DON'T NEGLECT YOUR STOMACH

If It's Upset Mi-o-na Puts It Right and Ends Distress.

If you are one of the thousands who cannot eat a simple meal without its lying in the stomach like lead, fermenting and causing painful distress, sourness and gas, do not delay, but get at once some Mi-o-na-a simple prescription to be had at any druggist's-that quickly and effectively ends indigestion and corrects bad stomachs.

You must not allow your upset stomach to go from bad to worse, for there will surely be longer periods of food fermentation causing greater agony, more gas, sick headache, unrefreshing sleep, "blue spells," and nervousness.

A few Mi-o-na tablets are just what you need. Use them freely at the first sign of distress. Mi-o-na not only quickly ends the misery, but helps to unclog the liver and strengthen the stomach-then your food is properly digested.

Mi-o-na is not only inexpensive, but J. E. Hood & Co. sell it with agreement to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

The Record in Kinston Is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ills and is looking for an effective kidney medicine, better depend on the remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills have given great satisfaction in such cases. Kinston citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

James West, mechanic, 408 Queen street, Kinston, says: "My kidneys gave me a lot of trouble about three years ago. I had severe pains in my back and across my loins and was so sore and stiff that I could scarcely bend. I also had headaches and dizzy spells. The kidney secretions were scanty and painful in passage and contained lots of sediment. I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and was cured of all symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble."

Price 56e, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy-get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. West had. Foster-Milburn Co., Preps, Buffalo, N. Y.

SUFFRAGE MEETING POSTPONED TO FRIDAY

The Kinston Equal Suffrage League has postponed its meeting from Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Library to Friday afternoon at the same hour and place, because at that time it is possible to have present at the meeting a lady who was a delegate to both the state and Southern states Conventions, which were recently in session at Charlotte and Nashville, respectively.

The purpose of the league is to conduct a campaign of education, realizing that opposition to the world-wide movement of sex equality, on the part of both men and women, is due in large part to lack of information as to the laws and conditions under which we live. It is announced that a careful study of laws directly affecting women and children is the convincing argument upon which advocates for extending the suffrage depend for final victory. United Press Correspondent Gets His ing and reached the battery. Full Story Through by Mail, In Which He Recounts the Stirring Experiences of War

By William G. Shepherd United Press Staff Correspondent

shallow creek. In tents on a hillock beside the road is the corps commander and his staff. A network of field telephone wires, the nerves of the army stretch out from the hillock and run off among the tree-tops in the distant hills. Two temporary bridges cross the streams. This is an infinitely busy spot. Over these two bridges pass all the men, food and River of Death for thousands. A regiment of fresh soldiers, spick and same time, across the other bridge, wounded and sick men are being brought from the battlefield. The contrast defies description. Days ago in some city these fresh men marched through the streets, singing in their war enthusiasm. Their journey to this bridge on the edge of the battlefield has been long and slow. But it's almost ended. A short march will bring them where death is flying all about. They don't sing now. Their faces are grave. A group of other soldiers are cheering nearby. Their captain has just made a little speech telling them they are to go into battle soon, and that he expects them to do their best. On a hillside a mile away are thousands of men in gray. They form a carpet over the hill. I can see a white horse among them as I look through my glasses. The carpet moves and forms itself into patterns of straight lines on a green back ground. These the front after dark tonight. They are waiting and to keep them from growing nervous their officers put them through drills now and then. It is 11:30 now, but in this northern land at this time of the year it will be pitchdark at 4:45 this afternoon, to go the rest of the way on foot. I see my first shrapnel burst. It makes a tiny, lazidly-floating cloud of white smoke over the hils. Through my glasses I see an Austrian aeroplane near the white cloud. Another cloud and another and another break into view. The Russians are trying for the aeroplane. The aviator knows it, too. There's no use of his trying to climb above the dangerous shrapnel, for they have an upward range of over two miles, so the machine turns its tail and starts toward the Austrian lines. Puff! Puff! More These are deadly cubic miles of air up there, and if the aviator happens into one of them there will be a burst of splintered wood and tattered canvas, and his work will be done. But its all in the day's work for the man in the sky. He has been sent up to draw a Russian fire so that the whereabouts of a certain Russian battery may be disclosed. He has succeeded, too, for soon you hear the shrapnel screeching through the air toward the spots in the heavens where the white smoke floats. The Austrians are feeling over the forests, hills and valleys for the Russian batteries. They want the Russians to shoot and the aeroplane has turned the trick. Amid all these exciting scenes we see hungry soldiers with their backs bent earthward digging with sticks in a field for potatoes! Their stomachs are crying louder than the shrapnel.

Every shot of this vast tattoo we are hearing means one of these shells gone to pot. Then there are other boxes painted black, the same size. They contain four two-inch shells, costing about $10 each. We're not hearing these this morning for the Russian and Austrian artillery lines are about five miles apart and the smaller shells do little damage at that disbrassards we wear and welcomes us. "Maybe we'll be ordered to fire soon," he says. He leads us to a hole in the ground. Looking through the entrance we see that the cave is straw lined. Inside sits a man wearing a telephone head-piece. He is talking into the 'phone. He yells a series of numbers to the commandant who stands beside us. A hundred yards ahead of us are situated the six howitzers. We're standing beside the battery fire control which is the handle of this death-dealing fan. The commandant yells the numbers to the men at gun No. 1. With big poles the men move the cannon on its wheels into a new direction. Then other men with instruments for ammunition that feed the battle in measuring elevation, tilt the howitthe hills. This little creek is the zer to the proper angle. Suddenly all the men rush away from the hole in which the gun stands. One man span, is just marching across. At the picks up a rope from the ground; it's the trigger rope. He stands twenty feet behind the piece and waits. Every man stands with his hands over his ears. "Feueu!" orders the commandant.

Above the tremendous explosion there is a screech that pierces your eardrums. This fades away into a tremendous swish which echoes and repeats itself more and more faintly for about twenty seconds The sound comes from a mile in the air. The sky seems alive with the echoes of the first shriek. We don't see what happened. Somewhere in the hills five or six miles away, the shell struck home. Did it hit a farm house? Or explode among a regiment, killing scores of men? Or did it hit in some spot where no living beings were? How do we know it didn't hit a Red Cross camp? What we are really trying to hit is a Russian battery of guns like ourselves. If we can drop shell after shell on that battery, we can drive thousands of men are to be taken to its men away from it and silenee it and then, our infantry, from some place nearby can advance on it and seize it and that will mean another six miles gained in the Austrian ad-

Left from Whooping Cough-Was Terribly Run Down and Weak-Mother Tells How She Was Cured By Vinol.

Philadelphia, Pa.-"My little girl aged thirteen years, had the whooping cough, which settled into a chronic cough, with a run-down system and lung trouble. She had to stay at home from school while being treated by the doctor, and nothing seemed to help her. I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it. I soon noticed an improvement, and after giving her four bottles, her cough is gone, her strength has returned and she has a good appetite. We think there is nothing like Vinol."-Mrs. M. White, Philadelphia, Pa.

What Vinol did for this little girl it will do for others, for it is the healing, curative, tissue building influence of the medicinal elements of the extract of cods' livers aided by the blood making, strengthening properties of tonic iron which makes Vinol so successful in such cases, and children like to take Vinol because it is pleasant, and it is much better for them than "cough medicines" which have no strengthening power, while Vinol throws off the cough.

Remember, if Vinol fails to benefit, we return your money. J. E. Hood & Co., Druggists, Kinston, N. C.

NOTE-You can get Vinol at the leading drug store in every town where this paper circulates. adv
