TUESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 8, 1916

If the speeches that Candidate Hughes makes on his ten-thousand-mile jaunt to the Pacific Coast are rehashes of his acceptance speech the trip should be decidedly advantageous to the cause of Democracy.

The Canadians evidently credit the reported German-American-Hughes alliance for the nominee's auto,out on a pleasure jaunt near Niagara Falls Sunday, was halted and searched for explosives by a Canadian trooper.

A little kerosene oil in the marshy places created by the recent high water in the Neuse will be a deathblow to the mosquito and incidentally prevent many a chill and other ill effects of malaria inoculation by the pest.

Honorable John Sharpe Williams says that Mr. Wilson is the only man who has ever brought the Kaiser to taw. Very true, and those who criticize Mr. Wilson's diplomacy should bear in mind that no big display of military preparedness and bluff was used in accomplishing the capitulation of the Kaiser in the submarine controversy.

TO BE CONSIDERED BY THE VOTER.

The predicament of the Republican party in the present campaign is unique in the annals of the American Government. Hardly since the institution of this Government and the establishment of two principal parties has it occurred before that one of the parties had to go before the people in a presidential campaign absolutely devoid of an issue. That is the case, however, in the present campaign. The Democratic administration has, by its remarkable record for achievement, burned every bridge behind it upon which the Republican party could

It is not to be argued that the Democratic administration hasn't had some flaws; that mistakes have not been made; but these shortcomings have been insignificant with the great constructive legislation enacted under the leadership of President Woodrow Wilson.

nee Hughes of the Republican party failed to arouse enthusiasm from the press and leaders of his par- the association, when roperly recommended. A man in ty by his speech of acceptance. The speech pleased the Democrats more or less because of its omissions and negative character. Mr. Hughes should not perhaps be held too strictly to account for his speech, when it is considered that he had little or no foundation upon which to build. There are perhaps men in Mr. Hughes' party who could have made a more creditable effort than did he in caring for a bad job and disposing of a monumental task, but Mr. Hughes' speech at least reflected the plight of problem, and the prolem of society involved, will be perhis party, and the American people, free and unfettered manently solved, is hat with the man to his new work as they are, will be quick to recognize the empty appeal of Republicanism.

When the American people put in the balances the issues of the present campaign, fulfilled promises and tiary, if he is in god standing with the Humanitarians, achievement, which must be ascribed to the Democratic administration, will stand out most strikingly in contrast fare to that job. The promise of employment will be from to the empty and indefinite promises of the Republicans a brother member of the organization-and the men, such in their vain attempt to gain favor. The people will not as those named abve, who join, thereby enter into a be unmindful, regardless of the abuses heaped upon President Wilson by Candidate Hughes, that the United States
