ANOTHER CASE OF "STIRRING UP ANTI-PATHY."

It is very unfortunate that Dr. J. S. Bassett, who holds a chair in the faculty of Trinity College should see fit to add fuel to the flame that arises from continued agitation of the race question.

We desire to be entirely tolerant. Every man should be allowed to hold and express his honest convictions. The doctor has a right to rate Booker Washington as he sees fit.

As to the negro winning "equality" the doctor is also entitled to his opinion. In our opinion the negro has already won all the "equality" that he will ever win in this country.

We readily grant him equality before the law. He gets justice, he gets it oftener than does the white man. He is allowed equality when it comes to the enjoyment of the fruits of his labor.

The article in question was unfortunate from every point of view. It can do no possible good and will do an unlimited amount of harm.

A PATHETIC INCIDENT.

The Salvation Army, a devoted husband, and thousands of admirers have experienced a painful loss in the death of Mrs. Emma Booth-Tucker in a railway accident in Missouri.

In New York the funeral services were marked by a great popular interest and deep sorrow on all sides.

The splendid working capacity of the Salvation Army in America owes much to the efforts of this good woman. The army is in some respects much more efficient than our churches.

The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath. To be sure he is to use the Sabbath rightly.

FAINT HEART NEER WON

A suitor whose first name was Dan Wrote a note to his sweetheart in Jan. And the maid, perhaps best known as Deb, Replied to his missive in Feb.

Luxury.

"Billings tells me that, although he has inherited a fortune, he sets his alarm clock for 6 in the morning, the same as ever."

"You're sure it was the colonel's ghost, are you?"

"No. He says he likes to wake up and enjoy the sensation of not getting up to go to work."

"She—How long have you been loving me?"

"He—From the very moment I knew there was such a person as you in the world."

"No Harm Done."

"Oh, it may in some cases, but the wise man doesn't go through bankruptcy until he has worked his credit to the limit."

"His Inference."

"A Genuine Artist."

"Blasphemy? Yes, rather."

"Is that well, rather?"

"Lille—is your wife well informed, Mr. Doehead?"

"The Reward of Economy."

"Kweter—What's that old saying? 'Take care of the pennies and'—"

"Life upon the farm is dreary And many times in fall, So to curtail any pleasure Of the young folks would rob all joys of living in the country."

The Beginning Of a Career

"I GUESS it can do no harm now," remarked the well fed clubman, who was known to have a large rent roll.

"It's a true story, mind you," he went on to say, flicking the ashes from his cigar. "I was about twelve years old at the time of the big fire of 1871."

"So I hired a smaller boy to go around and collect pieces of melted iron, glass and the like."

"But you had to pay the other boy something, didn't you?" interrupted a listener.

Complimentary.

"Ach, Fritz, you are tears shedding. Der moose moves you, yes?"

"Yes, sir," said Uncle Elmer, who was telling about his life and experience in the Sandwich Islands.

"Indeed, yes. Many's the time our dinner has been two or three days late just because she waited for the volcano in the back yard to erupt."

"They say Miss R. is a brilliant conversationalist."

"No; showed me her bank book."—Baltimore World.

"Yes, it's all off between Laura and Reginald."

"So the physicians thought you had appendicitis?"

"The Incubator Orphan."

"On the Links."

"Say, caddy, what's that—a cemetery over there?"

"A Touching Appeal."

"Passing of the Hushing Bee."

"Life upon the farm is dreary And many times in fall, So to curtail any pleasure Of the young folks would rob all joys of living in the country."

"The Reward of Economy."
