WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 30, 1918

It is to be observed that London, Paris, Petrograd and Rome all rejoice at the action of Roumania in casting her lot with the Allies. Misery always did love company.

According to the news dispatches the Bremen is still on the way to an American port. This alleged boat has been sunk, captured several times by the enemy, and has been seen off every American port from the Canadian line to the Gulf of Mexico. It is almost as elusive as a Villa.

In Europe the grasping monarchs are willing to sacrifice the flower of their manhood in order to acquire additional territory. In the eyes of those greed mongers human life is inconsiderable if its sacrifice means the acquisition of some desirable tract of land upon which their jealous eyes may feast. In America very much the same spirit is manifest in those localities, where liberal appropriations are made for protecting hogs from cholera, removing ticks from cattle, and not a dollar is provided for the proper and adequate protection of the babies. The spirit of avarice is engendered because the stock can be figured in dollars and cents. Not so with the babies, the value of which cannot so easily be computed.

A few plain clothes motorcycle guardians of the peace, stationed about on the new asphalt paved streets to overtake and remind that there is a speed limit, would probably be the means of averting casualties, which are certain to come, if there continues to be the same lack of respect for the safety of others as is manifested by some of those, who drive gas wagons in these parts. In other words, the attention of the authorities is respectfully called to the fact that there is flagrant disregard of all speed limits and safety first precautions by many of those who drive automobiles, and unless they slacken their pace they should be haled into the court before their victims are hauled to the infirmaries or morgues.

MAKING THE KINSTON MARKET.

There is a spirit of co-operation and "get-together-ness" on the part of the tobaccoists, buyers and warehousemen—to make of the Kinston market what it should be, the leader of the Eastern Carolina tobacco belt. Logically this should not be difficult of attainment. Kinston is supported by the best "back country," not only of any of its sister towns of the East, but perhaps of any place in the entire State; territory that has not been developed; fertile acres in vast numbers that have not yet been called upon to give even a sample of what they are capable of producing. The development, of course, must not be expected at once. There must be a gradual process but the development plans must be set in motion. The initial steps must be taken. Co-operation is needed. Not only must the tobaccoists work to make Kinston what it should be as a tobacco market, but every other interest represented in this section should have encouragement for healthy and legitimate development to bring it into its own.

One of the essentials is good roads, with which the matter of a few miles' extra haul will make little difference to the producers and without which business will naturally be diverted to those centers, which afford the easier access. The Free Press is informed that some of the principal thoroughfares leading to Kinston have not come in for their share of attention from those upon whom the responsibility for construction and maintenance of roads devolve. For instance, we are informed, by those who have occasion to travel that way, that the main highway leading by Edwards' bridge toward the Pitt county line, is sadly in need of repair, and that many of the automobilists traveling toward Greenville and other Pitt county places have to take an entirely different route from what stands to reason that the reverse is the case, and that they would if this particular highway was cared for. If tobacco growers, who would perhaps come to Kinston, if the way was open, now are forced to go to other markets. The main highways—those which would afford the greatest number of people opportunity to travel this way—are the ones that should have first consideration, and if Kinston comes into its own as a tobacco market and ascends to the top of the ladder, where she rightfully belongs, good roads must of necessity be provided.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

Whether the recommendations of President Wilson, made to Congress in his special message Tuesday, regarding the disputes between the railroad managers and certain of their employes and pertaining to like disputes in the future, are enacted into law, will, of course, be a matter to be determined by Congress within the next few days. Whether the suggestions present a solution for the problem, of course, can only be determined by a try-out.

The President's message is very comprehensive. It goes into every phase of the question and apparently the issues have been viewed carefully from the standpoint both of employer and employee. If some of the recommendations appear to lean to one side or the other, the full message is a manifest of President Wilson's sincere desire to accord to each and all parties to the controversy fair and equitable consideration.

The Free Press believes that the principle of the eight-hour working day is sound, and that it will eventually prevail. Whether it is possible or wise to require the immediate change from a ten-hour to an eight-hour basis is debatable, to say the least. If President Wilson intends that Congress should enact legislation, which will require the railroads to immediately effect an eight-hour working day as a basis, and that the wage of the men shall be the same as is now paid for ten hours, we believe the action would work a hardship on the railroads. If the plan is to adopt an eight-hour working day and the pay is to be for eight hours, we believe the railroads ought to yield and that public sentiment will endorse such legislation. By reducing the working day twenty per cent. with no reduction in the wage, the railroads are called upon to increase their pay-rolls twenty per cent.

President Wilson's suggestion to provide for full investigation of such disputes before strikes or lockouts are legal is from the viewpoint of permanent remedy, the strongest recommendation in his message.

The suggestion that Congress expressly approve the consideration by the Interstate Commerce Commission of an increase of freight rates will no doubt provoke much discussion and controversy. The Interstate Commerce Commission already has the power to authorize when in its judgment, increases are in order.

At any rate, if the present controversy and imminent danger of tying up traffic by the disagreement of the railroads and their employes, brings about the enactment of legislation, which will in future prohibit precipitate action by either party to such controversies and from which such actions the general public suffers most, the present controversy will have been a blessing in disguise.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

HELPING OUR NEIGHBOR.

Hickory Record: "Judge Garland S. Ferguson, who spent Sunday in Hickory spoke of matters that he had been emphasizing in charges to the grand jury recently. He said he had observed a lack of moral courage on the part of the average man, compared to the courage displayed years ago, and had referred to this. If we know of a young fellow's carrying a concealed weapon, we don't go to him, as a rule, and reason with him, but wait for him to get caught, and then insist that pistol toters be punished.

"It is the same way about blind tigers and blockaders, he has observed. We don't speak a brotherly word, but we do insist that the tiger go to the roads. We ought to be more concerned about our neighbor—but how many of us really take the trouble to reason with him in time to save him and his family from disgrace?"

FAMILIARITY BREEDS CONTEMPT.

Wilmington Star: "Judge Hughes needn't cultivate familiarity with the crowds. He told 'em out West to call him Charlie, but the whole country is liable to call Charlie on the 7th of November. Howbeit, the Judge has his reasons for a little familiarity at this time, but if he is elected he is liable to relapse into a state of dignity more awful than the unfathomable reserve he assumed on the Supreme Court bench. He has already shown us that when he wants to do it he can assume a dignity as impenetrable as that of our old friend the Sphinx."

WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, headaches, dizziness and distressing urinary ills? Kinston people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Could you ask for stronger proof of merit?

G. A. Wilkins, Caswell Hotel, Kinston, says: "I had terrible pains in my back and hips and suffered from rheumatic twinges in my shoulders. I had headaches and dizzy spells and the kidney secretions were scanty, and contained sediment. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Doan's Standard Drug Store, and they cured me of all signs of kidney trouble."

THAT MORNING LAMENESS.

If you are lame every morning, and suffer urinary ills, there must be a cause. Often it's weakened kidneys. To strengthen the weakened kidneys and avert more serious troubles, use Doan's Kidney Pills. You can rely on Kinston testimony.

Walter R. Moore, carpenter, 112 S. East Street, Kinston, says: "I had pains in my back and loins and in the morning I was sore and stiff. I had headaches and dizziness and the kidney secretions were to frequent in passage. I knew of others who had been benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box from J. E. Hood & Co.'s Drug Store. They soon cured me of the backache and all other symptoms.

WHEN EVERY MOVE HURTS.

Lame every morning, achy and stiff all day, worse when it's damp or chilly? Suspect your kidneys and try the remedy your neighbors use.

Emmet Haskins, carpenter, 403 East street, Kinston, says: "My kidneys were out of order and I had dull pains across my back and loins. In the morning I was sore and lame and could hardly bend to pick up my tools. The kidney secretions were scanty, highly colored and contained sediment. I got Doan's Pills from the J. E. Hood & Co. Drug Store, and they soon relieved me of the backache and all other symptoms of kidney trouble."

It Proves That There's a Way Out for Many Suffering Kinston Folks. Just another report of a case in Kinston. Another typical case. Kidney ailments relieved in Kinston with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Walter T. Hill, grocer, 500 North street, Kinston, says: "I had pains in the small of my back and in the morning I was so sore and stiff that I couldn't get out of bed. My head ached, I had dizzy spells and the kidney secretions passed irregularly. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, after I had taken other medicines with no results. They soon cured me of kidney trouble. I have had no sign of the complaint since."

ALL WORN OUT.

Does morning find you with a lame, stiff and aching back? Are you tired all the time—find work a burden? Kinston people endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. You can rely on their statements.

Mrs. Sarah J. Dupree, 301 Gordon street, Kinston, says: "My kidneys were weak and gave me lots of trouble. I also suffered a great deal from inflammation of the bladder. The kidney secretions were unnatural and caused me much annoyance. I have used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from J. E. Hood & Co.'s drug store, and they have never yet failed to relieve me. I keep them on hand all the time and cannot praise them too highly."

This Extra Power

This 76 Horsepower—
What It Means to You in

Hudson Super-Six

The Smoothest-Running Motor in the World

THE question asked us oftentst is this:

"Why do I want the 76 horsepower which the Super-Six delivers?"

Other motors seem powerful enough. You don't care for reckless speed.

BUT CONSIDER THIS

The Super-Six is small and light—same size as most Light Sixes. We add no cylinders, no size to get this 80% more power.

We have simply ended the vibration which caused friction.

The power we save in this way becomes reserve power. As a result, the Super-Six out-performs any other stock car. The steepest hills are mounted on high gear. The car can creep, and instantly dash to speed.

Every situation is met without effort. No other car you meet can match the Super-Six performance.

IT IS NEVER TAXED

Then the Super-Six is never taxed. It is rarely run at even half-load. An engine run in that way far outlasts an engine that is strained.

Then this extra power—this 80%—comes through utter smoothness. Motor wear is almost nil. No other stock car ever showed such endurance. The Super-Six invention, probably, doubles the motor's life.

A HUDSON PATENT

Rivals, of course, will seek to minimize the Super-Six importance. This is a Hudson invention, controlled by Hudson patents. Others cannot get it.

But take a ride in the Super-Six. Watch its performance. Note the luxury of motion. Learn what it means to have 80% more efficiency.

Other cars—the best of them—will seem crude after that.

All Other Cars Outrivalled

At Sheepshead Bay, under A.A.A. supervision, a 7-passenger Super-Six stock car excelled all former stock cars in these tests:
100 miles in 80 min., 21.4 sec., averaging 74.67 miles per hour, with driver and passenger.
75.69 miles in one hour with driver and passenger. Standing start to 50 miles an hour in 16.2 sec.
During these tests the car was driven 1350 miles at top capacity, at speed exceeding 70 miles per hour, without discoverable wear on any part.

Six new-style bodies, each a masterpiece, have been built for this Super-Six. Their luxuries will delight you.

Orders placed now can be delivered in time for the motoring season.
