WAR CLOUDS GATHERING

European Capitals Become Pessimistic

A FEW HOURS MAY DECIDE

England Orders Two Battleships and Two Cruisers to the Grecian Archipelago—The Meaning of These Orders are Not Understood.

By Cable to The Sun.

London, Oct. 9.—Feeling in all European capitals has become decidedly pessimistic. This is partly due to the fact that service seems likely to begin the game of war within a few hours. It is expected here that Turkey will begin war within a few days. There is a small chance that international conference can now materialize.

London, Oct. 9.—Naval officers today ordered two battleships and two cruisers from Malta to the island of Lemnos, in Grecian Archipelago. The movement is probably made to protect English interests in Turkey, but there is a rumor that it is a demonstration on the part of England in support of Turkey's contention in the Balkan situation.

Bees Leave Rich Reward

Flemington, N. J., Oct. 9.—A swarm of bees took possession of the attic of the home of James P. Griss, of Baptisttown, several weeks ago. Recently the bees began hostilities which they continued until yesterday, when Griss found it necessary to suffocate them with sulphur fumes. The bees had stored 200 pounds of honey.

To Increase Capital.

Richmond, Oct. 9.—The Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company is negotiating with bankers for a sale for twelve million givers per cent bonds. The object is to increase the companies' facilities and provide additional working capital with which to transact the increasing business.

Criminal Court

The following cases were disposed of today at the session of Craven county criminal court:

- State vs. Abner Paris, charged with murder; continued until next term of court; bond $500 required.
State vs. Wm. Foscoe, charged with assault with a deadly weapon; continued to the next term of court.
State vs. Wm. Foscoe, charged with the illegal sale of liquor; continued until the next term of court.
State vs. Fordham, charged with larceny; guilty; judgment, one penny and cost.
State vs. Aaron Bell, and Ed Bryant, charged with house breaking; guilty; judgment as to Bryant, he is to be hired out, and Bell three years in jail to be assigned to the roads.
State vs. Mack Hudson, charged with the illegal sale of whiskey; continued; bond required.
State vs. Sheppard Green, charged with larceny; continued until next term of court.
State vs. A. W. Avery, charged with removing crop, continued on account of sickness of defendant, until next term of court.
State vs. M. V. Fulcher, charged with larceny; not pres, with leave.
State vs. Chan. Morrill, charged with larceny; guilty; judgment 4 months in jail, to be assigned to the roads.
State vs. M. W. Chapman, charged with house burning; not guilty. The State after examining a number of witnesses, found it was impossible to make out a case against the defendant upon which the Judge ordered a verdict of not guilty and defendant discharged.

NORTH CAROLINA'S NEXT GOVERNOR AT COURT HOUSE

Wm. W. Kitchin Electrifies Audience For Two Hours Today.

Despite the bad weather the court house was filled with people today to hear our next Governor, Hon. W. W. Kitchin speak. After a few words by Mr. S. M. Brinson, who presided over the meeting, Mr. E. M. Green, our next Representative, introduced the speaker. He said that Kitchin was The People's Choice, but that it took three days and three nights at the convention to convince him of that fact. He then compared Mr. Kitchin with William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Kitchin then began his speech stating that his throat had given him some trouble for the last three days on account of having to speak with a strong wind blowing in his face, to a large crowd. Mr. Kitchin started out by saying that you could convince a negro or a Republican that we have the right side, but when it came time to vote they would vote the wrong way. That this was done mostly through prejudice. He promised when elected Governor to give the same economical Government that we had given under Aycock and Glenn's administration. That no one would dispute that these administrations had been economical. He he sticks to his party. Get them in a good humor and they are almost a Democrat, said Mr. Kitchin. He said the madder a Democrat gets the more of a Republican he is and the better a Republican gets a more of a Democrat he is. Speaking about the recent prohibition election, Mr. Kitchin said that he had never heard of a wet Republican leaving the party. That Governor Pritchard was the greatest prohibitionist in the Republican party except Cox. He said that Cy Watson, a good Democrat, and Tom Settle, Republican, were both wet men, and that Gov. Glenn, and Judge Pritchard were likewise prohibitionists therefore the issue was not a partisan issue. Speaking of whether the people rule, he said that the people in the Republican party do not rule. He stated that a few men held the reins in the State, in a community and he supposed that if things in this county were like they were in his that three or four men bossed the Republican party, some one suggested however, that one man did the bossing in this county. Mr. Kitchin mentioned this and it brought forth laughter from the audience.

WILLIAM WALTON KITCHIN. Democratic Nominee for Governor of North Carolina

said that you could not get the Republicans to promise that if they were elected that they would give the same kind of administration as was given under Russell and his gang. He stated that they would go to the utmost extent and promise if they got control of the election machinery that they would nullify the constitutional amendment. He said they would then register ten times as many negro voters as the Democrats would for they knew that these negroes would vote the Republican ticket. He said that the Republicans would not attack our management of State affairs, of the schools, etc. They did not do so in their last platform made at Charlotte. He said that the Republicans tried to get Democrats in their party by getting them mad. He said that the madder a Republican gets the closer him. J. L. Woodcox. He stated they

He asked how Taft was nominated. He said Taft like other Republicans were always looking up. That he looked up as if expecting something and the President made him a Judge, he looked up again and the President made him Governor of the Philippines. That he looked up still another time and that the President made him the Secretary of War, and again he looked up and the President nominated him for the Presidency. He stated that a man had always been looking up would not regard the people if elected. Speaking of the Republican's nominee for Governor, J. Elwood Cox, he asked if the Republicans wanted Cox. He said that most of them had never heard of him before he was nominated at Charlotte. That some of them did not even know his name and called the madder a Republican gets the closer him. J. L. Woodcox. He stated they

HISTORY TOLD IN PICTURES

Was Greatest Day of The Week

68 SCENES ARE REPRESENTED

More Than Five Thousand People Witness The Pageant—Nothing Like It Ever Witnessed in All America—A Parade.

By Wire to The Sun.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The city today told her history in living pictures.—One of the greatest days of the week. Sixty-eight scenes were represented in pageant and five thousand people took part in it.

It was the first pageant of the kind ever given in America. Tonight the Sons of America will celebrate.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—A man was found early this morning with a gas jet clinched between his teeth, and the gas turned on full. He is believed to be Hiram Harris, a traveling salesman, from Chicago.

had never heard of him before the convention at Charlotte, and that after November they would never hear of him again (applause). Speaking of why the Republicans had nominated Mr. Cox, Mr. Kitchin told a little story of a negro boy and an old man who were on the bank of a river fishing. The negro lost his balance and fell in the river, and that after some deliberation the old man pulled off his coat and went over after him. After much struggling the old man finally rescued the boy. That while this was taking place a preacher was driving by and seeing the struggling in the water went to lend the old man a helping hand. After they had gotten the boy out the preacher asked the old man why he had risked his life to save the little negro, and the old man remarked "between breaths, 'well, parson, he had the bait." So Mr. Kitchin says this is the reason the Republicans nominated Mr. Cox. They think that he has the bait in his pocket, and they all like that kind of bait. Speaking about Taft, Mr. Kitchin said that Andrew Carnegie gave $250,000.00 to have Mr. Taft nominated and that if Mr. Taft was the enemy of the Trusts as he claimed to be, that the Trusts would not be contributing to have him elected. He said that Mr. Bryan was nominated by the people, Bryan was nominated by the people. Referring to the panic Mr. Kitchin said that the Republicans always claimed the panics came in Democratic administrations. The Republicans called this a financial disturbance. He said the Republicans had made their bed and must lie on it, and that the American people were not going to let them lie out of it as they have been doing. He dwelt at length on the Tariff Proposition. He said that we paid the sheriff our taxes and got a receipt for it and that the biggest taxes we paid we got no receipt for. He took for example tobacco. He said every time we bought a pound of tobacco we paid a tax of six cents, but we do not get a receipt. If we take a drink of liquor we also pay a tax, unless, says he, it is Republican blockade liquor. He said that tariff does not make wages. He said that the tariff laws applied to Alaska as well as to North Carolina, that in Alaska they pay five times as much wages as they do in North Carolina, and the same way in New Mexico. The Trusts, said Mr. Kitchin, are unnatural monopolies. He said that the office of Register of Deeds and others were natural monopolies. That they could be regulated. He said you can not regulate the Trusts for there are no laws by which you can fix the price on goods, therefore they can not be regulated. He asked if Roosevelt and Taft opposed the Trusts. He said they did not, for if such was the case the Trusts would not be support-

EXTEND ENDEAVOR WORK

State Convention at Atlantic City Hears Cheering Reports

By Wire to The Sun.

Atlantic City, Oct. 9.—Early arrivals of delegates to the annual convention of State Christian Endeavor Union came here today for special meetings of leaders and committees prior to the real opening of the assembly tomorrow. District secretaries, led by State Secretaries Ida B. Stephens, of New Jersey, and A. J. Shurtle, of Pennsylvania, discussed the rise in power and numbers of the society and worked out plans for still further broadening of the work.

Mrs. L. W. Miller, of Camden, one of the speakers at the session of the Junior Workers' Committee, this afternoon, declared in favor of carrying out the work of securing influence over children by enlisting mothers in the work. Other speakers favored methods by which children can be interested in the Christian Endeavor work by making them a part of each meeting. The convention of tomorrow will start with a sunrise meeting in Christ Church, to be followed by assembling of the convention on the Steel Pier, where they will be welcomed by ministers and officials of this city.

Trolley Cars Collide

By Wire to The Sun.

Haverhill, Oct. 9.—An open trolley car filled with Italian laborers, and a Georgetown regular car, with thirty eight passengers, were in collision this morning. One passenger was killed, the motorman is dying in a hospital, and ten Italians were badly hurt.

ing them. He told a story along this line of a man who had gone in a prison and turning around the corner of a building he saw a large man with a crazy look in his eyes, the man took after him, he ran as hard as he could around the buildings, and finally in the street and down the street, finally he struck a root and fell, the man in pursuit was right behind him. When he fell the man grabbed ahold of him and said: "I've got your tag." He said this was the way with Roosevelt and the Trusts. That he made a big show outwardly as if he was after the trusts, but he could see Roosevelt and Rockefeller in a room and Roosevelt telling him that in that last case "I got your tag." After discussing these issues, Mr. Kitchin predicted that Bryan would be elected. The audience was enthused with Mr. Kitchin from start to finish, and every Democrat should have just reason to feel proud of their next Governor.

SOLDIER CLAIMS BRIDE AT LAST

By Wire to The Sun.

Moorestown, N. J., Oct. 9.—After a romance lasting over five years, in which the young couple were separated by the demands of Uncle Sam, Lieutenant Emile Victor Curtrer, of Santiago, Cuba, and Miss Mary Hill Fithian were married here this afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. F. R. Fithian, by Rev. Sylvester Beach, of Princeton, a former college chum of the bride-groom. H. Fairfax Ayres of Virginia, was best man. The bridesmaid was Miss Curtrer, of Mississippi, sister of the bride-groom.

The bride was beautifully attired in white satin, embroidered with chrysanthemums. The ceremony was performed beneath the folds of an immense American flag, and the wedding cake was cut with the lieutenant's sword. The bridegroom was in full dress uniform. The couple will live in Cuba, where the lieutenant is on duty in the army.
