Mr. McAduo urges the raising of more food. The majority of us are now raising all we can find "the price of."

When thieves fall out there is generally a fight to the finish, and the Mexican situation is offering no exceptions to the general rule.

Kinston's water is all right, say the authorities, and we have to take their word for it, for the analysis, without an interpreter, doesn't mean much to us.

Advice is the only "commodity" that has not taken a jump in price, and it is about the only thing, that comes to mind just now, that could well afford to have its cost boosted.

If the farmers take all the reduced acreage advice that has been proffered them, the problem of its application will be a more serious one than the overproduction.

Judge Walter Clark of the State Supreme Court is a sure 'nough progressive all right. He is an advocate of the recall, etc., and now is reported to have "fined" the "suffa" brigades. Evidently an honorary member.

The Kaiser has apparently come to the conclusion that his quick trip to Paris will have to be postponed indefinitely, and that the services of his crack guard is needed to keep back the Russian invaders from eating their boasted Christmas dinner in Berlin.

An eccentric old recluse, when asked what he thought of a certain statement of one of his neighbors, of whom he had little regard, replied very expressively: "When Tom talks, I just hear a noise." There are a lot of folks, who make a noise but don't say anything.

Turkey will now explain WHY? Glad the shot went astray, first, because of the loss of life it would have occasioned on the launch and, secondly, because had it hit, the time for explanations might have been overlooked until too late to prevent participation in the scrap.

When the German train rushing to the front with reinforcements met a shell from the Allies' fleet there was no need for a wrecker to be called. The shell played the part of "other train," "broken rail," "burnt bridge," etc., doctor, ambulance, wrecker and all. Its work was, in other words, complete.

The cry comes from Vienna that for weeks the hospital there has been entirely without bandages to bind up the wounds of the soldiers. The members of The Reviewers' Club are collecting suitable rags for bandage purposes, to be transmitted to the battle fields. Accumulate your rags and help inject a little humanity into the strife.

The cost in dollars and cents of the terrible war is referred to quite frequently by newspapers and other commentators, but that cost is insignificant as compared to the toll of life that is exacted daily. The dollars and cents are secondary considerations. The snuffing out of God-given lives is where the responsibility upon those, continuing this strife, rests most heavily.

Tomorrow is the day for that "questionable gathering" scheduled for the city of Charlotte. The various detective agencies haven't, it is reported from reliable sources, thought it necessary to send special men to Charlotte for the occasion, as they rather regard the assembly as no more serious than "disorderly conduct aggravated," and it is thought that the Charlotte local authorities will be able to cope with the situation.

CO-OPERATIVE ENFORCEMENT OF LAWS NEEDED

A few weeks ago when Judge Frank Daniels, presiding at the September term of Criminal Superior Court in Kinston, had a crusade started against the women of the tenderloin, the statement was made by some, whose responsibility it was to rid the city of this class of unfortunates, that when the pressure was brought to bear on them here they would simply move over to LaGrange, Goldsboro, New Bern or other neighboring towns, and when they were driven out in those places, they would return here if the attention of the officers was being centered on some other class, and so the ball was kept rolling. Wouldn't it be possible to overcome this difficulty by a general State-wide co-operative effort in the enforcement of the laws against vice? The same situation applies with reference to others, who are engaged in fraudulent and criminal vocations. There should be uniform laws and a rigid enforcement. Kinston's crusade against vice should not make her neighbors a dumping ground nor vice versa.

The first part of this week the City Council adopted a very drastic ordinance controlling palmists, fortune tellers, clairvoyants and kindred fakers, the application of which ordinance is expected to rid this district sooner or later of this class of impostors. If it is possible for them to move to some of the neighboring cities and there continue their nefarious practices, Kinston's gain is the other place's loss. To a certain extent that is the other fellow's lookout but at the same time a uniform law and co-operative enforcement of it would rid the State of the undesirable. The several counties in North Carolina have too many local laws, covering matters of more or less State-wide importance. The next legislature should endeavor to relieve this situation. There is, The Free Press is informed, a State law licensing "fortune telling," applicable, so far as the State's share of the fees is concerned, throughout the counties of the State. This class should be outlawed and the piratical humbugs divested of all legal right to pursue their "professional services" graft.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

VERY KIND, THANK YOU

Raleigh News and Observer: "The Kinston Free Press now comes to us printed in seven column form from a new and modern press. The Free Press is forging ahead in handsome style under the management of Mr. H. Galt Braxton, formerly of Raleigh."

ATTRACTING ATTENTION

Rocky Mount Telegram: "Mr. H. Galt Braxton, former Raleigh newspaper man, who has for the past year been aligned with the Kinston Free Press, is certainly doing things for that publication, and incidentally for a greater Kinston. The Free Press is now issued from a recently installed web press, the size having been increased to seven columns, and with a local service that is complete, along with large telegraph dispatches, the publication is fast coming into its own as one of the best afternooners in the State."

MORE OF TROTTER

Charlotte Observer: "The character of William Trotter, the Boston negro preacher who headed a delegation to the White House, was quite firmly established in his outburst of insolence, and it was no surprise that he should lead a "mass meeting" of negroes in Washington at which the name of the President was hooted. As a matter of course, the hoots were inspired by the inflammatory talk of the leader. The incident following the call at the White House will tend to the further discredit of the spokesman of the delegation, and will the more firmly establish the conditions in the departments which the negroes desired to remedy from their standpoint. Trotter could have devised no better way of defeating the ends he sought than by the course of conduct he elected to pursue."

BRIEUX TELLS HOW THE DRAMA HELPS SOCIETY.

New York, Nov. 19.—Distinguished representatives of American culture will be in session today and tomorrow when the sixth annual joint meeting of the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the National Institute of Arts and Letters convenes there.

The morning session, with William Dean Howells presiding, was featured by an address from the French dramatist Brioux who, after expressing the formal greetings of the Academie Francaise, spoke in French upon the theater as an instrument of social amelioration.

An excellent audience greeted M. Brioux and his address, setting forth some of the theories and facts which led him to write "Damaged Goods" was warmly applauded.

Robert Herrick, the American novelist, spoke on the quality of imagination in American life.

This afternoon the members and guests will hear a concert by the New York Symphony Society with Walter Damrosch conducting. The program of compositions rendered will be confirmed to compositions by members of the institute.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. Mothers Know That Genuine Castoria Always Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Hatcher. In Use For Over Thirty Years CASTORIA

Tomorrow Brian Hooker will read one of his poems. Arthur Whiting will discuss the American content. Paul Dougherty will point out the modern tendency in painting, and George W. Cable will interpret his philosophy. The session will conclude with the presentation of the gold medal of the institute for painting.

MEXICAN NAPOLEON ADVANCES TO THE FRAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—General Francisco Villa, commanding troops under control of the Ayacucho convention, is marching on Mexico City. His army today reached Leon, the first important railroad center south of Aguas Calientes.

General Pablo Gonzalez's Carranza forces are at Queretaro and Irapuato, where the first important clash probably will occur.

These facts were reported today by George C. Carothers, American consular agent accompanying General Villa.
