With the election of the officers to take immediate charge of the plans for the first annual event to be held this fall, and the selection of the site, work can be commenced on preparing the grounds and erecting the buildings in a few weeks. The idea of the leaders in the movement is to plan well and build thoroughly. There now remain more than six months in which to prepare for the fall exhibit, but it will take every bit of that time to look after the local arrangements and get the already interested people in the rural sections enthused over the project. There are more than a quarter of a million people in the district expected to contribute to the fair's success. It is the idea of the local business men to get in touch with every farmer, merchant, banker and manufacturer in all nine counties during the spring and early summer, to inform them that this is "our" fair -"they" included in the "our." and to solicit the help of every man, woman and child in making the exhibits what they should be to encourage local competition, and show the outside world what the bright leaf tobacco belt offers.

Mr. Nachamson, 80, and Mrs. Nachamson, 78, came to America about ten years ago. They located in Baltimore, where several of their children reside. But the old people could not become reconciled to their new home, and on July 4 last returned to their old home at Jaffa to spend the remainder of their lives. Mr. Nnchamson was not an American citi zen, although he had taken out his first papers.

The Turks, who have since they entered the world war, been accused of mistreating the Christians and Jews, and by their actions aroused the American government to protest, ordered the old man to leave the country immediately, on the pretext that he was a foreigner. He had only time enough to bid his wife good-bye and not enough time to supply her with money, except $50. Mr. Nachamson was carried with hundreds of his race on the U. S. #### U. S. NAVAL OFFICER MADE ADDRESS ON JAPAN

Greenville, March 30 .- Lieutenant Commander Lyman A. Cotten, U. S. N., talke dto the students at the East Carolina Teachers' Training School here yesterday on "The Ideals of the People of Japan." Lieut.-Com. Cotten has spent the last three years as naval attache at the United States embassy at Tokio. He is now at the home of his parents, Cottendale, near here, on leave of absence.

Commander Cotten took credit for the American navy for the opening up of the Japanese empire to the world. He described the wonderful progress that the little people have made during the past half a century. They are easily disciplined, and are taught obedience from infancy, he said. "Unfortunately, this discipline goes to the extreme; theyo ften obey blindly and without reason," however, and in the absence of leaders they do nothing because many individuals lack initiative. Counterbalancing this, they have developed the capacity for planning in advance. They are a careful race. They are as patriotic as any people in the world, and the most secretive. Their bravery needed no comment, he said; they would endure anything for Japan. But it is collectively that they are brave; and never as individuals. If you scream at night for assistance, you won't get it from a Jap.

"Japan is the sopilt child in the family of nations." She cries and screams like a child when she does not get what she wants.
