COLLEGE GIRLS DEFACE HIGH MOUNTAIN PEAK

Climbed to Summit of Long's Peak and Painted Letters Of Their Order.

Denver, Sept. 14.—Girl members of a Greek sorority arduously climbed 14,000 feet to the summit of Long's Peak, painted upon the "boulder field" on the mountain the letters of their order and later were forced by United States Forester Wheeler to return and efface the letters.

Hours were required by the girls to make the hazardous climb to the summit of Long's Peak. It is one of the most difficult peaks in the State to scale, but the girls kept at it and finally reached the point they had laboriously carried with them, they dabbed upon the bare face of the peak the insignia of their sorority.

In Fort Collins, United States Forester Wheeler was sweeping the mountains with his glasses, covering the United States forest reserves in which Long's Peak is located. He discovered the letters of the Greek sorority starting forth from the face of the peak. Mr. Wheeler then began searching for the persons who had placed the letters. He found, first, that it was a girl's society, and with a little more work discovered the identity of the girls. He summoned them to his office and told them that the United States government strictly prohibited the defacing of any scenery within the forest reserves. They were told that to escape prosecution and punishment there was only one way; it was to go back and efface the letters.

The girls sought legal advice and learned that the forester was correct. Then they again made the long and difficult climb to reach their letters. Slowly and with great difficulty they made their way back to the foot of the towering mountain.

"I have promised not to give the names of the young persons who defaced boulders on the face of the peak," said Mr. Wheeler. "I can very well appreciate the spirit of the individuals who, under such arduous circumstances sought to feature the existence of their fraternity on so lofty and conspicuous a landmark. On the other hand we are making every possible effort to preserve the natural beauty of the scenery within the national forests for the benefit of the public in general, and must consistently discourage any inclination on the part of individuals to mar, deface or render unsightly any part of the objects which add to the forest as a natural playground."

WEIRD PROPHECY OF WORLD-WIDE WARFARE

Paris Paper Applies Utterance of 16th Century Monk to Present War.

Paris, Sept. 14.—The Figaro prints the commencement of a Latin prophecy dated in 1600. The author is not known. The monk Johannes has written the verses like a chapter of the Bible.

Verse 2 says: "It is true that anti-Christ will be a monarch, a son of Luther, invoking God and calling himself God's envoy."
Verse 4 says: "He will have only one arm, but innumerable armies whose device will be 'God with us.'"
Verse 5: "He will use craft and felony for a long time with spies throughout the world."
Verse 6: "He will have learned men in his pay proving his mission to be divine."
Verse 7: "War will provide an opportunity to raise the mask. It will not be a war against the French monarch, but another, which will be recognized by becoming universal in a fortnight."

Verse 8: "All Christians and all Mussulmans, and even the most distant nations, will partake. Armies will be formed in the four corners of the world and eight angels will open men's eyes to understand by the third week that if they fight not anti-Christ all will become his slaves."
Verse 10: "Anti-Christ will be recognizable by his massacring priests and monks and women and children, and aged persons. No mercy will be shown. He will pass, torch in hand, like the barbarians, but invoking Christ."

Verse 11: "His words will be Christ-like, but his acts Nero-like. His coat of arms will contain an eagle as also will the coat of arms of his acolyte, another evil monarch."
Verse 12: "The latter is a Christian and will die by the malediction of Pope Benedict, who will be elected at the commencement of Anti-Christ's reign."

Verse 13: "Priests will no longer confess and absolve the combatants, because the priests will be fighting in the ranks, and Benedict will curse anti-Christ, proclaiming all fighting against him to be in a state of grace ascending to heaven like the martyrs if killed."

Verse 14: "A papal bull proclaiming this will have a tremendous effect in rallying courage and the death of Anti-Christ and his ally."

Verse 15: "The conquest of Anti-Christ needs more men killed than Rome ever contained. All realms must participate for the cock, the leopard and the white eagle cannot exterminate the black eagle unless the prayers of the whole of humanity assist them."

Verse 16: "Humanity will never run such a danger, because the triumph of Anti-Christ would be equivalent to the triumph of the demon in whom he is incarnated."

Verse 17: "For twenty centuries after the incarnation of the word it will have been prophesied that a beast would be incarnated, in turn threatening the earth with many evils and ills as the divine incarnation brought favors."

The Figaro adds: "The foregoing is only part of the prophecy, the remainder promises France and the world an era of peace after a terrible vengeance surpassing even French deities."

THE NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY LAW.

The Newspaper Publicity Law enacted by Congress some time ago ought to be applied to many other business organizations. This law provides that all publications must file an affidavit with the Postmaster General setting forth full information concerning their ownership, management, circulation, etc. A copy of this affidavit must be printed in certain designated issues of the paper, and a marked copy thereof filed with the Postmaster General. Failure to do this will authorize the Postmaster General to deny the use of the mails to the offending publication.

A similar law applied to other organizations would work equally well and would eradicate many evils, much corruption and mismanagement. For instance, if labor organizations were required to publish full information as to their objects and their transactions, and to make public an account of their moneys, dues, etc., many abuses that now exist would be removed. Labor organizations should not curry favor from legislatures and Congress any more than business organizations, and they have no right to special exemption from anti-trust legislation. A labor union is a form of labor trust.

Business should be required to give full publicity as to prices, volume of business, methods of operation, etc., so as to give each competitor the right conclusions concerning their particular field of industry.

We need publicity of all business organizations to cure the evils of mismanagement, and we need it for labor unions, as well, to bring a stop to their frequent abuse and their underhand methods of attaining unlawful objects. A law which could produce such results would bring civil labor into the open field and their differences would be less and they could be settled more amicably than they are now.
