TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 28, 1918.

Any old tin cans, half filled with water, in your back yard?

Unquestionably the "stay-at-home" colony will increase after June 10th, 1918.

Since it is now the fashion for German maids to go barefoot, the Sammies will be more anxious than ever to reach Berlin.

Wonder if Director General McAduo would mind a fellow loading up on mileage before that proposed increase in passenger fares takes effect?

He who rides in the parlor car after June 10th must not only tip the porter and incidentally pay the usual fare but he must hand over an additional half cent a mile for enjoying the comforts of modern travel.

Up in Amherst, Virginia, the merchants have banded together and will observe Wednesdays as an off-day during the growing season in order that the employers and employees can work their gardens and help solve the food problem.—A fine example of practicing good preach-ment.

HANDS THAT ROCK THE CRADLE.

The Raleigh Times thinks that Postmaster General Burleson might better utilize his time in persuading Congress to repeal its zone postage legislation than by trying to put T. R. at the head of that society that the ex-President founded some years ago.—It's like asking a man to murder his own offspring to suggest to Burleson to work against the laying of this onerous and unnecessary burden on the press of America. Might as well talk about getting Claude Kitchin to forego this opportunity to seek a reprisal against the press that has declined to endorse the seniority system of selecting leadership in the House and Senate.

There has never been a time in the history of America or the world that dissemination of news and information was more essential than it is today. Yet Congress has seen fit to impose upon the publishers and of course indirectly upon the reading public a tax that is unnecessary and admittedly not a war measure for it is circumscribed by no limitations of the war's duration. The increase in postage running from about 25 to some 900 per cent. is an iniquitous burden put upon the press of this country which has largely on account of the favorable postage rate in the past been enabled to furnish its product to the people far and near at a price much below the cost of publishing were the advertising incomes divorced from the subscription revenues.

Personal pique, desire to "get even" and an attempt to cover up incompetency in managing the postoffice affairs are the hands that rock this postage cradle.

GUARDING AGAINST TYPHOID.

Reports from Dr. J. S. Mitchener's office indicate that the people are taking advantage of the opportunity to fortify themselves against the dreaded scourge of typhoid fever.

Last year there were nineteen cases of typhoid in Kinston. This year there should be none. If everybody who has not already taken the treatment or been immunized by a recent attack of the disease will avail themselves of the opportunity that the health department now affords to be vaccinated there will be little danger of any appearance of the disease here this year. The treatments are being given free to all who call at the health department at the High School building.

Vaccination against typhoid fever is not in the experimental stage. Its efficacy has been proven beyond any doubt. The record of the United States army, which has practically eliminated the disease entirely through vaccination, is sufficient evidence that science has mastered the scourge and that with the cooperation of the people typhoid fever will become extinct. There must be cooperation, however, before any such results are obtained.

O. J. Dykeman, a travelling salesman out of Wilmington, was held in the Birmingham, Alabama jail for several days because of discourteous treatment alleged to have been shown a young woman solicitor for the Red Cross. He was released after apologizing and subscribing. Wilmington very properly denied any claim on him when the reports reached there of his conduct. So be it to all who thus prove disloyal to their country.

Notice to all who it may concern: If any disloyal fellow claims North Carolina as his home, the people of this good State wish it understood that they will promptly disown him and approve whatsoever legal and just punishment may be meted out to him.

KINSTON MAN SPENT FORTUNE IN SEARCH.

"I spent $1,800 in 7 years treating with physicians, some specialists costing me $10 a visit, only to at last say that nothing could be done for me, that I had cancer or ulcers of the stomach. I suffered awful pains in my stomach, but after taking a few doses of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy these all disappeared and for 3 years am feeling fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Sold by J. E. Hood & Co. adv.
