THE NEW BERN SUN.

Winston-Salem Journal.
 The New Bern Sun has completed the first year of its existence. The Sun is a healthy youngster and is to be congratulated upon its success. It is one of the liveliest afternoon papers in North Carolina and its value to the city of New Bern is incalculable.

Kinston Free Press.
 The New Bern Sun was a year old Tuesday. The Sun never suffers eclipse; and its rays are helpful and invigorating to us all. May a long life of honor and usefulness stretch out before it!

Salisbury Post.
 The New Bern Sun has passed the first mile post and the Post hastens to felicitate Editor Bob Phillips, for without him the Sun would be lacking the individuality that has made it what it is—one of the best and brightest publications in the state. The Sun is deserving much good fortune and we are hoping it will realize its deserts at all times. New Bern needs it and North Carolina journalism could not well spare the sunshine and fine judgment reflected in its columns every day.

RADIANT REFLECTIONS.

By Henry Blount.
 Love lightens labor.
 Dun is the past tense of due.
 The poet is a verse-attle genius.
 A false chord of music is a discord.

A rain is never arraigned for doing mischief.
 No, Ella, coffins are not made of dry wood.

Bow legged men are frequently the subject of arched remarks.
 The man who lives right will die right, with Heaven full in sight.

Yes, Ella, the dude before marriage is often subdued after a spirited wife takes him in charge.

They are certainly "running things in the ground" when they organize a coffin trust.

The keeper of an inn, however poor he may be, is unquestionably and beyond all doubt inn-dependent.

The high and the low, the rich and the poor, the proud and the meek, the haughty and the humble—all come to a "dead level" at the grave.

Deal with your fellow beings as if God was visible to you natural eyes, and you will be more honest in your dealings and more charitable in our judgments.

Reciprocal love in the home circle will keep all the harps of life in sweetest and most harmonious tune, and make existence as sweet as the odors of flowers in sun kissed June.

We should not shudder as we near the grave, for amid its shadows of darkness there blossoms into richest bloom and sweetest fragrance the fadeless flower of blissful immortality.

For the true christian the grave has no rayless gloom, for he feels that a crucified savior has passed through its portals, and illumined it with glorious flood light of resurrections effulgent morning, full aglow and glistening with celestial splendors.

It is so comforting and so full of solace to feel that in the lullaby of death all trials and troubles and griefs and sorrows and heart aches are rocked into eternal sleep in the cradle of the grave, and in its quiet hush there is a sweet oblivion for life's brilliant woes. Yes, thank God the grave nurses no memories.

Sarcasm is that sharp pointed and stinging thorn of ill nature and soured feelings that is left when the fragrant and luxuriant flowers of charity. Kindness and nobility have been taken from the stem of existence and left it bare and uncomely, without beauty and without fragrance.

True friendship is that rare flower of the heart that blooms as sweetly and as luxuriantly and as beautifully amid the snow-robed scenes and icy pettings of the coldest December of adversity and misfortune as well as in the warm and balmy and flower-wreathed and song throbbing May of success and prosperity.

With faith in God as the chart, and prayer as the rudder our life's barque will safely buffet the wildest billows of temptation and evil upon the stormy and tempestuous ocean of time, and reach in safety the calm and unruffled harbor of eternity wherein lies glistening and resplendent the blissful shores of the New Jerusalem, luminous and flashing with the reflected beamings of the illumitable splendors of the throne of God, resonant and musical harmonies and resounding and reverberating with the ecstatic shouting of the redeemed and the saved.

ARTIST OR ARTISAN.

Do You Practice an Art or Follow a Trade?
 What are you—you who bake the bread and brew the tea—artist or artisan? You may roast a joint for two or twenty, you may toss an omelet on occasion or pursue that occupation as a profession, and still be either an artist or artisan.

Some one has said in writing of Mme. Poulard, whose little inn was for years one of the attractions of Mount St. Michael:

"To see her preparing an omelet or a stew or keeping an eye on the chickens revolving over the fire was to see a woman practicing an art rather than following a trade."

That distinction between an art and a trade is an interesting one, by the way, and one which may be applied to the realm of cooking as well as to that of any other field of endeavor.

In common parlance house painting is termed a trade, while painting miniatures on ivory would surely be referred to as an art. Still, with no inaccuracy in definition the terms might be reversed.

Of course the difference in the two terms, stating it broadly, is one of conscious effort. The artist adds the imprint of his own personality to his work; the artisan merely performs manual labor. An art perhaps is only a trade with the creative element added.

And so it was said of this Mme. Poulard:

"In handling her utensils she had the grand air which distinguishes the artist from the artisan, the cook whose heart is in her work from the cook bent on earning a living."

Is it too high a standard to set for the mere business of cooking to demand that it be done with individuality? A criticism which was once made of the table of a club is that it "had no love in it." To quote again: "The actual needs (of the club) were generally met, but there was no margin, no suggestion of human interest. You were treated as a boarder to be fed and not as a human being with taste as well as appetite."

How different this from the attitude of a woman whose apple pies invariably caused some favorable comment and who was once asked how she made them!

"Oh, I don't know," she said. "Just the usual way, I guess, only I always think of the nice folks I am making them for and put in a pinch of love."

The woman was a practical, hard-working housekeeper with a big family of boarders, not a sentimental newly wed, but she meant pretty literally what she said. Most women in her circumstances would have put in only a pinch of grim necessity.

The pinch of love, or, if you please, the spontaneous interest, that went into that work was the thing that made those pies the work of an artist rather than an artisan.

And when you hear a woman talk about the drudgery of "messaging around the kitchen" and the awful bore it is to get meals you may make up your mind that, however gifted she may be in other lines, in her home at least she is an artisan and not an artist.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

If when bathing you will put half a teacup of vinegar in either cold or warm water, but not hot water, it is very cleansing and bracing and will keep the skin in an active, healthy state. It is also an excellent thing for a foot bath.

An excellent hair wash is to take one ounce of borax and one ounce of powdered camphor and dissolve in a pint of boiling water, adding to cold water in a bowl. The camphor will form into lumps, but a sufficient amount will dissolve. This will strengthen the hair and preserve the color.

To make thin cheeks plump rub skin food in with the following movements: To treat the right cheek place the thumb of the left hand just beyond the corner of the mouth on the left cheek as a brace. Make rotary movements upward and outward, beginning at the corner of the mouth and making three diverging lines of manipulation over the cheek. With the right hand treat the left cheek. About six times over each cheek is sufficient.

It is impossible to dress to look one's best unless the toilet table has a brilliant light above it. It is mortifying to pass from a dim bedroom to a well lighted theater or a friend's house and to discover small wisps of straying hair and errors about one's attire which entirely escaped attention in the semi-darkness at home. A clever woman has her bedroom most cunningly lighted so that by means of another mirror opposite that on her dressing table she can see herself in every position. This is one reason why she is rarely seen with "yawnings" between bodice and skirt, glimpses at petticoats through plackets and the back collar badly adjusted.

DENVER IS IN UPROAR

Bryan is Beginning to Feel Interested

HENRY WATTERSON SPITS FIRE

Resolutions to be Introduced by Judge Parker, Makes Bryan's Followers Sit Up and Take Notice—Committee Will Protest.

Denver, Colo., July 4.—Charging that Alton B. Parker's resolution of tribute to the memory of the late President Grover Cleveland is a clever move on the part of the enemies of William Jennings Bryan to induce factional feeling into the democratic national convention, friends of the Nebraskaan determined to offer a resolution of a character designed not to raise controverted political issues.

Through control of the temporary organization of the convention, the Bryan following expects to have its resolution brought to the attention of the delegates immediately after the speech of the temporary chairman has been delivered. In that event, the Parker resolution would have to be offered as a substitute, if submitted at all, and that Bryan men declare that the New York delegation would thereby be placed in the attitude of attempting, under the guise of eulogizing a great party leader, to create strife and dissension and to make harmony impossible.

All democrats, without regard to factional affiliations, applauded the suggestion coming from New York that the national convention should embrace the first opportunity of honoring the memory of Mr. Cleveland, but most of those who have expressed themselves on the subject are of the opinion that the resolutions adopted should not contain anything over which there could be the slightest difference of opinion.

The New York resolution, which was made public last night, is denounced by such Bryan leaders as Mayor James C. Dahlgren, of Omaha, and Judge M. E. Wade, of Iowa, the members of the national committee from that state. They declare that its adoption would be a direct slap at Bryan, and insist that in giving it out for publication the New York delegation intended to disparage the Nebraska candidate.

The portions which particularly aroused the ire of the friends of Mr. Bryan relate to Mr. Cleveland's record on the questions of maintaining the integrity of the courts and finances the paragraphs being as follows:

"He respected the integrity of our courts, and so insisted upon strict enforcement of the law that every honest man or interest might be protected and all offenders punished, without fear or favor."

"He maintained the public credit and honor, stood firm as a rock in defense of sound principles of finance and resisted dangerous economic doctrines and practices left by the republican party as a heritage of our people."

Henry Watterson Spits Fire.

Louisville, Ky., July 4.—Commenting upon the report from New York last night that Judge Alton B. Parker had been selected to present resolutions at the Denver convention upon ex-President Cleveland's death, Col. Watterson said:

"The attempt to drag the dead body of Grover Cleveland from its new-made grave into the tumult of a national convention will deceive no one. An invasion of the grief of the noble lady who weeps amid the silence and the solitude of the granite hills, a blow at party concord, it is an act of shameless hypocrisy."

"Nor was ever a professional ghoul inspired by a more mercenary spirit, because the sole aim and end of the Murphy-Connors crowd, aided by Judge Parker, is the perpetuation of the ascendancy of the Belmont-Ryan combination, to which democracy owes its last ignominious and well deserved defeat. It was Belmont-Ryan money that financed Judge Parker's campaign for the nomination in 1904. It was Belmont-Ryan money that nominated him, and it was the Belmont-Ryan tag that made an anti-trust government under such a brand absurd and impossible."

ROBBED OF $500 WATCH.

German Millionaire's Timepiece Stolen in Richmond Factory.

By Wire to The Sun.
 Richmond, Va., July 4.—Ernest L. Faber, the German millionaire pencil manufacturer, who is studying manufacture of ice cream freezers at the Richmond Cedar Works, was robbed yesterday of a gold watch, valued at $500.

The young man hung his coat containing the watch upon a nail while he went about his duties. Nothing was taken except the watch, which was especially valuable to the young man because of the fact that it was a present from his father.
