Saturday Evening, August 8, 1914

The Kaiser proclaims he will fight the world. He seems to have about all he can handle with little Belgium.

Kinston's tobacco market may not open until early in September, but that is no reason for alarm. It is more than probable that by the first of September practically normal business conditions in this country will prevail.

Belgium is putting up a terrific struggle to maintain her integrity. When it is considered that she was forced into this fight without any other reason than that she desired to remain neutral, it would appear that she is having more than her share of the brunt of the scrap. What is the matter with the principals, why don't some of them come to her rescue?

GETTING NEWS FIRST

No outside paper can be printed and circulated in Kinston giving the latest war news before the home paper. Kinston people may rest assured that they get the very latest news in their own afternoon home paper before any outsiders can furnish it to them. A comparison of Friday afternoon's Free Press and the Saturday morning papers will show that not a single piece of war news of importance is given in the morning papers that was not printed in the Free Press. One of the State's afternoon papers has begun to issue a noon edition and a special effort is made to get Kinstonians to take this issue, which arrives here in the afternoon, when the connection is made. A comparison of this paper with the Free Press shows that much of the news can be gotten from the Free Press the afternoon before. Get it first in your home paper.

A BETTER FEELING PREVAILS.

Now that the die has been cast and all of Europe is plunged into a terrible struggle for supremacy of the continent and the first general excitement has blown over, a better feeling seems to be taking hold of business interests. There is not so much apprehension that business throughout the entire world will be shattered. Conditions even in London and Paris, the capitals of two of the warring nations, are improving. The banks are reopening and the exchanges are doing business. Naturally nothing like normal prevails in these places and cannot be expected until the war and its effects has passed. There is really no good reason for a paralysis of the commerce of the United States, which has been feared and predicted in some sections. The Congress has come to the aid of the President and his cabinet in supplying immediate means and machinery for relieving distress among American citizens in the war-ridden districts and for allaying the sticky conditions, which may arise in this country. A meeting of the Southern Cotton Congress is called for next week to be held in Washington, to consider and devise ways and means for averting any crash in cotton prices and the people of the country seem to be united and determined to do all within reason to reduce as much as possible any ill effect on American business interests, which arise from the belligerency.

MONDAY'S MEETING.

The County Executive Committee, at the call of Chairman Cowper, will meet in the county court house, Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Matters of much importance are to be considered. First the ten amendments to the States constitution, which are to be voted on this fall, and which will bring about some very much needed changes in the taxation system and the matter of local legislation, will be taken up. Then another most important question will be considered. The question of a state wide legal holiday for the nomination of all candidates for all elective offices of all parties in all counties and precincts of the state on the same day, is one that must have the most careful thought. The leaders of the nation agree and those States, which have employed the primary system, have found, from experience, that the state wide primary for all offices is more nearly an approach to genuine democracy than any plan yet devised. They know that, although there is still some possibility for machinery tactics and block voting, the opportunities are greatly reduced and the great mass of people come more nearly to exercise their franchise rights than by any other system. Overnight changes of heart, which so generally affected the delegates to conventions, are not in evidence under the primary plan. It has been a matter of surprise to other states that North Carolina, so progressive in other ways, has failed to adopt this modern method and it will continue to be a matter for unfavorable criticism until the State is in line.

Lenoir's representatives in the recent State convention did not stand for the State wide primary. They stood with the majority but the majority was wrong and many of the counties of the State have since gone on record as favoring the report of the minority. Will Lenoir do likewise?

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Another Enigma.
(Ledger-Dispatch.)
Next to finding out what the war is about, the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente come in for elucidation.

Conscience Too Elastic.
(Henderson Gold Leaf.)
The present tax system of the State depends entirely upon the elastic conscience of our people. It needs a sounder basis, and the people are going to empower their legislatures to seek such a basis.

But Racial Lines are Crossed.
(Raleigh Times.)
The present war in Europe, precipitated by the assassination of the heir to the Austrian throne and his life, is really a conflict between races, with religion and economic conditions playing a great part.

Merely Wanted a Vacation.
(Greensboro Record.)
It's a good thing the cotton mills in this place closed down for ten days before the war scare arrived, otherwise it would have been charged that this was the cause of it. So many of the operatives wanted a vacation and were continually asking to get off that it was decided to close down for ten days and give all a chance to take a rest. From the large numbers leaving for the first day or two after the closing, they wanted a vacation.

Prosperity for Cotton Manufacturers.
(Cleveland Times.)
Mr. David Clark, editor of the Textile Bulletin, is of the opinion that the war in Europe will bring great prosperity to the cotton manufacturing industry of the South. He says: "Temporarily the effect will be beneficial through increased demand for raw cotton and machinery for relieving distress among American citizens in the war-ridden districts and for allaying the sticky conditions, which may arise in this country. A meeting of the Southern Cotton Congress is called for next week to be held in Washington, to consider and devise ways and means for averting any crash in cotton prices and the people of the country seem to be united and determined to do all within reason to reduce as much as possible any ill effect on American business interests, which arise from the belligerency."

BATTLE OF STONINGTON IS CELEBRATED TODAY

Stonington, Conn., Aug. 8.—With an elaborate program planned, the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the Battle of Stonington opened here today. Incidentally Stonington is celebrating Old Home Week. The program includes parades in which United States army and navy organizations will participate, historical addresses by Gov. Baldwin and other state notables, and the unveiling of a memorial tablet by the Society of the Daughters of the War of 1812. There will be exercises by schoolchildren, and fireworks.

KINSTON'S VARIED INDUSTRIES

Kinston is one of the new towns in eastern Carolina in which cotton mills have been established and successfully operated. Two such plants are located here, and into them much capital of local business men has gone. Both are successful enterprises and have contributed to the upbuilding of the community wonderfully. The Kinston Cotton Mill is located at King and Davis streets, in East Kinston; an affiliated plant, the Orion Knitting Mill, is on the same block, and the Caswell Cotton Mill is in the western end of town, at Manning street and Hood avenue. The Kinston Mill has 17,000 spindles and employs 250 operatives; the Caswell mill operates 11,000 spindles and has around 150 employees. The Orion Knitting Mill employs 275 workers. The first cotton mill to be built here was the Kinston, established in 1898 on the co-operative plan, when the Orion Knitting Mill, already in operation, was proving a success. The capital was $300,000. A ready market for the output contributed to the success of the new venture, cloth mills in this part of the country, New York, Philadelphia and Boston taking all the yarn it could supply. The hundreds of people who comprise the cotton mill population are good, steady laborers. They live partly in the eastern end of the city and in a model community near the Caswell mill which was declared by Dr. Stiles, discoverer of the noctuid, to be one of the cleanest cotton mill villages in the country. The weekly payroll are large and the money put in circulation from this source is the steadiest stream probably that flows into the coffers of Kinston merchants, for the mills are very seldom idle. A good portion of the staple grown in this section is converted into yarn at home. The mills and the fields which supply them employ possibly a larger percentage of Lenoir county population than any other industry.

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE

A desperate attack was yesterday made on the life of the Crown Prince. He was severely wounded and his assailant escaped.

WARBURG AND DELANO CONFIRMED BY SENATE

HAMLIN GOVERNOR FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD.
Washington, Aug. 8.—President Wilson today named Mr. C. S. Hamlin Governor of the Federal Reserve Board and Frederick B. Delano of Chicago, whose appointment to the board was yesterday confirmed by the Senate, to be Vice-Governor, according to unofficial but authoritative advices. Washington, Aug. 7.—Nominations of Paul M. Warburg, of New York, and Frederick A. Delano, of Chicago, as members of the Federal Reserve Board were confirmed today by the Senate. With the confirmation of Mr. Warburg and Mr. Delano, the new banking board is complete. Other members are W. P. G. Harding, of Birmingham; A. J. C. Miller, of San Francisco; Charles S. Hamlin, of Boston, and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Comptroller of the Currency Williams, as ex-officio members. The confirmation of the New York and Chicago members came at the close of a five-hour debate, most of the time having been consumed by Senator Bristow of Kansas, who attacked Mr. Warburg. In the course of the debate Senator Bristow and Senator Stone of Missouri became involved in a heated personal argument which for a time blocked the proceedings. Even Senators voted against Mr. Warburg, only one of them, Lane, of Oregon, being a Democrat. Senator Bristow was the only Senator to vote against Mr. Delano. Senator Bristow also refused to have the Senate make public testimony taken in the hearing of Mr. Warburg before the banking and currency committee.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
