Ligozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

GREAT STRAWBERRY STATE

North Carolina Leads all Other States in Strawberry Production.

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 25.—On the subject of strawberries and other fruits and the states leading in their respective varieties, The Carolina Fruit & Truckers' Journal of this city will say in its issue tomorrow:

According to the latest compilation of statistics and other data North Carolina leads all other states of the Union in the growth and production of high grade strawberries for domestic and commercial purposes. She ranks third in melons and cantaloupes, first in lettuce and first in huckleberries and hoop-poles and besides is rapidly climbing to the top of the ladder as an Irish and sweet potato state. It is doubtful if there is another state in the Union that produces so many and great a variety of vegetables as the Old North State, but of this there is no record in this and other states with which to make a comparison. In a number of items, however, this State is exceeded by several others. All told there are over 3,700,000 acres in orchard fruits and no branch of agriculture has made the gains that fruit growing has in the last decade: The acreage and percentage of grain for the different varieties of deciduous fruits are: Apples, 2,000,000 and 68; peaches, 1,000,000 and 217; plums and plums, 307,800 and 334; pears, 177,000 and 246; cherries, 119,000 and 112; apricots, 50,000 and 217. Twenty-four of the states report a fruit crop exceeding $1,000,000 in annual value, California leading with $21,700,000. New York is second, with $10,500,000; Illinois fifth, with $3,800,000, &c., &c., down the list. At the same time North Carolina's net gain in strawberry production today as compared with the year 1900 is about 55 per cent, or $2,225,000.

While California shows up with a $21,000,000 fruit crop, New York with a $10,500,000 fruit and Illinois with a $3,500,000 fruit crop, North Carolina steps to the front with a $2,225,000 strawberry crop leading a number of other states in as many other things. In apples Missouri leads all the states with an acreage of 200,000. New York is second with 150,000 acres, and Illinois third with 134,000 acres.

Michigan leads in peaches and is third in cherries and pears; Kansas, which is sixth in apples, leads in cherries, with Pennsylvania second. California leads in pears, with New York second. Illinois ranks nineteenth in peaches, sixth in cherries and ties with Pennsylvania for seventh place in pears. California leads in plums and plums with 98,000 acres. Oregon is an easy second. Illinois is seventeenth with 5,700 acres. California has practically a monopoly of apricots, 42,000 acres; olives, 15,000 acres, and figs, 1,900 acres. California also dwarfs its only competitors in the orange and lemon industry. The figures are 56,000 acres of oranges and 15,000 acres of lemons, as against 25,000 acres of oranges in Florida and 225 acres of lemons.

California bears off the palm as a fruit producing state, leading in oranges, lemons, figs, olives, apricots, pears, plums and plums and ranking high in peaches and apples. Its estimated orange crop for 1903-1904, for instance, is 18,000 carloads, on which the freight alone will be something like $9,000,000.

The fruit and trucking industry is not only revolutionizing agriculture and horticulture but is likewise doing much to solve the perplexing labor problem, since it has been demonstrated that these growers who cultivate only such acres as they can take care of without the aid of outside help are the ones who make the greatest net profits in the business. Those who keep an army of hands employed the year round find at the end of each year that they have to pay out the lion's share of all they make to some one else. Thus it will be seen that the system of intensive farming yields by far the greatest amount of net results to the grower, thereby enabling him to accomplish by his own efforts and such as he can control that which would be purely problematic were he relying largely, if not wholly, upon someone else or the ordinary labor of today.

In the same connection it might be interesting to know that the strawberry growers in North Carolina alone in one day last spring paid into the coffers of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company more than $40,553.62 in freight on the single item of strawberries. As to the amount paid other roads of the State for the same purpose we have not the data at hand.

DURHAM STREET DUEL

Results in Death of Prominent Business Man

UNCLE & NEPHEW IN DEADLY CONTACT

Were Business Rivals and Professional Jealousy Was the Cause of all the Trouble.

Durham, N. C., Nov. 25.—In a street duel this morning about ten o'clock J. S. Murray, a prominent citizen, was killed by his nephew, W. R. Murray. The homicide occurred on Main street in front of the place of business of the deceased, and the killing was done with the pistol belonging to the deceased, after he had fired three shots at his slayer. The weapon was then taken from him and the fatal shot was fired. He lived but a few moments after the last shot. Tonight W. R. Murray, who is himself a prominent business man and identified with both the Elk and Masonic lodges, is in charge of the police. The coroner's jury, which was assembled this morning, adjourned this afternoon. Another hearing will be held tomorrow morning. The tragedy is one that has shocked the entire community. Nothing has so stirred Durham in recent years.

The tragedy is the result of an ill-feeling of several years' standing. Both men were engaged in the music business, and this engendered the bad blood that led up to a fight several years ago, and which was the forerunner of the street duel and tragedy of this morning.

The facts in the case, so far as can be learned, are as follows:

This morning J. S. Murray went out to deliver a piano. He suspected that his nephew and business rival had sent a man to watch him. A few minutes after his return two employes of W. R. Murray's house, one his son Earle, went by the store of the deceased. J. S. Murray came out, stopped them, and engaged in a conversation in which he charged that they had followed him in placing an order. While this conversation was in progress W. R. Murray appeared, and pushing apart those who were in the quarrel, made some remarks about fighting a person of his own size. Then the trouble followed. Some witnesses say that Joe Murray, the deceased, stepped back and drew his gun, firing direct at Mr. W. R. Murray. Then the two men closed in on each other and a total of four shots were fired. The last one was fatal to J. S. Murray. He was led back into his store, and a moment later he was dead.

The slayer turned in the street and surrendered to Dr. N. M. Johnson, who had run up, turning over to him the pistol of the deceased with which the fatal shot was fired. A few minutes later he was taken in charge by Chief of Police Woodall and has been in his office since that time.

In the duel J. S. Murray was killed, Earl Murray was shot in the arm and hip, and W. R. Murray has a broken finger.

It is thought that of the first two shots, those that wounded Earl Murray, son of the slayer, one of the balls passed through his wrist and the other struck the left hip and glanced. He is not in a serious condition.

The prisoner has a broken finger on the left hand. He contends that this was broken in trying to get the pistol from the hands of the man who was trying to kill him.

The fatal bullet struck the left breast and ranged upward, severing an artery, from which he bled to death.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

From Napier New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by J. E. Hood & Co.

TO INSPECT BEAUFORT HARBOR

Chairman River and Harbor Committee Will Pay Eastern Carolina a Visit Next Week.

Special Correspondent to FREE PRESS.—The prospect for early developments of Beaufort harbor appears very bright indeed, two weeks ago Senator Aldrich, who is by far the most powerful member of the national legislature, visited eastern North Carolina and inspected the harbor with a view to securing a federal appropriation for its improvements. During the coming week the most influential members of the house on river and harbor will probably make a visit to Beaufort.

Mr. Fred L. Merritt, of the A. & N. C. Railroad, today received a letter from Congressman John H. Small, of the first North Carolina district, in which he said: "I have a telegram from Hon. T. E. Burton, chairman of the committee on river and harbor, stating that he hopes to visit North Carolina the last three days in next week." I have no letter from him giving particulars, I assume that his itinerary will be about as follows:

Take steamer at Elizabeth city, from Morehead City by rail to Wilmington. A stop at Wilmington would be made long enough to inspect the harbor and Cape Fear river and from there the party will probably go to Fayetteville.

There will be three or four members of the committee besides Mr. Burton.

Mr. Small has been notified that the A. & N. C. R. R. will put a train at the disposal of himself and Chairman Burton and every facility will be given them to inspect the harbor at Beaufort and to ascertain its needs and its possibilities as a shipping point. It is possible that the steamer may go directly to Beaufort instead of Newbern, and it is likely that on the return trip the party will go by way of Goldsboro enroute to Wilmington.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Will Adjourn Tonight Without Attempting Anything on the Civil Docket.—A Petition for Special Term.

Superior court will continue its sittings up into night and then adjourn without even having completed the criminal docket. Nothing on the civil docket will be attempted except, possibly, going over the motion docket, all civil cases being continued.

A petition from the bar, signed by Judge Moore, will be sent to the governor requesting a special term in January, to try civil cases only and it is hoped thereby to clear the docket of a number of cases which has been on it for a long time, but which could not be reached by account of the unusually heavy criminal dockets which have occupied the court for several terms past.

Sentence had not been passed on Harding or Dunn when court adjourned for noon recess today.

Joint Service.

There will be a joint service in the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to which all are cordially invited. The nature of this service is a farewell to the retiring Pastor Rev. E. D. Brown. Remember the time and place and be present.

DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH

Hyomei, the Only Guaranteed Cure for Catarrh.

No one should confound Hyomei, with the patent medicines that are advertised to cure catarrh. It is as far superior them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass. Their composition is secret, but Hyomei gives its formula to all reputable physicians and is prescribed by them generally.

Its base is the valuable eucalyptus oil, famous for its antiseptic qualities. This is combined with aromatic and healing gum and balsams, making a pure liquid which, when used in Hyomei pocket inhaler, fills the air you breathe with germ-killing, disease destroying, and healing powers that restore health to every part of the nose, throat and lungs.

The only way to cure catarrh and all other diseases of the respiratory organs is to breathe Hyomei. This treatment has been so successful in curing 99 per cent. of all who have used it, that Hyomei is now sold by J. E. Hood & Co., under an absolute guarantee to refund the money in case it does not benefit. You run no risk whatever in buying Hyomei. If it did not possess unusual powers to cure, it could not be sold upon this plan.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.
