UNVEIL MEMORIAL TO KEY
Magnificent Fountain Recalls Author of Star Spangled Banner

Baltimore, May 17.—With appropriate ceremonies the Francis Scott Key memorial statue erected at the intersection of Lanyale street and Eutaw Place was unveiled late this afternoon Mrs. William Gilmer a granddaughter author of "The Star Spangled Banner" drew the cord releasing the drapery and W. Stuart Symington delivered the dedicatory address. Mayor Mahool accepted the memorial for the city.
 The memorial takes the form of a fountain the widest portion of the basin being about 38 feet. Rising from the centre is a pedestal bearing a narrow Doric Temple the pediment of which is supported by four columns surmounted by a figure of Liberty, like the other figures in the design, heroic in size, bearing the Stars and Stripes. The height from the tip of the flag-staff to the ground is 40 feet while the base of the temple is eight feet square.
 The figure of Key has been given a secondary place in the scene as he stands on the gunwale of a rowboat, his hat off and his features turned to the statue of Liberty. The memorial is the gift of the late Charles L. Marburg of this city through a provision in his will.

Tuberculosis Fighters Want New Health Committee
 A protest is registered in a statement given out today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis against the existing conditions in Congress which require measures concerning public health to be referred to a committee on commerce. At the same time, a plea was made for a new Committee on Public Health in the House of Representatives, similar to the one now existing in the Senate.
 The National Association in its statement supports the Committee of One Hundred on National Health in its assertion that under the present division of committees, owing to the large number of measures before the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, public health matters do not receive the attention they deserve. The statement says that hogs, cows, and steel rails receive much more attention that that most vital of all matters, public health and the prevention of disease. At the present time, the anti-tuberculosis workers declare, no committee in the House has any direct responsibility for health legislation. It is therefore suggested that a new committee be formed, similar to the one in the Senate.

 The National Association is appealing to its 510 affiliated associations in all parts of the United States to support the movement for the formation of such a committee in the House
