Miss Sallie Ballou Herndon
Becomes Bride of Mr. Geo. L. Jordan.

At the Queen Street Methodist church was the scene of one of the prettiest weddings of the year, Wednesday evening at 6:30, when Mr.
George L. Jordan of Timmonsville, S.
C., claimed as his bride Miss Sallie Ballou Herndon, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Herndon.

The lady attendants wore a variety of colors, and this fact classed the nuptial event as a "rainbow" affair.
The scene was enchanting, with the profusion of colors, fair attendants and spectators, charmingly gowned, and numerous well-groomed men.

The maid of honor was Miss Georgie Herndon, sister of the bride, and the best man was Mr. Fred. Honour of Timmonsville, S. C., a friend of the groom. The bridesmaids were Miss Annie Jordan, a sister of the groom, of this city, and Miss Kathleen Cousins of Danville, Va., the bride's cousin. Mrs. E. A. Herman of Hickory, N. C., a sister of the bride, acted as dame of honor.

The bridal party entered the church in the following order: Mr. Thomas Woodley Heath of Kinston, and Dr.
Lewis Herndon of Dover, coming in by opposite aisles, and passing each other in front of the altar; Miss Cousins and Mr. W. A. Moore in opposite aisles; Miss Jordan and Mr. W. H.
Cousins of Danville, in similar order; the dame of honor; the maid of honor; the bride, with her father, by the right aisle; the groom, with his best man, from the pastor's study, meeting the bride at the altar.

The ladies were attired as follows: Miss Cousins in yellow crepe de chine; Miss Jordan in blue messaline; Mrs. Herman in green crepe media; Miss Georgie Herndon in white crepe de chine. All carried Killarney roses and wore black picture hats. The bride was attractively gowned in a dark blue coat suit, with hat and gloves to match, and wore a diamond brooch, the gift of the groom.

The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. J. Eustace Ballou of Tarboro, the bride's uncle, assisted by Rev. H. A. Humble, pastor of Queen Street church.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. J. W. Goodson, presiding at the pipe organ, played several selections, and Mrs. Dan Quin-cely sang "Love Abiding."

The auditorium was comfortably filled with relatives and friends of the young couple, while the galleries were crowded.

The presents to the bride and groom were numerous and handsome.
Mr. Jordan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jordan of this city, and resided here until a few months ago.
He is popular here and in his present home city. The bride is a member of the younger set, with many friends in Kinston and elsewhere in the State.

The bridal party motored after the ceremony to Goldsboro, where they boarded an Atlantic Coast Line train for Timmonsville, their future home.

The City of Kinston, N. C., will receive bids to cover its reservoir on or before October 5, 1914. For specifications and particulars, address R. E. ROUSE.

Water and Light Commissioner.

LOCAL MEN FORCED TO SLEEP WITH REPTILES

Hunting Trip of Dr. Parrott and Mr.
Sutton Ended in Their Becoming Lost in Woods, and An Unpleasant Night.

Lost in "Let Alone" swamp, about two miles west of Kinston, and required to spend a night, Dr. Albert Parrott, the county physician, and W.
H. Sutton, the local agent of the Department of Justice, recently experienced a veritable "night of horrors." The physician declares he will never hunt squirrels again. Let alone swamp extends from the Central Highway several miles to the bank of Neuse river, and is one of the densest of the small pocosons in this part of the State. The river bordering the swamp makes so many bends that its contour resembles a winding serpent.

Dr. Parrott and Mr. Sutton hunted until dusk in the swamp. The pair became separated, and the former discovered that he was lost. Four attempts to find the way out led him each time to the river, and finally in desperation he fired his gun. His companion, a mile or so distant, fired his in answer to the signal, and after two hours located the stranded doctor. The officer laughed at Dr. Parrott's predicament, and almost immediately had to admit with chagrin that he was in the same boat. They tried to locate the Great Dipper in the sky, in lieu of the absent moon, but the dipper also was taking a holiday. The lost men succeeded in locating the "Seven Stars," but these were treacherous guides, and persistent efforts to follow them led the companions every time to the bank of the stream.
Hungry, thirsty and cold, they wandered through the woods and undergrowth until their clothes were badly torn and their hands and limbs bleeding from contact with briars.

Dr. Parrott, groping in a tangle of briar bushes and wild grape vines, seized a big, slimy snake, which wiggled through his hand and gave him a genuine chill. A few minutes later the government's agent stopped and sniffed. "Do you smell those cucumbers?" he asked. "We're in a bed of white-oaks." They found his words true enough at the next step or two, when the poisonous snakes began to squirm from under their feet and strike at the heavy boots the couple wore.

The lost men tried to determine the river's course by throwing bark into the stream, but it was too dark to see which course the bark took when it floated off with the current. They had no matches.

Finally, from exhaustion, Dr. Parrott and Mr. Sutton gave up their efforts and made their beds on the ground. Their sleep was a cold one, and other dangers than malaria and and crawling things that loitered in the vicinity of their beds often made them realize.

Daylight dissipated the horrors to some extent, and the weary men took up their quest of a path again, and located after some time a familiar ditch, which they followed out of the lowgrounds to the Central Highway.

Never Questioned

Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure and wholesome. It is made from highly refined, pure, cream of tartar, an ingredient of grapes. Not an atom of unwholesomeness goes into it; not an unwholesome influence comes from it. It perfectly leavens the food, makes it finer in appearance, more delicious to the taste, more healthful.

Its superiority in all the qualities that make the perfect baking powder is never questioned.
