersby invariably cross themselves and utter a prayer for protection as they go by.

The story goes that a rich and eccentric Englishman tried hard to buy the place in 1837. It was at that time the property of a farmer named Girardin. The Englishman offered to let him have his own price, but the old man held firm. "No, no, no," he cried. "I would not sell it even to a Frenchman, much less to a foreigner and especially an Englishman. People here would call me a traitor and a coward were I to part with the house from which Joan of Arc went out to serve France."

The Englishman convinced himself that further bargaining was useless and went his way.

Soon after an officer from the king's household arrived in the village and asked to speak with Girardin. Before the whole village, assembled in the street, he said: "Girardin, the king has learned that you have refused to sell your house to an Englishman. He desires to reward you, but not in coin. He knows that you no more want the money of the French than of the English, therefore has he commanded me to present you with the cross of the Legion of Honor."

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cure biliousness, constipation and headache. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. For sale by J. E. Hood.

BLOOD TELLS.

Yes, it is the index to health. If you have had blood you are likely to learn that you have Rheumatism, one of the most horrible diseases to which mankind is heir. If this disease has just begun its work, or if you have been afflicted for years, you should at once take the wonderful new cure,

...RHEUMACIDE...

Thousands have been cured. The summer season is the best time to take a rheumatic remedy. Nature will then aid the medicine in effecting a permanent, constitutional cure. People with bad blood are subject to catarrh, indigestion, and many other diseases. To be healthy the blood must be pure. RHEUMACIDE is the Prince of blood purifiers.
