The postal facilities between Kinston and the surrounding section are not what they ought to be, and should be improved. One big improvement would be to have rural free delivery from Kinston to some of the thickly settled surrounding communities.

A Republican in Raleigh holding a high position in his party says it is the purpose of President McKinley to make sweeping changes in the personnel of Federal officials in the south, particularly in this State, with a view to strengthening the party. We suppose he will appoint some "McKinley Democrats" to office.

It is said that Richard Croker doesn't pay a dollar of tax in New York city, but in England they say he has an income of not less than $100,000 and they are going for him for $5,000 income tax. It seems from this that the American tax jumper doesn't enjoy the same privileges in England that he does at home, says the Wilmington Star.

The British are pursuing in South Africa the same policy they pursued in this country during the Revolutionary war—burning, pillaging and destroying. It seems that the British mode of warfare has not been improved in the century and more that has elapsed since the American colonies won their independence.—Savannah News.

Ex-President Harrison evidently is not deluded by the humanitarian professions mingled with trading common about civilizing the Philippines and converting them by force of arms into free self-governing commonwealths. The poorest possible way of conciliating and civilizing the heathen is in suppressing them by the strong arm of military power.—Philadelphia Record.

Public announcement is not made of pardons. They are made by the governor as suits him, and information as to the pardons is denied the public, except as it leaks out. Shortly after Gov. Russell was inaugurated he announced that all pardons would be given out to the public. He kept this up a short time and then gave orders that the public should not be advised when pardons were granted. The fact of a pardon is now known only to those on the inside—except in occasional cases. The pardon of an inmate of the penitentiary is a public act performed by a public officer. The governor ought to let the public know in the regular channels when the pardon is granted. More than that: When application is made to the governor for pardon, he ought to cause the application to be printed before taking action. That would prevent a pardon on ex-parte testimony, and would put him in possession of any reason why the pardon should not be granted.—Raleigh News-Observer.

A Gastronomic Cyclone.
All men and women eat. If they don't, they won't last long, and no one need worry as to whether they count for much or not. But good eaters are usually very depend-on-able. By good eaters I do not mean large eaters or greedy eaters, though I may include some of both, but I mean the men and women who enjoy what they eat and show no disposition, either from dyspepsia or other form of indigestion, to quarrel with their food.

Gluttons, however, are not very lovely. I sat at table once with a woman at a summer resort who every day for dinner ate 12 ears of corn from the cob. That is more than the regulation mid-day feed for a horse. And in the operation she greased her hands and her cheeks, and every now and again her nose was decorated with the well buttered gralus. She was a sight, and at the end of the table she bred a famine that it took weeks to relieve. And she was in repose not by any means a bad looking woman, but in action—in action at the table she was a kind of human cyclone, leaving desolation in her path. She had had three husbands and is a widow again. What became of the poor men I never knew. Maybe she ate them.—John Gilmer Speed in Criterion.

How to Cure Croup.
Mr. B. Gray, who lives near Armenia, Dutchess county, N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by J. E. Hood, druggist.

Effect of Fear on Wounds.
The fear of poison in a lacerated wound under certain circumstances is in itself quite sufficient to give a wounded man tetanus, or lockjaw, than which no more horrible complication exists. Thus for a long time it was thought that the natives of the Solomon and other neighboring islands lately added to the empire used poisoned arrows and many white men shot by them died in tetanic convulsions, including one very horrible case of a commander in the navy who had made a special study of tetanus.

At length the French governor of New Caledonia, noticing that the symptoms exhibited were not consistent with the use of any known poison, appointed a medical commission to inquire into the affair, when it was discovered that the arrows of the natives were not poisoned at all, although constructed in such a way that a small piece of the bone point almost always remained in the wound. The irritation produced by this prevented the wound from healing quickly, and the mental disturbance produced by fear and perhaps change of climate did the rest.

It was discovered at the same time that the natives of other islands who firmly believed in the poison theory seldom suffered much inconvenience from the arrow wounds, because they believed that the spells given them by their own sorcerers prevented the poison from taking effect.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Incapable Von Bulow.
During Hans von Bulow's leadership of the orchestra at Hanover a tenor of name was engaged to play a star role in "Lohengrin," according to Las Neue Blatt, and while the singer was rehearsing his part Bulow was forced to go over the same bars a number of times without the new actor beginning to sing. Tired of his wasted efforts, the leader stopped the orchestra and angrily turned to the singer. "I know that a tenor is proverbially stupid," he said, "but you seem to make an extensive use of this unwritten law."

At another time, while one of his grand intermezzos was being played with great feeling by his musicians, a peculiar noise, hardly perceptible by untrained ears, annoyed the leader for some little time. At first he thought it resembled the flutter of wings, but soon he discovered an elegant lady fanning herself in one of the boxes close by. Bulow kept on with his gestures, fixing his eyes on the offender in a manner which meant reproof. The lady, not heeding this, was suddenly surprised by the leader dropping his stick and turning toward her.

"Madame!" he cried. "If fan you must, please at least keep time with your infernal reproofs."

No one can reasonably hope for good health unless his bowels move once each day. When this is not attended to, disorders of the stomach arise, biliousness, headache, dyspepsia and piles soon follow. If you wish to avoid these ailments keep your bowels regular by taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when required. They are so easy to take and mild and gentle in effect. For sale by J. E. Hood, druggist.
