MISS HEATH DEAD.

Miss Kathleen Heath, aged seventeen, died at her home, on McDaniel street, yesterday afternoon. She had been ill quite a while of typhoid fever, with complications, and, in spite of the most faithful nursing by her devoted mother, and careful attention of the physician, she passed away. She was an unusually bright and worthy girl, and many mourn her death. The body was taken to Cove City this morning. . . .

CARRANZA DUE TUESDAY.

Mexico City, Aug. 17.—General Carranza will enter Mexico City Tuesday, it was announced today. By that time it is expected all the constitutional troops, including General Villa, with 20,000 men, will have arrived, and that the members of Carranza's cabinet also will be here. . . .

AT VARIANCE WITH NEWSPAPER VERSION

Arthur Spiefel doesn't see to value him how the German arms can fail to take the final honors in the great conflict of the nations of Europe. That comes from being patriotic, probably, but Mr. Spiefel claims to have the facts and figures to back up his opinion. . . .

Spiefel is a traveling man. He spent Saturday night and Sunday here. He is one generation removed from the fatherland, but knows a good deal about Germany from having spent four or five years there and having visited relatives in Munich only last fall. . . .

"Our people can't realize the thoroughness of the Emperor's preparations," Mr. Spiefel declared. "Germany's territory is comparatively small, and she has no great coast line to protect. Her army is big enough to repulse any invasion, and even if she fails in her aggressive methods, on the defensive she will prove unconquerable. It is a great, highly efficient army, so easily concentrated that it can never be shaken by a force five times its strength. And Germany is so compact that concentration is practicable, and the intensive methods of the people so productive, that the Kaiser's men are not in any danger of marching on empty stomachs for years to come. The women, you see, can work in the fields. . . .

"We, in the United States, don't know anything about modern militarism. Germany can mobilize an army corps with more expedition and much less confusion than the United States can a brigade." . . .

Mr. Spiefel leaves today for Charleston, S. C. . . .

FATHER GUARANTEES FUGITIVE'S RETURN

The county authorities will make no further effort to locate Leslie Hines, sought for the killing of Lou Chapman, near Falling Creek. Hines' father has promised that he will be brought to Kinston within a few hours. The fugitive negro slapped the woman on the stomach after she had attacked him in a tobacco field more than a week ago, and the blow, which caused injury to an organ, occasioned her death Friday night. . . .

"I will have your son within twenty-four hours, so you had better advise him to return without trouble. Circumstances have every appearance of being in his favor," the sheriff told Harry Hines, the aged parent. Hines admitted he knew where the son was, and said he would hand him over to the officers as soon as he could get to him. . . .

Lou Chapman, according to all evidence, had abused Hines because his boy had struck one of her children on the head when she collared and began an attack on him. . . .

JAIL DELIVERY AVERTED; TOO MANY SMITHS.

The fact that there are two Louis Smiths on the Shelmedine mail route prevented a jail delivery from the Pitt county prison, it developed today. A negro named Murphy, in the jail, wrote to one of the Smiths, asking him to tell Murphy's wife to go to Washington for hack saws, which he intended to have secretly carried into his cell. . . .

The wrong Louis Smith received the letter, and showed it to the mail carrier. . . .

The saws were received, and a deputy sheriff surprised the prisoners in the act of cutting their way out. They had sawed through the bolts in a window when the officer arrived upon the scene. They confessed that Louis Smith, a resident in the Black Jack section, furnished the tools, and Smith has been arrested. . . .

COP'S TENURE OF OFFICE WAS SHORT

The town of LaGrange, having advertised for a policeman, secured a lion, according to a report from there this morning. . . .

Harry Malepuss, who applied and showed splendid references of his physical prowess and ingenuity in the science of criminology, remained on the force two hours, and then was jugged for larceny. . . .

The mayor of LaGrange, after Malepuss had been given his badge, telephoned to Selma, N. C., from whence the new cop came, to ask about his record there. "Hold him! We'll send for him immediately," he was advised. . . .

Malepuss, it is alleged, had just completed a three-months term in Johnston county for some crime or another, and at the expiration of his time hung around the convict camp and stole clothing and a sum of money from officers or guards. . . .

MR. WALSH WITH THE FREE PRESS

Mr. Chester A. Walsh, who has been with the Winston-Salem Journal for the past two years, has joined The Free Press family, and has taken charge of the linotype department. Mr. Walsh is an experienced man, and with his addition to the forces, the management hopes to be able to fulfill its promise to its patrons to furnish them the news first and on time. . . .

The Winston-Salem Journal has the following to say about Mr. Walsh, which will help to introduce him in this, his new home: . . .

"Mr. Chester A. Walsh, a member of The Journal family for two years, and known to the members of 'Little Bohemia' more familiarly as 'Doc,' has resigned, and will leave Friday morning for Kinston, where he will take charge of the linotype department of the Kinston Free Press. Mr. Walsh is a Napoleon of the linotype, and 'copy' falls before his trained touch like wheat before a twentieth century reaper. He is a linotype man of wide experience, a gentleman with personality, and a good fellow. His friends on The Journal regret to see him leave the city, as he is not only an adept in his work, but is always optimistic and always interesting. Mr. Walsh, in giving up the night work, states that he is doing so primarily in the interest of his health. . . .

TROUBLE IN PITT OVER STOCK LAW

A report from Pitt county today says there is a deal of unrest there owing to conditions which have grown out of the repeal of the stock law in the territory in that county, where it was in operation until some months ago. In the Beaver Dam section a suit over ownership of hogs involves prominent citizens, it is said. Rick Sumrell was charged in the same court with confining a sow from her pigs. The technical charge, brought by Eutler Allen, was cruelty to animals. Sumrell was sent up to superior court. One or two citizens are under indictment for letting stock run on the range, while others are awaiting trial for shutting up animals, the ownership of which is contested. The confusion around Beaver Dam and in other parts of Pitt, is bidding fair to result in a serious break of relations between the people of the neighborhood. . . .

NEW YORK SUFFRAGISTS OBSERVE 'DENIAL DAY.'

New York, Aug. 17.—Thousands of dollars were expected to be poured into the coffers of the New York State suffrage organizations as a result of funds secured through observance Saturday of "Denial Day." Women in every walk of life in the Metropolis, from the daughters and wives of the wealthy, to the feminine members of laborers' families denied themselves either some delicacy or some necessity, and sent the money to suffrage headquarters for use in a nation-wide fight for the vote for women. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw gave up her vacation. She will spend the time making more than 100 speeches in the course of a sixty-day trip through the seven "campaign States" of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Missouri, Nevada and Ohio. Scores of professional women of New York sent the day's salary to headquarters. . . .

MISSOURI WOMEN PLAN BIG CAMPAIGN FOR VOTES.

St. Louis, Aug. 17.—Saturday was special campaign day throughout Missouri, and suffragists generally contributed to a fund which is to be used in the campaigns in Missouri, Montana, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Nevada and Ohio. According to present plans, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Miss Jane Addams, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and Mrs. Desha Breckenridge will head a band of noted suffragists who will invade Missouri this fall to aid local leaders in their fight to put Missouri among the suffrage States. Missouri women believe the conversion of Speaker Champ Clark to the cause of woman suffrage has given them a splendid chance to win in Missouri. . . .

ARMY SERVICE SCHOOL OPEN.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., Aug. 13.—The army service schools opened here today with a full attendance of about 100 officers. The schools closed April 28, two months ahead of time, to enable the officers to join their regiments in Mexico and Texas. . . .
