YOU'LL FIND FEW FOOLISH QUESTIONS

Asked By Those Who Use Good Reference Books Constantly—Self-Investigation More Prolific of Lasting Impressions.

Far fewer "foolish questions" will be asked and answered in Kinston in the future since The Free Press' self-imposed task of distributing the New Modern English Dictionary will start soon.

Stop asking and answering needless questions and start clipping certificates. Then you can let the dictionary do your work. Begin your clipping on another page of this issue today in readiness to take them away as soon as six certificates have been published.

Children's questions should never be ignored. Impatient parents constantly bar the pathway of learning to little questioners anxious to learn. There is a way to save your patience and provide for the children's instruction as well. Let the dictionary tutor your tots.

Cyclopedias for children are the latest fad among the wealthy classes, where the importance of letting the coming generation learn by looking up the answers to its own queries is recognized. Children's cyclopedias are expensive and cumbersome, and the New Modern English Dictionary suits the purpose well and requires less expenditure and far less space.

Your sons and daughters, nieces and nephews, in fact, every person in whose welfare you are interested, should have this beautifully bound and comprehensively illustrated mine of ready reference information always at hand. The colored plates are particularly well suited for the instruction of the children and the formation of young ideas through the fund of information of which they form a part.

Any book ordered by mail will be extra, as explained in the coupon printed on another page.

NEGRO PAGEANT WILL BE SHOWN

St. Louis, Dec. 7.—The evolution of the negro from the savage to his present state is to be portrayed at the Coliseum beginning tonight, by 550 negro actors. The portrayal has for its title: "Pan-American Kirmess Pageant of the Negro Race," will run for eight nights, and is described, according to advance notices, as a pageant which will take the negro through savagery, plantation days, the civil war and the period of development following the civil war.

MOVIE LAW OF OHIO TO BE TESTED BEFORE COURT

Washington, Dec. 7.—The Supreme Court today granted a hearing in the suit of the Mutual Film Company of Ohio against the Ohio State Industrial Commission today. The case was taken from its regular place on the calendar. The Mutual Film Company in this case is attacking the moving picture law of Ohio, seeking to prevent its enforcement by the Ohio Industrial Commission.
