The destruction of American property in Odessa by Turkish war-ships will not involve the United States in the general European embroglio, but it may be necessary for Uncle Sam to spank the terrible Turk a little to let him know that he must not infringe on our rights.

The First Sea Lord of the British Admiralty has surrendered his exalted position, attained round by round by diligence and performance of duty, and it is reported that his resignation was made necessary because of adverse criticism by the newspapers on account of the fact that he was of German birth. In other words his loyalty to his adopted country, which he had served honorably for almost a half century, has been questioned, and from this distance it appears that the criticism was due entirely to race hatred, provoked by the war, and not to any evidence of disloyalty. Treachery is a serious charge to make against a man, who has proven himself worthy and unless there are grounds upon which to base such a charge, those making it should have to suffer the consequences.

LET'S MAKE IT UNANIMOUS

Tuesday is election day throughout the length and breadth of peace-blessed America, and the citizens of this country will march to the polls and demonstrate their appreciation of public servants who are on the job, and who have "delivered the goods" by polling another landslide vote for "Old Democracy." Mr. Brinson, in his address at the Courthouse Thursday night, paid a glowing tribute to President Wilson and predicted that he would occupy the presidential chair as long as the laws of the land would permit. This prediction is as safe and sure of fulfillment as any that could be made. As Judge Winston said, the election this fall would just be a "thank offering by the American people." All of this does not mean that any Democrat should fail to go to the polls and exercise his franchise, for the more the merrier, and a "unanimous" vote on the questions at issue would not be distasteful.

HYSTERIA AND CHARITY OUT OF ORDER

The people throughout the country have gotten a bad impression of the South because of the hysterical efforts of some to have the national treasury underwrite the cotton crop. The northern newspapers, in fact, some of the larger dailies, have had great columns either criticizing the South or calling upon their readers to lend assistance, and the appeals have been made rather on a charity basis. The South needs no charity. It is amply able to take care of itself. It always has done so, and the so-called remedial plans have created an unfortunate impression. The "buy-a-bale" movement has been "jumped" on by many of the larger concerns as a capital advertising medium, and in the guise of benefactors, purchases of cotton, to be stored until the markets again open, have been "authorized." The newspapers are flooded with "notices of interest to your readers" regarding the "John Doe or Peter Smith Shoe Factory's commendable action in authorizing all its salesmen to purchase a bale or two, etc., etc. A great many of the papers have realized early in the game that the plans were purely advertising stunts, and the copy has found its way into the waste-baskets, as it should. The South wants to restore a market for its chief product, and it is seriously concerned for the welfare

GREATEST LIVE STOCK SHOW IN THE HISTORY OF THE WORLD
 PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, SAN FRANCISCO, 1915

Copyright, 1914, by Panama Pacific International Exposition Company.

The greatest and most comprehensive live stock show in the history of the world will be staged at the vast Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Entries of valuable and rare breeds of live stock will be shown from every country in the world, including France, England, Belgium and other countries in the European war zone. More than one-half million dollars is offered in prizes and purses for winning live stock. This photograph shows the vast live stock barns, covering more than forty acres, with the great judging amphitheater in the center. The live stock show will last throughout the period of the exposition, from February 20 to December 4, 1915.

of its citizens, who have all their possessions practically at stake in their cotton crops, but then the South has not and will not ask charity of anybody nor will it submit to being made the free advertising medium of all the big business concerns, which see a chance, by "authorizing" their representatives to buy cotton to get some splendid advertising. As a matter of fact, the warehouses of the South couldn't hold all the cotton, the purchase of which has been "so authorized." A very small proportion of that "advertised" as purchased or authorized to be purchased by big business has been actually bought, and this is another reason for doubting the good faith of the "advertised" benefactors.

Mr. George E. Roberts of Iowa, hold-over director of the Mint, has tendered his resignation, and it is authoritatively stated by the powers that be that it was a sure enough resignation, and not one of the "requested" kind. Although Mr. Roberts is a Republican in politics his counsel has been sought in matters pertaining to the currency system and his advice has been regarded very highly by his Democratic associates.

It is gratifying to note that the American boys under General Fred Funston will stay on the lid in Vera Cruz awhile longer. It is more than probable that had the troops been withdrawn some weeks ago, as was planned, Mexico would now be again in the heat of war and turmoil. As long as Uncle Sam has to play guard-ian, let him retain his preferred seat until he is entirely satisfied that all is well.
