WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework.

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."
Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

*Prepared by Chattanooga Medicine Co., Limited, Chattanooga, Tenn. For Special Information, send your card to the nearest druggist, or to the nearest branch office, or to the nearest branch office, or to the nearest branch office.

And PERSONAL

Mayor J. P. Frizzelle of Snow Hill was here Friday.

Mr. G. E. Kornegay has returned from a business trip to New York.

Dr. A. L. Hyatt of Beaulville has been here on a short visit with relatives.

Mr. J. L. King of Greensboro was a Kinston visitor Friday and this morning.

Mrs. Roy A. Vaughan of Salisbury came last night for a visit with relatives here.

Mr. S. B. Underwood, superintendent of schools for Pitt county, was here Friday from Greenville.

Rev. Eber Moore, pastor of the Christian church at Vanceboro, was here Friday on his way to LaGrange.

Sunday school attendance was satisfactory. Miss Willie Faulkner of Ayden has been on a short visit to relatives here.

Miss Lillian Carpenter and brother, Mark, who have been visiting in the home of Mr. C. Bailey, returned to their home in Durham Friday.

Miss Bessie Maxwell was here today en route to her home near Pink Hill, after a visit with friends at Parmele and Winterville.

Misses Marie Sutton and Carrie Lila Webb left this morning for Nashville, N. C., where they will take positions on the faculty of the public schools.

Rev. S. B. Wagoner, pastor of the Christian church at Ayden, and Mrs. Wagoner were in the city Friday en route to LaGrange to attend the Hookertown convention.

Rev. C. W. Howard returned Friday from Oak Grove, where he has been conducting a revival, in which he was assisted by Rev. B. P. Smith of Kinston. Mr. Smith also returned Friday.

Mr. Arthur Wake, who is to conduct the music in the evangelistic services to be held at Gordon Street Christian church, arrived Friday afternoon. A choir practice was held in the church Friday night, preparatory to the meetings, which begin on Sunday morning.

Miss Christine Williams was the hostess at a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Williams, on Independent street, Friday evening, in honor of her guest, Miss Farmer of Wilson. Many friends were invited. The evening was pleasantly spent from 8:30 to 10:30, with games, music and refreshments.

After a delightful outing of a week in the woods on Mrs. B. W. Canady's farm, near the city, a party of young people have returned to the city from a vacation as nearly ideal as can be conceived. "Camp Canady," as their woodland habitat was called, was situated on high ground near Neuse river, and cool weather and admirable foraging grounds added to the pastimers' comfort. Those who comprised the party were Misses Martha and Pauline Hood, Lucile Collins and Hattie Bob Copeland; Messrs. Leo Hearnt Harvey, Fred Taylor, Alban Barrus, Henry Burwell, Westbrook Canady and Mrs. E. F. Hines.

RECTOR GRIFFITH SHEDS "NAZARITISH" DRAPERY

Loses His Upper Lip Adornment While Enjoying Vacation Away From His Critical Friends.

For the first time since he arrived at the estate of manhood, Rev. John H. Griffith, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, is devoid of a mustache. Mr. Griffith had long harbored a secret wish that his lip might be clean-shaven, and recently when on a vacation in another town he acquired the courage for the deed, and seized upon the moment when none of his friends were around to criticize.

This morning some of his parishioners on Queen street didn't recognize Mr. Griffith. After he had renewed acquaintanceship they complimented him. Mr. Griffith is certainly better looking. One friend has dubbed him "B. A." and "M. A.", which abbreviations, it is assumed, are intended to mean "Barn Again" and "Mustache Again."

CLOTHES REQUIRED FOR THE SCHOOL LASSIE

Margaret Mason Tells Just "What Is What" This Season to Adorn the Little Lady.

(Written for the United Press.) When the school bells 'gin to ring Clothes for school belles are the thing

Uppermost in Mother's mind—And Dad's check-book, too, you'll find. Frocks and frills for girlish scholars, For the boys, new suits and collars; For 'tis plain as A, B, C, School clothes should be smart, you see.

New York, Aug. 28.—With the approach of school days, father and mother are in a daze themselves, occasioned by the astounding realization that the high cost of learning isn't caused so much by school books as by fashion books. Smart children call for smart attire, and neither little Willie, nor Polly Ann can "do that sum" without some clothes.

Fortunately, in spite of the fashionable expense excesses perpetrated on big folks, simplicity is the keynote of the fashions for school children this fall. The long, straight lines so recklessly adopted by the fat and thin grown-ups alike are the ideal lines for the adolescent grace of school girlhood.

Serge is the favorite material and blue the approved color, with dark green and brown, and dark shades of red not lacking in popularity. Many quaint and original little frocks are evolved by a combination of dull-toned Roman striped and plaid fabrics with the plain serge and a penchant for gold and silver buttons promises to bring gleams of brightness into the dark depths of an examination day.

One particularly artistic model of the plain and striped combinations is of dark blue serge with a sleeveless tunic of Roman striped Gabardine falling in a straight line from the neck to just above the knee. The tunic is bound with black braid fringe of the same, and two rows of brass buttoned across the breast, little rolling white collar is of plain white linen and a black patent leather belt confines the hips.

Another model like big sister's new frock coat is of plain blue serge hanging straight from the white collar neck to the knees and buttoned all the way with round buttons of silver. The long plain sleeves have a row of buttons four deep over the wrist. It has a plain blue serge girdle and the underskirt is of dull plaid.

Gimpes of white crepe de chine, pussy willow taffeta, and white china silk, worn under quaint blue serge jumper dresses brightened occasionally with brass buttons or sashes in black satin are as practical as they are charming for all of the gimpes can be "ribbed" beautifully at the first spot of ink or other school marks.

A cunning smock frock of dark blue serge and blue taffeta has an accordion pleated skirt of the serge with the loose smock waist of the taffeta, belted and finished around the bottom with a band of serge. The collar and cuffs are of white linen.

Another good style dress is of blue and green check material, made with the long straight waist cut out low in the neck over a little front of fluted batiste with a rolling collar. A belt of green leather completes a costume that will keep any little girl who wears it from feeling blue, and turn green with envy any little girl who doesn't.

Small hats are as de rigueur for the school miss as for her big sister, and they are as good in the small sailor shapes as they are in the little round velvet brimless affairs. It is all merely a question of youthful fancy or maternal choice.

On the sailor shapes, usually only a hand of ribbon is used and even on all other shapes little trimming is seen save a tiny cluster of fruit or flowers or perchance a smart quill or a saucy wing.

With tiny hats, pleated skirts, long loose waists, and hip sashes and belts, it is certainly hard to tell whether the elders are dressing like the school girls.

POLAND EXPECTS INDEPENDENCE IF RUSSIA WINS

CZAR PROMISED TO RESTORE NATIONAL FREEDOM.

FRIENDLY FEELING EXISTS

Which It Is Expected Will Facilitate Movement of Cossacks, Through Polish Territory.

(By J. W. T. Mason, Former European Manager of the United Press.)

New York, Aug. 28.—A new autonomous State of Poland, somewhat larger in area than the State of Colorado, with a population approximating 20,000,000 will be one of the results of the European war if Germany and Austria are defeated by the allies.

This is the meaning of the Czar's proclamation promising autonomy to a United Poland if the Poles would come to Russia's assistance.

Poland was the second largest kingdom in Europe from the eleventh century to 1772, when Russia, Prussia and Austria each seized a portion of Polish territory. Other partitions followed until now, the ancient kingdom consists of the province of Galicia in Austro-Hungary; the province of West Prussia and Posen in Prussia, and Poland proper, as well as other districts in Russia.

Russia and Prussia have treated the Poles like conquered people. Both countries have attempted to force their own languages and institutions on their Polish subjects by military methods. Poland has been to Russia, and Posen, where most of the German Poles live, has been to Prussia, what the Irish question, before the passage of the Home Rule bill was to England.

Austria has treated her Polish inhabitants far more liberally than has Russia and Prussia, and the province of Galicia, which is Austrian Poland, has enjoyed comparative freedom. Many Poles hold high office in the Austrian government. And many are trusted with important posts in the army.

The Galician Poles, hitherto have been against Russia in the present war, but the Czar's assurance that Russian, German and Austrian Poland will be reunited—that "torn and bleeding Poland" will bleed no more—undoubtedly will cause a change in Galicia's attitude.

More sentimental interest is attached in Galicia to a reunited Poland than elsewhere because Cracow is Galicia's chief Polish city. Cracow was the original capital of Poland, and after the capital was removed to Warsaw, Polish kings continued to be crowned in the Galician city for 150 years. Cracow, with the surrounding district, was the last part of Poland to resist absorption, holding out as a republic until 1846.

The Czar's promise to the Poles to restore their language, religion and history and customs, and let them govern themselves in a united province under Russian imperial sovereignty ought to facilitate the advance of the Russian armies through the eastern borders of Prussia and Austria.

The Russian troops probably will be received by all Poles as deliverers, and the military consequences should be considered. At the same time, the Czar's promise of liberalism will permit England and France to answer Germany's claim that the alliance against her and Austria is being dominated by the spirit of Russian reaction.

The Czar's move in offering autonomy to Poland is the most important strategic and statesmanlike move the war probably will bring forth.

3 or 6 doses of 666 will break any case of Fever or Chills. Price, 25 cents. (Adv.)
