THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 13, 1916

We are impressed with the number of Kinston boys and girls whose names appear upon the honor roll published elsewhere in today's paper. Unquestionably this is a most healthy indication of splendid work being done by our Kinston schools.

Not only did Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, follow in her distinguished papa's steps by breaking a precedent, when she appeared before a congressional committee, but she demonstrated that she was a "chip off the old flock" by winning her point. That is a very decided Wilson characteristic.

The Free Press is glad that Lenoir county has put forward a candidate for State Senator in the person of Col. W. D. Pollock, whose candidacy was launched by the Lenoir Bar Association Tuesday night. Lenoir did not furnish a representative in the upper branch of the State Assembly last term. I's interests were well taken care of by Senators Ward and Thompson. We should be very glad to entrust our interests to them again if it were not possible for us to send one of our own fellow citizens. Col. Pollock has rendered faithful service to the party. He is an able speaker and will represent this district with credit. We bespeak for him the support of the people of Greene, Craven, Carteret. Jones and Onslow, as well as Lenoir.

HALF A LOAF BETTER THAN NONE.

The Free Press is glad to encourage the response of every citizen of Kinston to Mayor Sutton's proclamation to observe the two weeks, beginning April 17 and ending the 29th as "clean-up" weeks. We are always glad to endorse every effort to produce a better sanitary condition in Kinston and consequently a more healthful place to live in.

Although we are in entire sympathy with the city officials in their endeavor to have everything spick and span for the members of the Municipal Association who come here for the annual meeting the first week in May, and we are going to lend every effort possible to the entertainment of the visiting gentlemen, we do not base the necessity for the clean-up campaign primarily on the prospect of entertaining visitors. We are interested first in having Kinston cleaned up for the benefit of those who live here, many of whom have suffered from preventable diseases in the past because adequate sanitary measures were not taken, and The Free Press believes, as it has often proclaimed, that the responsibility for cleaning up the town and keeping it clean rests upon the city authorities. It is our opinion, too, before expressed, that an annual or semi-annual clean-up campaign is not sufficient. These special spasmodic efforts are all right as auxiliary to a regulr systematic daily and weekly cleaning throughout out the year, and we believe the city authorities ought to encourage the citizens to keep their premises clean sure the Raleigh institution will come out all right."

by affording carts for hauling off the garbage and refuse. The tax of twenty-five to fifty cents a load now paid, is not an incentive to clean premises, and, in fact. it very naturally encourages the use of the back lots for the storage of tin cans, which afford breeding places for mosquitoes through which malaria is conveyed.

The Free Press is glad that Kinston is to enjoy even this "half loaf" towards a clean-up, and it is still hopeful that the city authorities will conclude that the responsibility is upon them and that a regular systematic cleaning and a weekly hauling-off of garbage from the various sections of town is essential to the better health of the community.

MUNICIPAL ASSOCIATION PROGRAM.

The program for the Municipal Association's annual convention which will be held in Kinston May 4th and 5th, as published in Wednesday's Free Press, provides for the discussion of some very interesting and essential matters relating to municipal government not only so to the members of the association, but to the citizens of Kin-

Commission government will be discussed by Hon. John R. Hornady, one of the Commissioners of Birmingham. There has been some agitation in Kinston for a change of the method of city government. It is realized by many that the old aldermanic system is obsolete and incapable of producing the best results. Mr. Hornady has given a great deal of study to commission form of government. A few years ago, when there was agitation for doing away with the aldermanic system in Birmingham, Mr. Hornady, who was then managing editor of one of the leading papers, The Birmingham News, was sent to Dallas, Des Moines and a number of other places where commission government, city manager and other plans were being successfully tried. With the impressions thus gathered at first-hand, Mr. Hornady wrote some very interesting articles espousing the cause of commisison government, and the change to that form for the City of Birmingham was probably due more largely to the educational campaign thus conducted than to any other one factor. Mr. Hornady's address here will be illuminating and interesting, because he not only knows the theory but has had part in the practical operation of this modern method of handling municipal business.

Other matters of importance will be discussed. Health, fire prevention, street and road work, parks and playgrounds are among the principal other topics. The people of Kinston should be particularly interested in the discussion of health measures and the provision for parks and playgrounds. There is need here for better health safeguards, and the necessity for a public park and a playground is apparent to all who are interested to any extent in social welfare and the problems of public amusement and recreation.

SUPERINTENDENT'S ATTITUDE ALL RIGHT.

Winston-Salem Sentinel: "Dr. Albert Anderson, the superintendent, requests a full investigation of some of the charges made by a former inmate of the Hospital for the Insane at Raleigh. That is right and proper. After charges against such an institution are given publicity, there should be an inquiry affording everyone abundant opportunity to substantiate any statements that have been made, and the sooner it is done the better. (Continued from Page One) coupon of 15,000 votes will be given. This vote offer, together with the Honor Roll, make this week one of the important weeks of the whole contest. This is a sort of pivotal week when the friends of all the candidates will be watching them in order to judge whom to support during the last weeks of the struggle. By your efforts this week make them hrow their support your way. You must do your part this week to make it the biggest week of all. This week will hear rumors and then some more rumors. The wise ones will attempt to give you advice which, if you heed, will be sure to have a bearing on your campaign that will not be to your credit when the winners are announced. Many are trying to compare this campaign with others that have gone before. To such advice there is a very few words to say-don't do it. There is just one way to win in the Great Golden Festival, and that is to do your best each day as the days go by. Do not put off your hardest work until the last few weeks, or the last few days, for if you do, you are bound to lose more than you will gain. The people who really want to win are working every day, and when you make up your mind to go to work the last few days you will find that the territory has been covered, and that the subscriptions that you were depending upon have been giv-
