WORKING OUT WAR
PLANS ON "GAME
BOARDS" CLEVER IDEA

By Rurton K. Standish
(Written for the United Press) Washington, Jan. 6.—Stored away in the vaults of the army and navy departments today are secret plans for war. These show just what moves this country would make in event of hostilities against our shores.
Every possible plan of approach of an enemy has been considered, and with it has been evolved by the military strategists a method for meeting such an attack.

Not until the recent agitation over national security was it known that this nation is prepared for war, in the sense of having such carefully laid schemes of defense and offense.
Asst. Secretary of Navy Roosevelt himself disclosed one of the secrets when he indicated that fully 50,000 more men would have to be added to the navy, if a foreign power were to make war on this nation. But for the most part, the views of and the strategy of the military planners is guarded with jealous care.

Back of all these confidential war moves lie two great organizations—the army and navy war colleges.
Their "game boards," in conjunction with the fleet have developed these war ideals to a nicety which officials believe would stand the nation in good stead in case of actual practice instead of theory. The relation between the "game-boards" and the actual fleet operation, in the navy for instance, has been admittedly weak in recent months. But the Navy Department has turned its attention to making these problems of attack and defense as practical as possible. To this end, work is now under way to make the relations between the theorists and the admirals and captains closer and more practical.

The "game board" is just what its name signifies—a huge board on which the game of destruction is played by men trained to the arts of leth.

The United States navy is represented by miniature ships of a certain color. The ships of an enemy are designated by another color. They are moved around like chess men, but the elements of mathematical calculation, of unerring accuracy, of navy strategy enter into every movement. One tactical mistake may destroy the miniature United States fleet. To err on the game board is serious business—for it means that the man in charge might do the same were he engaged in a life and death struggle.

Then make the board play more realistic, the intricate problem suggested by the board are transferred to commanders of the big dreadnoughts.
There, these ideas are put into actual practice when maneuvers are possible.

Problems suggested by the naval encounters of the European war have been transferred to the game board so that America's strategists may benefit from the spectacular feats of British and German vessels alike.

And the army, too, works out maneuvers along the same line.

on North Mitchell street. Miss Jennie Barwick became the wife of Mr. W. F. Harper of Grifton. The wide acquaintance of the two and the very high esteem in which both are held, gave to the marriage an interest beyond the ordinary.

Though the invitations were limited to as small a number as possible, relatives and close friends, yet the house was filled with admiring guests. The bride, attractively attired in traveling suit of blue, came into the parlor upon the arm of the groom. The ceremony was performed by Pastor Bernard P. Smith of the Christian church.
Immediately after the marriage the happy parties left for the Norfolk Southern station, where amid showers of rice, they boarded a train for Norfolk, from which place they will go on to Baltimore and other points upon a bridal tour.

Mrs. Harper is one of the most highly esteemed young women of this city and Mr. Harper enjoys the confidence of all who know him.

It will be a pleasure to the many friends in Kinston to know that Mr. and Mrs. Harper will live here for the present at least.

SUSPEND SLAUGHTER
TO ALLOW SOLDIERS
TO PREPARE TOILET

At Times Enemies in Western War Theater Become Almost Friendly—
Good-Natured Barter Exchanged by the Soldiers

By William Phillip Simms
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

With the French army at the front, Nov. 29. (By mail to New York)—At places, here in the Argonne, the French and German trenches are so close together that in the weeks the two armies have been thus face to face, the soldiers are, after a fashion, personally acquainted with each other.

Here, the fighting has become systematized and follows a routine.
At certain sections of the trenches the French and Germans have reached an agreement that before a certain hour in the morning there is to be no killing; in the opposing trenches the men are to be allowed to wash up and make their toilet for the day. After the gong taps, figuratively speaking, any head showing above the level of the ground gets promptly taken off.

Rock battles often take place between the opposing sides. The men grow tired of having nothing to shoot at for hours at a time and in order to amuse themselves they bombard each other without the thrower exposing his person to the bullets of the enemy.

The old fashioned grenades have come back into style with this close trench fighting, the Germans using them frequently. They steal up to the trenches in the night or through the heavy fogs now of almost daily occurrence in this region, and let go into the midst of a crowd of men.

At times the enemies, however, become almost friendly.

"Say, over there!" a German shouted from his trench. "Have you guys got anything to smoke?"
"Sure!" the chorus came back from the French. "Have you?"
"Not a crumb!"
"Too bad. You ought to write the Kaiser."

spected resident will banish all doubt:

Mrs. T. A. Mitchell, 809 E. Chestnut St., Kinston, says: "For some time my kidneys were not acting as they should and the kidney secretions were irregular in passage. Pains in my back and limbs bothered me night and day. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box from the E. B.
