ITEMS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE TO LENOIR'S TEACHERS

Rural School Libraries. In a number of rural school communities in Lenoir county school betterment associations have been organized for the purpose of improving the schools. One of the first things that the splendid working association at Bethel school did was to order an "original rural school library," costing $30, and recently a very neat bookcase for the care of the books has been placed in the school. Several other schools have ordered supplementary libraries and bookcases. It is very gratifying to note the appreciation of the value of good books in the rural school communities and to know that the betterment associations are working to supply one great need of every school, that is, good books. The text books alone are not sufficient to provide enough reading matter of the proper kind to stimulate interest in wholesome books.

A part of the teacher's work is to see that before leaving school every child has formed the habit of reading books that bring pleasure and profit. It is necessary for the school to have a supply of books that will be both interesting and instructive. In the use of the original and supplementary libraries from the State Department of Education the officials meet in some measure this need. The best way to create a taste for good literature is to see to it that the right books are placed in the hands of the children. The Pupils' Reading Circle organized in this county last year is for the purpose of directing the reading of the boys and girls. At the close of school a certificate is given to every boy and girl who satisfies his teacher that he has read during the year six books selected by the teacher. The teacher must give some form of oral test to each child so as to determine whether or not he has read the books intelligently.

Dr. E. C. Brooks, in writing about the "Use of the Rural Libraries," suggests that the libraries would prove more beneficial if the teachers would read more—do some reading outside the text-books in use in the school. He further states that if every teacher who has access to one of these libraries knew the contents of these books, or even knew what they were about, she would have a great material at hand for increasing the life of the school. Dr. Brooks' article in the January number of North Carolina Education should be read.

Lenoir County Teachers' Association.

The second regular meeting of the association will be held in the Baraca room of the Christian church Saturday, January 15th, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The program will be as follows: 10:30. Business session; roll call by groups; stories for morning exercises; outline study of "Stories to Tell to Children"; Discussion of kinds of stories to tell to children; reports on the use of the story in primary, grammar grades, and high school work; illustrated stories; organization of school health clubs. Honor Roll for Mill Branch School. Leo Tighman, Mary Lucy Sutton, Etheridge Sutton, Lebell Sutton, Marcellus Hardison, Sallie Mae Hardison, Adair Kennedy.

A Word to the Teachers from the County Superintendent.

I would like to see every teacher present Saturday at the meeting of the Lenoir County Teachers' Association. In these meetings matters of interest to every teacher in the county are discussed, and every teacher should be present to add something to the success of the meeting, or receive something that will enable her to do better work in her school. The old plan of staying in the school-room till the term closes and drawing a voucher for the money is a back number. The terms of the rural schools are longer, the progressive teachers are receiving better salaries and the taxpayers are expecting their children to get better instruction. In these meetings of the teachers, programs are prepared and all teachers should be present to participate in the work of the meetings. Their professional work are always in demand for better positions. All are expected to answer to roll call at 10:30 o'clock next Saturday morning. Be on time. JOSEPH KINSEY.

Quartet of Clever Children.

On last Friday night at the Grand Theater four of Kinston's brightest children made their debut as performers and entertained a delighted audience. They were Louise, Doris, Lester and George Cummings, the children of Mrs. Eva Cummings, who has trained them efficiently. Little Miss Louise sang "Jean" with a well trained voice, and her rendition of "Araby" with Oriental dance was very good. The younger sister, Doris, sang "My Little Girl" and "She Lives Down In Our Alley," a tough character song, that pleased. Lester sang, "What Shall I Do for a Living?" and was well received, but the hit of the performance was George.
