MINUS HIS FROGS, HE GOES BACK TO WORK.

St. Paul, Feb. 18.—Albert Kreuger, the man who carried 14 frogs in his tummy for several weeks and found that ten of them were alive when ejected, resumed work today, after being off duty for over two weeks to think it over.
Kreuger is believed by Dr. R. F. Johnson of Winthrop, Minn., who vouches for the story, to have taken frog eggs into his stomach while drinking water. The eggs got into the intestines, where the digestive juices are less severe, and there they were hatched.

THE DAY'S ODDEST STORY.

Philadelphia, Feb. 18.—After serving three weeks in the House of Corrections, sad-eyed George Gree today swore he would never wear another pair of suspenders.
While stealing a ride on the roof of a freight car, George slipped and found himself dangling in mid-air, held by his suspenders. A passing policeman stopped the train and nabbed him. He still has nine more weeks to serve, but warns his keepers never to mention suspenders to him.

Asheville, Feb. 16.—Just as Asheville was beginning to forget about the big cockfight held by the sports of the three States near here more than a week ago, fifteen who participated in the game yesterday submitted to a local magistrate and paid fines of twenty-five cents and costs each for their part in the fun.

VALUE OF HYOMEI.

It's the Same Catarrh Remedy—Nothing Better for Head Colds.
Do not endanger your health by taking strong drugs in the hope of curing coughs, asthma, head colds or dangerous catarrh that frequently destroys the hearing. Use Hyomei, a simple combination of healing oils that you breathe through a small inhaler. Its curative and health-giving medication clears stuffed-up head like magic.
Hyomei quickly goes to all the sore and inflamed tissues lining the nose and throat—its antiseptic healing begins at once and dull headaches, that distressing choking, constant sniffing and unclear discharges surely cease.
Hyomei is not only a pleasant treatment, but very inexpensive. Be sure to get the complete outfit that contains inhaler and bottle of liquid. J. E. Hood and Co. sell it on the "No-cure-no-pay" plan. Surely try Hyomei today—you have nothing to lose on this generous offer.

THIRD INSTALMENT OF ZUDORA AT THE GRAND.
The third episode of "Zudora," the continued motion picture being featured by the Grand Theater, will be presented this evening. Two other subjects for the bill are "A Wife's Stratagem," and "A Fable Proving That Spongers Are Found in Drug Stores," a short biograph drama and an Essanay comedy, respectively. The Biograph trademark, of course, will impel many to attend tonight's performances. There will be no vaudeville at the Grand during the next three days. The "Southern Rosebuds," engaged for the entire week, were summarily "canned" after Wednesday night's concluding performance.

At Last He Found It.
Irwin Cobb and "Boze" Bulger have had a monopoly of all the new dinky stories for such a long time that it is a positive pleasure to be able to relate one they have never heard. This one must be credited to a retired officer whose bachelor apartments are presided over by a Virginia cook of the old school. "Cap'n," said she, while serving breakfast, "you all suttin'y is lookin' good, raight now."
"Yes, Lucy," he replied. "You see, I'm drinking the right brand of whiskey, now."
Lucy chuckled. Then she said: "Well, Ah mus' say, cap'n, yoh kep' raight on twell yoh foun' hit."—New York Letter to the Cincinnati Times-Star.

Real Warfare.
"Oh, dear, I wish this dreadful war in Europe would stop," said Mrs. Wasserby.
"I feel the same way," answered Mrs. Twobble. "My heart bleeds for the sufferers."
"Of course I'm sorry for everybody who is a victim of the war," said Mrs. Wasserby, "but what I was thinking about at the moment was the effect it's having on our children. My son, Tommy, is leader of the Belgian army in our block, and the last time they had a battle with a German army down the street he came home bruised from head to foot."

GERMAN BRIDGE ROAD
Bridge road 546 yards long in northern France which was built by 600 German soldiers in five days.

Aristocratic Glass Blowers.
Glass, of which we are threatened with a scarcity through the closing of Belgian sources of supply, used at one time to be made by a most aristocratic set of workmen. A French law passed under Louis IX allowed none but men of noble birth to set up glass-blowing establishments, or even to work therein. For many centuries this was the only industry which noblemen could engage in without losing caste. The art of glass making came to England originally from France, and in early days in this country the workmen styled themselves "gentlemen glass blowers."—London Tit-Bits.

Torpedo Net Ineffectual.
Inventors will have to find some new method of protection against submarine torpedoes. Under the direction of Commander John K. Robinson, U. S. N., commanding the naval torpedo station at Newport, R. I., a test was recently made which seems to prove that the torpedo net is no longer a secure defense against the torpedo. In the experiment a torpedo with a heavy charge of gun cotton was fired from the torpedo boat Morris while she was running 18 knots at a steel net which was moored to protect the target. The torpedo went through the net, struck the target and exploded.

A Striking Contrast.
In a certain county there are, very near each other, a dilapidated rural schoolhouse and a handsomely constructed jail, costing several thousand dollars. This jail has sanitary drinking fountains, shower baths, clean floors, plenty of light, good ventilation, and is otherwise attractive. Could a person from the district in which this school is located be blamed for preferring the jail?

"GET KIN TO KINSTON"

The Only Town in the World by That Name

Kinston not only occupies a unique distinction in name, but in reality as a real town. Right now it is favored by natural conditions that place it in the front rank of commerce. By reason of its agricultural resources business is good in Kinston, while other Southern towns are up against it. Yet, Kinston and its territory are only partially developed. Plenty of room here for more folks and unbounded opportunities for financial investment.

The story in words and pictures will be told forcefully in the many pages of the coming
