POETRY.

WHEN I LIVED IN PERU.
SONG OF A GREAT DEARD.
BY A. B. FOOT.

When I lived in Peru,
I'm thinking, friends, today,
That I was young when there I lived,
And now my heart is gray!
I'm thinking of the days long gone,
When life to me was new,
And scenes and friends I knew and loved,
When I lived in Peru.
When I lived in Peru,
I think of it to-day—
The age of one-and-thirty years,
Seems all very far away!
How slowly did each year come round,
When life to me was new,
How swift these thirty years have flown,
Since I left old Peru!
The good town of Peru—
It lies "away down East,"
Dear land of cloaks and pumpkin pie,
And glad Thanksgiving feasts;
Where young men followed honest toil,
And steady habits, too,
And girls were linsey-woolsey feasts,
When I lived in Peru.
When I lived in Peru,
I do remember well,
How late my first tall hat appeared—
It's crown a graceful bell,
It's "hair" waved like a field of grain,
When 'er the breezes blew—
Ah, me! the styles have sadly changed,
Since I lived in Peru.
When I lived in Peru,
The world seemed bright and gay,
But many a lump since then I've met,
On life's uneven way,
And oftentimes, as I turn to take
A retrospective view,
I sorrow for the good old days,
When I lived in Peru.

CUBA—1871.

Oh! for a champion's sword and shield,
Oh! for a Roland's heart and will,
To rise for Cuba's cause!
Why stand we dumb and idly by,
Ourselves who fought for Liberty,
Thus tamely see our country's fall,
And in our duty pause?
Great God! how long our country's fall,
Is not on idle forms to wait,
When Freedom's mezzars call,
Our great Republic's chief must stand,
To listen to the victim's prayer,
And show the world "our flag is there,"
When patriot heroes fall.
We know no sovereignty of birth,
We know no sovereignty but worth,
And a free people's will,
Shall be our birthright now,
Captivity be the martyr's curse,
And prove our flag a "liberating" one,
When Freedom's struggles will.

Wisdom alone hath made us free,
Tanght us eternal truths to see,
To suffer and to die,
Shall we, too, from our duty shrink,
No! break the slaves' last torturing link,
And snatch poor Cuba from the brink,
Of her extreme despair.
Let no vain talk of struggling Spain,
Blot out the records of the slain,
On Cuba's nameless fields,
For fifty years her sons have fought,
For fifty years have toiled and wrought,
For fifty years their children's rights,
That Freedom never yield!

Leave Spain to Spain—poor Cuba, free,
Cannot afford her destiny,
Believe who can in Spain,
A thousand years cannot efface,
Her wrongs to Cuba's gentle race,
Their sufferings and her disgrace,
Their glory and her state.
Send forth the ships, the appointed ones,
Has come to punish Spanish crimes—
The by-word of the world,
Open the ranks, beneath the sword,
"Virgins" be the battle word,
And where her victims' blood was poured,
Let Freedom's flag be hoisted!

Langham Hotel, London, Nov. 23d, 1873.

A lady in Portland, Me., halted in front of a garden the other day and accosted a man at work on some trees with "What are you doing to those trees?" "Girdling them, madam, with printer's ink and cotton to prevent canker worms from ascending." "How much does it cost?" inquired the lady. "About twenty-five cents," was the answer. "What's your name?" was the lady's next question. "Hill," said the man. "Well, I wish you would come and girdle ours." The man gave an evasive answer, and the lady went home and told her husband, who went into convulsions of laughter. "Why, what on earth are you laughing at?" said she, and as soon as the amused husband caught his breath he told his wife that the man she had asked to girdle the trees was no less than the Rev. Dr. Hill, late President of Harvard College, one of the foremost living mathematicians and pastor of the First Parish Church.

Punch has hit at the domestic service question in the following squib: "Lady's maid—Please, ma'am, I wish to resign." Lady—"Why, Parker? You came here only yesterday." Lady's maid—"I've been looking over your accounts, ma'am, and find your things are not up to the mark, and wouldn't do me credit."—"Pretty bad under foot," said one citizen to another as they met in the street. "Yes; but it's fine over head," responded the other. "True enough," said the first; "but then very few are going that way."

A Pennsylvania auctioneer sold a maw worth about $10 for $23, and dropped dead while taking the money. The doctors' cry to make out that he had heart disease.
