PETITION FOR PARDON

Application will be made to His Excellency, Governor R. B. Glenn, for pardon of D. W. Dowdy, convicted of illegal sale of liquor in New Bern on the ground that the punishment he has suffered is as much as is required to vindicate the law.

When New Bern voted dry, the law provided as a maximum of imprisonment the term of six months. He was arrested last fall, and on account of his health, procured his discharge from Kinston jail. He has been closely confined by the sheriff of Craven county since last February, making a longer term than the voters and the law contemplated. Disregarding all questions as to legality of his imprisonment, and his guilt, he has paid all the penalty understood to be required by the law.

He has a large family of young children who need his time and labor in their support, and education, and even sustenance.

I therefore ask the people of New Bern to join me in this petition, and the Governor to grant the same.

MRS. D. W. DOWDY.

CONSTIPATION

For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 12 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Finally I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man, having the nine years before I used Cascarets I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you I am free from all that this morning. You see use this in behalf of suffering humanity.

BRYAN CLUB IN BLADENSBURG

Residents of District Name Committee On Finance

By Wire to The Sun.

Hyattsville, Md., Sept. 15.—The Bryan and Kern Democratic Club of Bladensburg district was organized last night at the Palo Alto House, Bladensburg. Clerk of the Circuit Court B. D. Stephen called the meeting to order. John R. Risdon, of Riverdale, was elected president, and Milton J. Payne, secretary.

Instead of a treasurer, a financial committee was appointed, composed of B. D. Stephen, T. Howard Duckett, and A. H. Dahler. A committee to obtain speakers was named, composed of Joseph Fanning, A. M. Lawson, and J. Moses Edlavitch.

The following vice-presidents were chosen: Fred Heller, Bladensburg; Oliver H. Donn, Brentwood; Joseph Fanning, Riverdale; Charles Obold and Raymond Watts, Tuxedo; James H. Farrell, Riverroad; Charles Bentley, Landover, and William D. Beall, Ardwick. Thomas H. Mahler, A. E. Bowen, Charles Sauberlich, F. H. Gasch, and A. B. Garges were appointed a committee on arrangements, and it was announced that meetings will be held every Thursday evening until election day.

IMPURE MILK

A Scientist's Picture of the Kind That Makes Consumptives

Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Dr. Saleeby, who gained a good deal of undesirable fame by giving premature and unfounded currency to the so-called cure of cancer by the trpsin treatment, has come into the lists again—this time as a champion of pure milk.

England, according to Dr. Saleeby, has at length, found out the danger of impure milk, and the risk of infection has "become accepted by that slow-witted ass called public opinion as not only sensational, but sensationally true." When Dr. Saleeby was invited to take part in this fight for pure milk in New York City, he told the pasteurizers that "this is beginning at the wrong end," adding "with all available force," that he would not countenance even "boiled tubercle and boiled filth." In England he has been studying the milk problem at its source, and describes the process in the following manner:

"Well, for instance, and without troubling ourselves about such matters of course as the pollution of substantially all the milk with fecal material and such unconsidered trifles, let us consider the case of the milkers who have to deal with abundant traces of blood—more conspicuous by far than pus—in the contents of the milking pail. The cow, like thousands of other cows, has tuberculosis of the udder. The milkers stir the mess round, until the bright red streaks disappear, and with the remark, "We aren't going to drink it!" off the milk (and blood and pus and tubercle bacilli and excreta and the rest) goes to Brighton and Eastbourne and Hastings for the consumption of the children there making holiday."

Like every other fair minded reformer, Dr. Saleeby does not attribute such conditions to conscious callousness or malevolence. Rather he sees in the milk man a want of imagination, since they "do not see what the observer sees—the little funerals, the hopelessly riddled hipjoints, the scarr, end swollen bones, the tubercle-laden abdomens, the rotted lungs, which are the direct consequence, a little removed in time and space, but none the less real and certain, of these and the like abominations."

On the other hand, despite this terrible and oppressive picture, we see such improvements as have been made in the dairies of Richmond. We know that in New York the fight for better milk is real and effective. The dairymen themselves are beginning to understand that as better milk costs more to produce, it will sell for more money, and we may confidently hope that the time will come when an enlightened public will demand, pay for and receive pure and wholesome milk. Little children will doubtless still in many instances suffer from all the diseases which follow improper nourishment or the use of tuberculous milk, but that "slow-witted ass, the public," has at length, we think, definitely decided that impure milk is not to be tolerated.

BRYAN'S BEGINNING

They Didn't Think He Could Be Elected But He Was

Washington Post.

"Mr. Bryan's political start was due largely to accident," said former United States Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, at the Arlington. "At the time Mr. Bryan received his nomination for Congress the district was regarded as hopelessly Republican, and it was hard to get a prominent Democrat to make the race. The leading man in the district was J. Sterling Morton, who served in Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet, and he was begged to take the nomination, but declared he was tired of leading a forlorn hope, and others also declined.

"About this time along came some one who said there was a young lawyer down at Lincoln who was a good speaker and who hadn't a big law practice, and that he probably would like to make the race. This young man was Bryan, and the Democrats decided to name him in opposition to Representative Cannell, the Republican candidate. No sooner was he nominated than Bryan challenged Cannell to joint debate. Of course the latter accepted, but that was where he made a mistake. In the debate Bryan wiped the earth with him. Not only that, but his oratorical ability and his youth won him enough admirers to elect him, although a great many Republicans who voted for him had not the remotest idea he would be elected."

NOTED FEUDS IN POLITICS

Personal Quarrels Which Have Affected the Election of Presidents

Boston Globe.

Instances in which personal quarrels have affected the election of Presidents are familiar to all. Mr. Cleveland himself has had encounters with ex-Senator David B. Hill, and in 1888, when Hill was elected Governor of New York and Cleveland was defeated for President, it was suspected by many that the differences between these two Democratic leaders had brought about this mixed result of the polling.

Twenty years of bickering between Conkling and Blaine terminated in the latter's defeat for the Presidency, in 1884. In the meantime Conkling had been forced from public life, and he did not life his voice against his old antagonist. He merely declined to speak in his favor, saying, "I am not in criminal practice." When election day came, however, it was found that Blaine had lost enough votes in Congling's native county of Oneida to lose him the electoral vote of New York and the long coveted presidential chair.

Charles Sumner's quarrel with Grant did not cost the general his re-election, but it contributed materially toward the development of the liberal Republican bolt in 1872, and the campaign of Greeley, nothing in all Grant's career so disturbed his equanimity as the hostility toward him on the part of the Massachusetts Senator. The very day after the election of the President's per project for the annexation of Santo Domingo under Sumner's leadership, the latter's friend, John Lathrop Motley, was dismissed from his post as American minister in London, and Senator Hoar has described Grant as shaking his fist at the mute, offending walls of the house in which the Senator lived. The angry estrangement drove Sumner from the Republican party, brought upon him again his old heart trouble, and hastened his death.

Van Buren's factious revolt from the Democratic party, when it failed to nominate him for a third term, was so destructive to party success that his followers were called "barn burners," and likened to the tabled farmer who burned his barn to rid it of rats.

Another noted schism with far-reaching influences was that which divided Jackson and Calhoun. Arising over a personal incident, it played its part in the nullification plan which brought South Carolina on the verge of secession in the thirties, and cutting off Calhoun from the hope of the Presidency, restricted his career to his State and did much to inspire and confirm his extreme dogma of State's right.

The acrimony between Hamilton and John Adams was involved in the downfall of the Federal party. It disrupted Adams' cabinet and deprived his administration of the indispensable support of the great Federalist.

YOUNG KLOMAN A SUICIDE

Parents Objected to His Marriage, Which Was Set for Tuesday

By Wire to The Sun.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 15.—Police officials are agreed now that Andrew Kloman, third grandson of the first partner of Andrew Carnegie, committed suicide by sending a bullet through his heart with his left hand early Friday morning. At first an effort was made to keep up the impression that the young man had been murdered.

At the Mercy Hospital, Mrs. Kloman mother of the young man, and Miss Kate Jack, the young woman to whom he was to have been married on Tuesday afternoon, met for the first time last night. It was because he loved Miss Jack so that he could not give her up, though his mother refused to meet the young woman, who is a Protestant, while the Klomans are Catholics, that Kloman is said to have committed suicide. The meeting between the two women was most affecting. Mrs. Kloman fainted and had to be carried to the reception room.

The wedding was to have taken place last fall, but was postponed three times at the request of Kloman, who could not bring himself to displease his mother. While Miss Jack will not admit it, it is believed that at their meeting on Friday night, Kloman pleaded for further delay, which was refused.

New Bern Building & Loan Association

The subscription list for Series No. 34 of the New Building and Loan Association which opens October 1st, is growing daily. We expect to surpass our last April Series, which you remember exceeded 500 shares, representing over $50,000. The largest since the organization of the association 20 years ago.

Some of our enthusiastic friends think it quite as good an investment as life insurance, others class it with government and state bonds; of course we agree with them heartily, because its really the very best and most attractive investment offered in the city, considering the great benefits derived at so small an outlay. It only costs $1.25 share to join, thence $1.00 monthly. Its a rainy day provision and well worth your consideration.
